BRITISH BLOW FAILS

SUFFER HEAVY LOSS AT YPRES

Germans Hurl Back New Effort of the English to Retake Trenches.

BAYONET ATTACK CARRIED ERZERUM

City Held Out But 36 Hours
With Temperature 30
Below Zero.

Today's War News Given in Summary

The British evidently are retreating under the continued occupation by the Germans of the several hundred yards of a first line trench south of Ypres, lost in recent fighting. Berlin today reports another attempt by the British to retake the position, but declares the effort failed with heavy losses.

South of the river Somme, where the French recently lost ground and have been counter attacking, they essayed a fresh attack, but according to Berlin the offensive broke down under the German fire.

Elsewhere along the Franco-Belgian front the operations have been of a minor nature, such as outpost engagements, and mining operations, with a German air raid on Poperinghe, Belgium. Paris reports the night uneventful along the entire French line.

The Russian war office has officially announced in its regular bulletin the capture of Erzerum from the Turks, but has furnished no details of the number of prisoners captured or guns taken.

Much speculation regarding the probable further course of events in the campaign about Erzerum is being indulged in, but there is little positive information regarding the numbers and positions of the opposing forces. One report says the Russians have pushed a force north-west from Erzerum and that this body of troops already has reached Balurt, 75 miles away, on the road to Trabzon, the important Turkish port on the Black sea.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The British have made a new attempt to retake the position southwest of Ypres, Belgium, recently captured by the Germans, but were beaten off with heavy losses, it was officially announced today.

The Cologne Volks-Zeitung says that Major General Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British forces in Egypt, has ordered the withdrawal of Mohammedan troops from the Suez canal and their transportation to another war theater where they will not fight against Mohammedans. It is said there have been frequent desertions among these troops.

YIELDED TO BAYONET ATTACK.

Erzerum Held Out But 36 Hours in Bitterly Cold Weather.

Petrograd, Feb. 18.—The fall of Erzerum, the most important Turkish stronghold in Asia Minor and for a long time considered impregnable, offers the unprecedented spectacle of a first-class fortress built on a steep

HE SAYS HE'S 69—BUT NOT TOO OLD TO FIGHT.

Washington, Feb. 18.—S. A. Walden, a confederate veteran of Murfreesboro, Tenn., who wrote that he was 69 years old, but not too old to fight, today sent President Wilson a sword made of cedar from the Stone river battlefield, as an evidence of his interest in the preparedness program.

GOOD GRUBBING ON NEW COUNTY FARM FOR "LAZY HUSBAND" LAW PRISONERS

There is good grubbing and lots of it, and maybe good grub, though not so much of it, on the new county farm north of the city, for convicts sentenced to labor under the "lazy husband" act of the last legislature. The county commissioners on Friday arranged to find employment at grubbing in the jungles on the farm for Homer Young, the first convict to go from the circuit court on a commitment accompanied by an order that the board put him at work. Young was sentenced to six months at labor by Judge John W. Eggenman, who found him guilty of neglecting his children. He will be paid one dollar a day and the court's order directs that this be paid to the wife, Emma Young.

RIGID POLICE GUARD PLANNED AT K. C. BALL

in New York.

New York, Feb. 18.—The fact that Jean Crones, the anarchist chef who is accused of poisoning the soup at a dinner given by Catholic clergy to Archbishop Mundelein, in Chicago, is supposed to be in this city caused the police today to take extraordinary precautions to safeguard guests attending a ball to be given tonight by the Knights of Columbus.

The ball is to be held in Madison Square garden and Gov. Whitman, high city officials and many dignitaries of the Catholic church are expected to be present. Detectives have been ordered to watch every section of the auditorium and another large detail will patrol the environs of the garden.

The police have been spurred to renewed activity by the definite establishment of the fact that two letters, received by the New York Times and purporting to have been written by Crones, were mailed in New York. The second letter which was received by the Times last night and published this morning conveyed a threat that a new outrage was planned in this city.

DIES FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED IN FALL

Fractured Skull Fatal to
in Fort Wayne.

Walter Lynn, aged 25 years, of Etna Green, Kosciusko county, died at Hope hospital at noon Friday from injuries which he received in a fall while out hunting Thursday afternoon. He was brought to the local institution at midnight, suffering from a fractured skull. An operation was performed early Friday morning but of no avail.

The young man in company with several others went into the woods Thursday afternoon to hunt. While climbing in a tree he slipped and fell headlong to the ground a distance of ten or twelve feet. He was unconscious when his companions reached his side and he was hurried to his home, where it was found that it was necessary to have him removed to the hospital.

The parents and several brothers and sisters survive him. The body was shipped to Elkhart Friday afternoon by Sheuman & Son.

LATKER LEASES ROOM IN THE LAU BUILDING

Louis Latker, clothing merchant, has closed a lease with Louis Fox for the room now occupied by the Rodenbeck hair bazar at 1004 Calhoun street, in the Lau block, and will open a store about Easter with a full line of clothing.

POSTMASTER WILL MAKE APPOINTMENTS

Announcement will soon be made by Postmaster Edward C. Miller of the appointment of two substitute carriers and one clerk. The postmaster will make the appointments out of a list of over fifty who have passed the civil service examination and are eligible. The two substitute carriers and clerk will be the first three on the list of eligibles, which are arranged according to the grade each received.

PLAN TO USE SWINNEY PARK FOR CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

By constructing seats in the semi-circle to the left, and the stage across the river, it is planned to have an amphitheater to seat ten thousand people in Swinney park for the centennial celebration next summer. The photograph was made facing west from the park entrance.

TEAM-WORK A DEATH BLOW

Men's League and Saloon Men Crimp Cramer's

LET'S PETITION DIE BY DEFAULT

Liquor Dealers' Board of Censors Blocks Bond
for Appeal.

Team-work by the Men's Christian league and the board of censors of the Licensed Liquor Dealers' association blew up Frank Cramer's ambitions project to buy the license of Andy J. Kelly and transfer it from 1618 Calhoun street to 2116 Winter street. Cramer's undertaking is wrecked and dead.

The board of county commissioners on Monday, February 7, refused to grant the transfer, when it was found that Cramer's taxes were delinquent and Rev. James A. Nipper filed a remonstrance.

Cramer announced that he would appeal from the board to the higher court and give the commissioners and the balance of the opposition a fight. In preparation for this he paid his taxes and otherwise got ready. Thursday, February 17, was the last day in which he could file a valid appeal bond. He did not file it, and his application is dead by that default.

When Cramer appeared to contest the decision of the commissioners he did not count on having the Liquor Dealers' association to back. But the opposition was lurking in his pathway quite the same. Frank M. Morches, Henry Hunsche, Albert C. Heckler and Louis G. Julliard, composing the association's board of censors, got busy and did some strong work to prevent Cramer, who has no money or property of his own, from procuring an appeal bond. The brewery on which he was relying to furnish the bond backed away and left him helpless.

Frank Morches and others of the association stated Friday that if Cramer had been able to procure a bond to make an appeal the association would have fought him in the upper courts, joining heartily with the Men's league in that purpose.

"We are going to clean up the saloon business in Fort Wayne," said Mr. Morches, "and we were dead against Cramer's enterprise."

Some weeks ago Cramer was turned down by the commissioners in the same attempt, the board standing for its policy not to authorize the transfer of saloons from the business to a residence district. Then Cramer came back with a second application and expected to fight his way through.

BELIEVE GIRL IS LONG- LOST CATHERINE WINTERS.

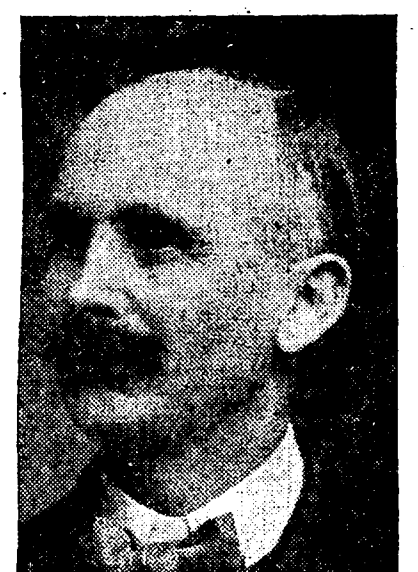

Newport, Ky., Feb. 18.—Word was received today from Newcastle, Ind., that Dr. W. A. Winters was on his way to this city to look at a young girl who officials of the Campbell County Humane society believe to be his long lost daughter, Catherine.

The girl gives the name of Lucy Atkins and was taken from John Atkins, 80 years old. Atkins arrived here with his wife and family several weeks ago. He insists that the girl is his own daughter, but the humane society officials say he gave unsatisfactory answers regarding the birth of the child.

CALVIN HOSLER IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Former Tea Merchant Was Long Street Railway Transfer Man.

Calvin Hosler, 52 years of age, and until four months ago manager of the local store of the Union Pacific Tea company, died at 10:15 o'clock Thursday night at the family home, 439

CALVIN HOSLER.

East Taber street. Death was due to pneumonia and it followed a brief illness, though Mr. Hosler had been in failing health for some months and for that reason had been compelled to relinquish work.

For many years he was employed on the city street railway lines as transfer agent at Main and Calhoun streets, his service there dating from the old days of the horse cars in Fort Wayne, and he was very widely and favorably known.

Mr. Hosler was a member of Sol D. Bayless lodge of Masons and of Mechanics lodge of Odd Fellows. He was a member of the Red Men. Besides the widow he is survived by one son, Jesse Hosler and by one brother and four sisters—Edward Hosler, Muskegon, Mich.; Mrs. William Buss, Pontiac, Mich.; Mrs. George Everett, Indianapolis, and Mrs. Rol and Walker, Fort Wayne.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence in charge of the Masons, with the Red Men in charge at the grave; interment at Leo cemetery.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED

Two days after the accident occurred, John Siler, residing near the Four-mile house on the Lincoln highway east of Fort Wayne, has been identified as the man who was struck about 8:30 Wednesday night by H. L. Daler's motorcycle at the corner of Maumee and Glasgow avenues, when Daler himself was thrown from his machine, rendered unconscious and sustained serious injuries to one leg. Siler has been found with a broken leg in the Lutheran hospital where he is under the care of Dr. J. H. Hoeford. When Policeman John Keintz investigated the accident, Wednesday night, immediately after it occurred, Daler was in such a dazed condition he could give no description of the man he had struck and no one about the scene of the mishap had taken the trouble to learn his name. Siler was taken to the hospital Wednesday night by Dr. Hoeford and meanwhile the police had been trying to learn the man's identity. Siler is getting along well.

SUBMARINE CASE BEFORE CABINET

Bernstorff Transmits U. S.
View to the Berlin Government.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The submarine situation with its new developments was discussed at today's cabinet meeting. Secretary Lansing went to the white house before the cabinet assembled and discussed the question with the president at some length.

It was indicated today that Austria too, will be notified of the assurances which the United States is asking for the future so that the position of this government may be fully and uniformly known to the German allies.

A long dispatch from Ambassador Bernstorff was on its way to Berlin today explaining that in its negotiations with Germany over submarine warfare the United States will accept nothing short of a complete agreement covering all points for which it has contended at assurance that the warfare in the future will be conducted in accordance with the established principles of international law.

It is understood that the ambassador informed his government that the United States considers Germany's declaration of its intention to sink armed merchant ships without warning after February 29 is inconsistent with the assurances given in the Arabic case.

RAILROAD COMPANY FILES SUIT FOR $5

That $5 looks as good to a railroad company as it does to the average individual was shown Friday in a suit which the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad company, through its attorney, Walter Olds, filed in the federal court against Harry Clinton Parkinson. The complaint sets forth that on January 8, 1914, Parkinson shipped a carload of dressed poultry from Ossian to Harlow Brothers, Buffalo, and at Bellevue, Ohio, it became necessary for the railroad company to ice the car. The cost of ice amounted to $5 which the complaint alleges Parkinson refuses to pay. The company is asking for the $5 with interest from January 10, 1914.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO CHARTER TRAIN

Fort Wayne commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar, will charter a special train to Indianapolis on May 14 on account of the grand convocation to be held in that city on that date. The band will accompany the local Knights and every possible effort is being made to make a good showing.

At the meeting of the commandery Thursday evening Willis Hatterley was elected a trustee to succeed his father, the late Alfred Hatterley, who served as trustee of the Fort Wayne commandery for over thirty years.

THOROUGH SEARCH AT RED KEY IS FUTILE

If Brown Has Been Slain,
His Body Has Been Safely Hidden.

Red Key, Ind., Feb. 18.—The town of Red Key was thoroughly searched for Roy Brown. About fifty men from Ridgeville, the home of the Brown family, assisted. A large crowd of men divided in squads of three and four men. They examined every alley in town and looked into every old building, in old wells and in every secluded spot. If Roy Brown has been killed, which is the popular opinion, his body has been successfully disposed of.

CRACKSMEN FOIL SELVES.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—Safe crackers, who exploded a charge of nitroglycerine in a safe in the office of the George Hitz & Co. commission house, one block from the police station early today, foiled themselves. An overcharge or an insufficient charge of the explosive jammed the doors of the safe so that the robbers were unable to open them. It is believed they feared to explode a second charge.

"Was there any money in the safe?" Mr. Hitz was asked.

"Well, a little," he said. "Enough to have repaid the safe crackers for their efforts."

BAD WATER AT GARY.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 18.—An epidemic, attributed to contamination of the drinking water, has afflicted scores of persons in Gary. The symptoms resemble those of ptomaine poisoning. Patients suffer severe intestinal disorders, accompanied by a fever. For several days the drinking water, which is obtained from Lake Michigan, had a strong odor.

APPLE KINGS BUSY.

Orleans, Ind., Feb. 18.—The "apple kings" of Orange county promise to make the next state apple show, which will be held at Vevor, Ind., the best ever held in the state. Robert A. Troth and Joe A. Burton, leading apple growers, have raised $500 for purses. This is the first time the show will be held away from Indianapolis and the recognition of the apple industry in southern Indiana is viewed with satisfaction by apple growers here.

COLD WAVE COMING SAYS WEATHERMAN

Those who have permitted their coal bins to get low during the comparatively warm weather that has prevailed during the past few days, had better put in a telephone call to the coal man post haste. A cold wave is on its way, according to prognosticator Patrick McDonough and by the usual methods of calculating speed and distance it should arrive sometime tonight. There is little possibility of it getting sidetracked, for the reason that it hasn't for to come and is now sweeping southward from the north, where, according to telegraphic reports, below zero weather was very much in evidence during the morning hours.

WILL HAVE BUSY SESSION.

Much Business Before Meeting of Logansport Presbytery.

Tyler, Franklin, Ind., from the Presbytery of Indianapolis, and to arrange for his installation over Calvary church of Logansport; grant Rev. J. R. Skinner a letter to the Presbytery of Mattoon, Ill.; to receive Rev. E. F. Lively, Winona Lake, from the Presbytery of Fort Wayne and to arrange for his installation over the church at Remington; receive Rev. W. E. Kunz, of Chicago from the Presbytery of Chicago and to arrange for his installation over the church at Rensselaer.

London, Feb. 18.—New votes of credit amounting to approximately £4,000,000 will be asked by Premier Asquith, of the house of commons on Monday. The new vote will bring up the total of war loans to £1,000,000,000.

HANS SCHMIDT PAYS PENALTY

Ex-Priest Dies in Electric Chair for Murder of Miss Aumüller.

MAKES A TALK TO WITNESSES

Goes to Death Asking Forgiveness and Granting
It to Others.

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Hans Schmidt was electrocuted at Sing Sing today for the murder of Anna Aumüller, Sept. 20, 1913.

Schmidt went quietly to the death chamber, accompanied by the principal keeper and Rev. Father Caspin, the prison chaplain. Leaving the death house he said good-bye to those who remained. When he entered the room guards attempted to direct him toward the chair but Schmidt gently shook them off and insisted upon addressing the seventeen witnesses. The guard desisted from their efforts and with Father Caspin at one side and the keeper at the other, Schmidt said:

"Gentlemen, I ask forgiveness of all those I have injured or scandalized. I forgive all who have injured me. My last wish is to say good-bye to my dear old mother."

Dead Within Minute.

Schmidt then seated himself in the electric chair and the current was applied three times. Within a minute he was dead.

He had spent the night up to midnight praying and talking with Father Caspin and slept from midnight to 5 o'clock when he was awakened for breakfast. He would take only a cup of coffee.

Schmidt last night issued a statement through his attorney declaring he was "fully reconciled to die and willingly accepted death as retribution for his crimes."

Schmidt asserted, however, that he would be executed for "lying and not for murder," because Miss Aumüller's death resulted from an operation, but added, "I felt morally responsible for the girl's death and could not in honor drag those to ruin who took part in the operation at my solicitation."

"I hope and pray that time will prove every one of my contentions and that my judicial murder will help to abolish executions, for not one-third of the men who have been in the death chamber with me, including Becker, were guilty of murder."

History of the Case.

When the torso of Anna Aumüller was washed up on the New Jersey shore of the Hudson river there started a search which has had but few parallels in the annals of New York crime. There was left one faint clue, a pillowslip on which was embroidered the letter "A," but it was just such a pillowslip as might be found in hundreds of homes or stores. There was not even a laundry mark to aid the police. With this slender clue Inspector Farnd took a seasonal change of the case, and on Sept. 14, 1913, two days after the murder, Hans Schmidt, an assistant priest at an uptown church, was arrested charged with the crime. An hour before the arrest the inspector had broken into a flat and found a long bladed butcher's knife and other evidence that the murder had been committed. Schmidt confessed and his defense was that it was a "blood sacrifice murder." The body had been dismembered and presumably

Fort Wayne Man Who Died at Cincinnati

WILLIAM C. KLITZKE.

Mr. Klitzke, president of the Fort Wayne Dairy company and principal owner of the Fort Wayne baseball team last year, died Thursday night in a hospital in Cincinnati, wither he had been for treatment. He had been in "fair health for some time."

AUTO DRIVER FINED IN THE CITY COURT

Clarence Rosenthal Pushed
His Machine Past Standing Street Car.

Clarence Rosenthal, driver of an automobile, was found guilty in the city court, Friday morning, of violating the state traffic laws by driving his automobile past a street car that was stopped to receive and discharge passengers. He was fined $1 and costs and paid up. The offense was committed Wednesday morning at the corner of Calhoun and Wallace streets. Fred Fahlberg, claim agent for the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, was about to board the car and passengers were about to leave it when Rosenthal is said to have driven at rapid speed north on Calhoun street. Some of the testimony was confused as to the day of the violation and one witness for the state who testified as to the identity of the automobile had forgotten the number of its license, but in other respects the testimony was convincing. Rosenthal swore that he had stopped his machine when the street car stopped, but seeing no doors opened and noticing no one about to get on or off, started his auto and drove past.

Other City Court Cases.
Ed Lauer, who was in the city court a few days ago on a drunk charge and was turned loose after giving testimony on which Walter Wedlaw, a negro was convicted on a blind tiger charge, was back again Friday morning. He was continued until Saturday and locked up in default of $25 bond.

Lee Phillips, an invalid from dry Angola, came down Thursday to consult a physician. He did not say that his prescription called for copious imbibitions of red liquor, but that is what he took and he was found down and out at 1 o'clock Friday morning in the Lake Shore hotel. George Kern, fined him $1 and costs and he went to jail. Ora Ormsby, a young man who got drunk, had trouble with a friend and transferred the occasion to Policeman Galentine, who arrested him. He was fined $1 and costs.

Frank Griffith was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness and Jake Rudisill, another source, was turned loose.

Carl Collins, a vag, and Frank Ward and Steward Clery, loiterers, were given indefinite continuances. Mrs. L. M. Blackley, a dope fiend who was arrested several days ago for disorderly conduct near her home on Michigan avenue, was continued until March 18 and released on her own recognizance.

HUNDREDS OF FLOOD REFUGEES NEED AID

Southern Cities Make Preparations for Extensive Relief Work.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 18.—Preparations for taking care of hundreds of additional refugees, made homeless by the flood waters still pouring through the Buckridge crevasse were being made today at Natchez, Miss., and Vidalia, La. Rescue boats are expected at Natchez today. Flood waters today were threatening several thousand head of cattle, mules and horses corralled on Sicily island, near St. Joseph. Many isolated small groups of refugees in the vicinity of Newelltown have been concentrated at central points. Next to food, boats are said to be most needed in the flooded areas.

No new breaks in any of the levees were reported by the state and federal engineers.

The death list today remained at three, the victims being unidentified negroes.

HINDUS MUTINY IN EGYPT, IS REPORT

British Quell Insurgents
Only After Battle of
Two Hours.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—A mutiny of Hindu troops in Egypt is reported by the Cologne Volks Zeitung as quoted by the Overseas News agency. It is said an entire regiment mutinied, killing twelve officers, including a major and that other Hindu troops went over to the mutineers. After a battle of two hours, it is said, the mutinous troops were routed. The news agency's statement follows:
"The Cologne Volks Zeitung publishes a report received from reliable sources that strong opposition has developed among the Hindu troops to the British. A captain of the Australian troops named Brown on Jan. 10 shot two servants who had made a mistake, the Gazette says. Two Hindus who witnessed the incident, killed the captain with a bayonet.
"The whole regiment then mutinied. A majority of the officers saved themselves by flight, but twelve of them, including the commander of the regiment and a major were killed.
"Other Hindu troops were sent to suppress the uprising but refused to fire on the mutineers, to whom part of them went over. After two hours of fighting with Australian regiments part of the mutineers fled into the desert. The others were killed or wounded.
"There have been other cases of mutiny, but the British have prevented publication of the details."

Woman Risked Her Life in Flood to Save San Diego Valley Dam

During Midnight Storm, as Flood Water Swept Down,
Mrs. Mary McQuarrie
Answered Duty's Call—
La Mesa Dam Safe.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 18.—A telephone call jingled at midnight.

The call wasn't very distinct, for the wires, half down, were swaying in the storm outside.

But it was loud enough to awaken the woman in the dark little room. It wouldn't have taken much more than a pin-fall to do that.

"Turn loose the water in the reserve mains at once. You'll have to hurry to save the dam!"

That was the order that came over the telephone.
Mrs. Mary McQuarrie, custodian of the La Mesa dam, didn't lose a second's time.

Without waiting to strike a light, she was out in the rain storm. Tumbling, slipping and falling, she finally managed to get to the bottom of the steep, rocky ravine at the base of the dam. She was out of breath and her body was bruised and scratched, but she twisted the wheel on the shut-off valve with a man's strength.

The force of the waters, as they rushed out, wrecked the pump-house and drenched Mrs. McQuarrie.

Men came out the next day and took one look at the rising waters in the dam, at the rushing spillway several feet deep in water.

"You risked your life to go down there last night," they told Mrs. McQuarrie, "and you saved the dam."

Mrs. McQuarrie smiled. "That's what I am here for," was all she had to say. Mrs. McQuarrie is on the job every day in the year as custodian of the La Mesa dam. It was during the height of the recent rain storm that her prompt action saved the structure from flood waters that rushed down on it. During the rains she stayed at her post, never consenting to rest from her long vigil until the fight against the floods was won.

Mrs. McQuarrie's husband was drowned at Cuyamaca lake during a rain storm three years ago. He was keeper of the dam at that place.

But she has always one eye open for the safety of the dam. That's the most important thing for her.

"I feel safer with Mrs. McQuarrie on the job at La Mesa than if a man were there," says Col. Ed Fletcher, who employs her.

and every possible effort will be made to demonstrate Hanna's strength.

Both Charles R. Lane and Prof. L. W. Fairfield, the other two republican congressional candidates, will be well represented, however. All three candidates are expected to make speeches.

Another New Club.
Another Harry S. New for Senator club was organized Thursday evening at a meeting held in the Jones paint shop on East Leith street, with the election of the following officers: E. F. Scheumann, president; E. K. Dorr, vice president; D. J. Baker, secretary. The following executive committee was appointed: H. K. Reynolds, E. C. Barber, O. G. Meyer, H. G. Culp, G. A. Shunt, Theodore Bohr, W. L. McMillen, C. H. Hendlin, Sherman Cuthall, Sol A. Wood, C. Marts, Leonard F. Wood, R. M. Mullan, A. G. Ward, A. J. Smith. Addresses were delivered by H. G. Culp, H. K. NOVEL AEROPLANE ABSOLUTELY SAFE

Dayton Man Says He Has Craft Which Will Not Fall.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 18.—Word has been received here that patents have been applied for on a new type of aeroplane which is the invention of Charles E. Stacy, of this city.

Mr. Stacy says he has a model airplane demonstrating his invention. A simple and entirely new control handle the operator to certain angles of steering, elevating or descending. The airplane has gyroscopic fly wheels. The safety of the plane is not dependent on these.

Any way the plan is dropped, upside down, sideways, backwards or forwards, it will right itself to flying position and gracefully glide to the earth. The features of the control have never before been tried out or even suggested before, as far as Mr. Stacy has been able to learn in going after his patents.

The inventions are the results of 16 years of study of the theory of flying and of the performances of other aeroplanes. Mr. Stacy has built other models which have been successful, but which he did not reveal publicly because they did not have the element of absolute safety he believes he has achieved in his latest machine.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course, Moody Bible Institute.)
(Copyright, 1914, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 20

CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 4:32-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love one another from the heart fervently.—1 Pet. 1:22 R. V.

The Sanhedrin had tried threatening upon the disciples and this is generally pretty weak business. But their threat meant danger and the disciples were not unduly puffed up over their deliverance. With all their believing friends they prayed and in response the Holy Spirit came upon them in still further measure (4:28-31).

1. The Spirit-Filled Believers, 4:32-37. The two sections of this lesson are really one and are designed to bring out sharply the contrast between the Holy Spirit-filled church and an evil spirit-filled man. The communism of the early church was (a) Christian communion (see 2:44); and it was (b) for a special occasion; (c) it was benevolent—each had according to his "needs" (4:34, 35); (d) it was voluntary (5:4); and (e) it recognized the right to private property (see 5:4, 9). He, the Holy Spirit, does bring that unity, that altruism, those active social relations and services of which Pentecostal communism is the type. Unity and love are seen in genuine Christianity in all ages, but the forms of their expression may differ. The power of the Holy Spirit was manifested, not merely in love and unity which it produced, in the brotherhood thus evidenced, but also in the testimony given for the Lord Jesus Christ, "with great power gave the apostles witness to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus." There is much witness to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ in our day, but not always "with great power." When we are filled with the Holy Spirit it is of Jesus, and especially of his resurrection, that we will bear witness. Another result of being filled with the Holy Spirit was that grace was upon all. "Grace" means favor. We are not told whether it was God's favor or man's favor that was upon them. It seems to imply both (see Luke 2:52). No man looked upon his own interests, but "every man on the things of others." Distribution was made according as each had need, not according to his ability, not according to his notable service. The pre-eminent illustration of Christian love in the brotherhood at Jerusalem was Barnabas. If we had more of such today we would have less of union labor troubles and missionary deficits. We do well to consider carefully the six distinguishing features of the six churches: (1) A praying church (4:24-30), (2) A Spirit-filled church (31), (3) A united church (32), (4) A witnessing church (33), (5) A ministering church (34, 35), (6) A multiplying church (36, 37).

II. The Devil-Possessed Unbeliever, 5:1-16. Barnabas had received great praise for what he had done at the impulse of the Holy Spirit in his life. It is an exceedingly fair picture, but the scene of the early church had been from foes without, now it faces the greater peril of foes within. And when this great question, regarding the deity and personality of the Holy Spirit, is first brought to light, God, through his church, dealt with it in a stern manner. The devil is always presenting his imitations of everything good and holy. Ananias and Sapphira were not willing to make a like sacrifice. They, too, "sold a possession," but they secreted a part of the price and brought the rest with the intent to deceive the church. The Holy Spirit quickly informed the church of this hypocrisy and, Spirit-guided, they were not deceived. For Ananias to lie in the atmosphere of love and consecration engendered by the Holy Spirit made his crime the more unpardonable. The same words are used in describing his actions as those used in describing the actions of Barnabas up to a certain point. But what a difference we see subsequently. In the case of Barnabas his act was a deed of self-forgetting love; in the case of Ananias it was one of calculating hypocrisy. We thus see that the early church was not as perfect as some would have us imagine it to be.

The second section of this paragraph (vv. 12-16) is a record of what the results of this vindication of the Holy Spirit were. First the Spirit came upon the apostles and literally overflowed upon all those about them. In the second place those who were thinking of joining the church for mercenary motives were held back from so doing (v. 13).

If the Holy Spirit were present in such power today there would be fewer hypocrites who would dare to join themselves to it.

The deception of Ananias was deliberate (v. 4); he had talked it over with his wife (vv. 2, 9), and he was a grave danger to this early church. It threatened to choke the very fountain of love and unity which had sprung up in the midst of the selfish world.

The stern judgment that came upon Ananias and Sapphira was richly merited and indeed was gracious, for it sifted and saved the church.

A Full Measure of Value for Every Man All of the Time

You have never heard of Uncle Sam lowering the standard of a ten dollar gold piece. The government in issuing money, sets a value to which it must measure up to. It is the same way with Sherman's Clothes—made in our own factory, sold only in our own stores and measuring up to a standard of value we set—that the cloth must be all-wool before it is put into making. These clothes cannot be sold at wholesale any cheaper than they are sold to you and whereby you save the regular retailer's profit of $5 to $8.

You have your choice of hundreds of different styles of suits and overcoats in any material. We never have sales or any catch-penny prices, but always good honest values to offer you. An iron-clad guarantee goes with every garment that it gives you absolute satisfaction in every way or your money back. Come to Sherman's today or tomorrow and spend five minutes of your time. Look over this large, well assorted stock of clothes for men and young men. You will be under no obligations to buy.

ROOSEVELT TO RUN ANYWAY, IS BELIEF

Perkins and Other Signs Seem to Be Pointing That Way.

By Gilson Gardner
Washington, Feb. 18.—Roosevelt will run anyway. A trip to New York before Roosevelt left for the West Indies has convinced me of this much, George W. Perkins thinks so too. I had a long talk with Perkins. He thinks Roosevelt can win even in a three-cornered fight; so, as T. Burton would say, "The die are down," or as a great German student has rendered it, "The bones are in the rig."

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin, a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from all skin diseases are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-checked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside beauty because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Advertisement.

may go as far as they like. They may go ahead and get their hand-picked delegates and arrange for their dark horses and masked marvels until the gong sounds. The little old B. Moose bunch is going to rally around the antlers again. Once more the Florentine room in the Congress hotel will echo to the roar of the bull moose and once more in the auditorium hall the hosts of Armageddon will assemble to do battle for the Lord—and T. Roosevelt.

"You can't beat somebody with nobody," Dick Croker used to say. That is why Perkins is chippy. Weeks, Burton and other "white hopes" of the Barnes-Penrose-Crane-Smoother managers are "nobody" in the estimation of Perkins, while T. R. stands for "somebody." He believes the vagueness and indecisiveness of the standard republican campaign will be its undoing. Already the prospective southern delegates demand to know for whom they are going to vote. They want at least a prospect of winning—the jobs! No more Taft campaigns for theirs!

The standard game has been much weakened by the premature appearance of old General True-servity. There isn't a grave-digger's chance for Barnes & Co. to be the advance agents of a prosperity which is prancing around with all four hoofs in their faces. The tariff issue—including a tariff commission—is now unanimous, having been adopted and endorsed by W. Wilson, et al. Everybody's for preparedness with the biggest navy in the world. So there's no issue between anybody, except the personal issue between T. Roosevelt and W. Wilson; which issue is sharp and acrid.

Of course the three-cornered fight may become a two-cornered fight. Symptoms in Massachusetts point strongly that way. When Bird, Cushing and Augustus Gardner can get together on Roosevelt, there is little of the chicken left for Crane and Weeks—hardly anything except the neck and the feet, as it were.

Other states, Perkins thinks, are likely soon to follow Massachusetts, and he says it would not be surprising if it were all over but the shouting by June 7.

The hearings on the subject of Louis D. Brandeis and his qualifications for the supreme court, as conducted by the sub-committee of the senate committee on the judiciary, have so far been a fiasco. The hostile senators voted to have this hearing public in the hope that something seemingly detrimental to Brandeis would be brought out and get full publicity. They put out a dragnet and went fishing for hostile criticism. Even unknown persons who wrote to the committee in a critical vein were invited to appear before the committee and tell what they knew or thought. Even when they turned out to be harmless cranks they were listened to with a patience new in senators. Lawyers who had been in opposition to Brandeis in private practice were summoned and permitted to air their ancient grudges and to retry cases in which they had been beaten. Any witness who could name a person who might be willing to say something against Brandeis was welcomed and the name jotted down for subpoena. Even thus the committee has been obliged to take a long recess to get its second wind and see if something can not be framed as a basis for continuing the alleged "investigation."

My seat for preparedness was a little wetted the other day when I took a the hearing in progress before the house committee on naval affairs, and Admiral Blue was on the stand. There I learned that the total number of men in our naval reserve is 303. That in the French navy is 90,000; that in the German about 100,000; that in the Japanese about 100,000, and Great Britain, of course, about twice as much. I learned that our navy has not been

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Psalm 46:1-11.

1 God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.
2 Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea;
3 Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah.
4 There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the Most High.
5 God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her, and that right early.
6 The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted.
7 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.
8 Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth.
9 He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire.
10 Be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.
11 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

Framing the Army Bill.

While the clashing hosts of preparedness and anti-preparedness are indulging in vociferous argument, marked by crimination and recrimination all over the country, it will be noted that the house military committee is going quietly about to frame the administration army bill. Something like a skeleton form of the new measure has already been licked into shape, and while it will not be complete for presentation to the house for some weeks, a number of its outstanding features have already been agreed upon.

For instance, the plans of the committee are known to call for a standing army of 153,000 men. The number probably will be increased to 160,000. The Continental army is not included. The National guard will be increased from its present strength of about 104,000 to 400,000 or 500,000, as fast as it can be accomplished, if the bill passes. Control of the guard will be as the president directs.

The bill will incorporate in it the reserve bill introduced by Representative Caldwell, of New York, providing for keeping men in reserve with some remuneration, until they are 45. They will be divided into a first reserve—those who have been in the regular army within five years—a second reserve of men who have been with the colors within ten years, but not within five years, and so on.

The army bill also will have incorporated in it Speaker Clark's bill, providing for double the number of cadets at the military academy and providing that any one wishing to take the course in addition to the regular cadets may do so at exact cost. The bill introduced by Representative McKellar, of Tennessee, providing state military academies, also likely will be included in the general bill.

In all probability, of course, there will be at least minor changes in the measure before it is enacted into law, for both house and senate will insist on modifications or additions to meet views of those who may be able to command support enough to enforce them. On its face, however, the outlook is not such as to give alarm to those who feared a headlong plunge into absolute militarism.

The Sentinel's attention has been called to the fact that it fell into error a day or two ago in its statement that the new portable schoolhouse for use in the city schools was to be constructed by the pupils in the manual training department. As a matter of fact, it is the lads in the vocational school who will undertake this work, and that they will make a success of it there is no doubt. The vocational boys are given three hours of practical work daily under the direction of a practical tradesman, with the remaining hours devoted to correlated academic work. It is the hope of those in charge of vocational work in the Fort Wayne schools that the department will, in the course of a very few years, be provided with a building of its own in order that this intensely useful branch of educational endeavor may be still further developed.

Under the decree of Judge Eggeman, in the circuit court, one Fort Wayne father who was convicted of having shamefully neglected his children, will be forced to work for six months on the county roads as a jail prisoner, while the $1 per day authorized by law to be paid as wages in such cases will be turned over to the man's family for their support. It is the first application of the new "lazy husband" law in Fort Wayne, and it should serve not only as a correctional influence in the case in point, but serve as an impressive warning to other men who may be unmindful of their obligations in this regard. It remains to be seen how many husbands of this type desire a job of this sort that, while attended by some humiliation, is apt to produce more revenue for the unfortunate family than it has enjoyed under the old regime.

Ex-Governor James E. Campbell, of Ohio, has filed in that state his declaration of candidacy for the democratic nomination for president, in order that Ohio candidates for delegates to the national convention may declare for a "second choice" for president as required by law. The former governor explains that he is nursing no delusions and cherishing no ambitions—that president Wilson is the choice of Ohio democrats, and that his action signifies that he is merely an "honorary" candidate in order that the provisions of the Ohio law may be fully complied with. Under the circumstances it would clearly be cruel to raise objections to Mr. Campbell's enjoyment of the transitory effulgence of such reflected glory as may come his way. Let him go to it.

From various sources nowadays we are being told that nobody can beat Wilson but Roosevelt; that nobody can beat Wilson but Burton; that nobody can beat Wilson but Cummins; that nobody can beat Wilson but Fairbanks; that nobody can beat Wilson but Weeks, and that nobody can beat Wilson but Hughes. Taking up the elimination by the old schoolboy method of cancellation, it appears that Nobody is the one who is likely to do it.

Whether he is enjoying it or not, Mr. Brandeis is at least getting a pretty accurate line on what some of his loving brethren in the legal profession think of him in the course of that hearing to determine the question of senate confirmation of his nomination to the supreme bench.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What The Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

George W. Pixley and Charles E. Read, of the Pixley Clothing company, have gone to Utica, N. Y.

Dr. W. W. Barnett is attending the practice of Dr. J. M. Dinnen during the latter's absence.

Harry Harrison has received a cocker spaniel pup from Grand Rapids. W. P. Chapman, manager of the telephone exchange, has gone to White Hill, Ill., on a visit.

The Fort Wayne Baseball club has been organized with $3,000 capital stock and the following officers: President, William Meyer, jr.; vice president, John Reidmiller; treasurer, Henry Meyer, jr.; secretary, Louis Heilbroner. Guy Hecker has been engaged as manager of the team.

M. M. M. Slattery, the electrician, expects to have his storage battery for the propulsion of street cars ready for a practical test in about two weeks.

Policeman John O'Connell, who is an expert, has been engaged by the Morton club to set up the new billiard tables in the club's new quarters in the Odd Fellows' block.

Hayden park is to be left undisturbed and the proposed eighth ward fire engine house will be built elsewhere, much to the satisfaction of the residents of that ward.

Christ Broward, the barber, who is entertaining an offer from a wealthy New York sporting man to walk the length of the North American continent, is training every day for his arduous task. He is confident he will be successful and earn the big money offered.

There was a big attendance at the mass meeting in the circuit court room last night to take organized steps to free the toll roads of Allen county. T. E. Ellison explained the bill he has drawn for the purpose and it will be introduced in the legislature. Frank Alderman was made chairman of a committee of fifty citizens of the city and county to go to Indianapolis to urge the passage of the bill.

TESTED SEED

(Indiana Daily Times)

Reports sent out by the Indiana Grain Dealers' association carry a warning to Indiana farmers to the effect that seed oats are alarmingly poor in germinating quality, and the good seed oats are alarmingly scarce. Tests for germination have been made of a large number of samples of oats from different parts of the state. As a result it is authoritatively asserted that the highest rate of germination found in any sample is 77, while many samples run as low as 20 per cent. of good seed oats. It is concluded that not more than 50 per cent. of the oats in Indiana will show better than 40 per cent. germination. It is shown that unless great care is taken in getting good seed oats heavy losses will be suffered by farmers in Indiana. By reason of the fact that a light wheat acreage has been sown it is expected the farmers will plant a large acreage of oats. Grain dealers are being asked by Charles B. Riley, secretary of the grain dealers' association, to get in touch with the farmers and to see to it that good seed oats are located and provided for Indiana growers. To prevent all farmers from planting any but tested seed oats is the purpose of a concerted Indiana movement which the grain dealers are systematically encouraging.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Good Advice for Thin, Underdeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to lifelong skinniness, and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of assimilative agents has made fat grow after years of thinness, and it is also unequalled, judging from reports, for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing assimilative elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks' systematic use of Sargol should go far to produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying nourishing fats to the blood. If not, every druggist who sells it is authorized to return the purchase price. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are thus provided. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., Dreier Drug Co., J. & N. Pharmacy, The Family Drug Store and other leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has from reports given splendid results as a nervo-tonic and vitality, its use is not recommended to nervous people, unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

FILM CENSORS NOW ASKING MORE POWER

Pennsylvania Board Seeks Wider Latitude in Its Operations.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 18.—Amendment to the state laws governing the supervision of moving picture films so that the Pennsylvania board of censors may have greater authority over films shipped into this state from other parts of the country, the power to confiscate objectionable films and be enabled to bar all seals except that of the commonwealth from films shown within the state are among the recommendations made in the report of the censors submitted today to the governor.

The board collected $27,000 in fees and $3,965 in fines, condemned 189 films and eliminated parts of 6,540. The report states that three-fourths of the films are made in California. Seven per cent. of the films shown in this state are melodrama and 20 per cent. come under comedy, much of which the report classes as coarse. Criticism is made of many of the advertisements shown by the movie theaters and the report declared that the board cannot believe the motion picture theater is a medium for teaching the youth of Pennsylvania moral lessons, through melodrama which it could much better get through the old channels in the church or school nor will it be turned from its way by appeals for freedom to lay bare or advertise the sordid relationship of life in the name of literature or the dramatic art.

AGUINALDO URGES PARDON.

Former Insurgent Leader Also Accused American Lawyer.

Manila, Feb. 18.—Emilio Aguinaldo, the former insurgent leader, is at the head of a petition for the pardon of the American lawyer, Kelly, who was discharged, fined $500 and sentenced to six months' imprisonment for publication of a book alleging that General Noriel, the insurgent leader, who was put to death last year for murder of a political enemy, was innocent. Kelly accused sixty persons of assassination in connection with the execution of Noriel and his two accomplices. It is not regarded as likely that the petition will be granted.

ROOSEVELT AT ST. THOMAS.

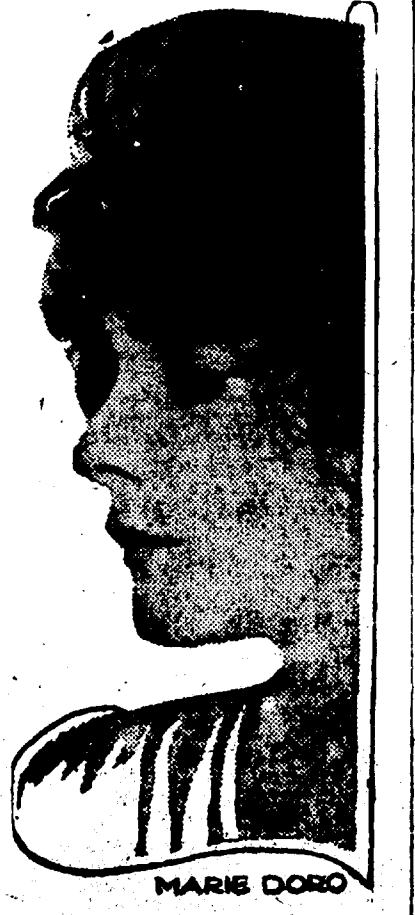

Colonel Declines to Be Interviewed on Political Affairs.

St. Thomas, D. W. I., Feb. 18.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived here today from New York on the steamship Guiana. In the absence of the governor, who is at St. Croix, he was welcomed by the governor's secretary.

Col. Roosevelt inspected the harbor works and then drove about the town, visiting other places of interest. He dined with the governor's secretary.

The colonel declined to be interviewed on political affairs, saying he had come here for a rest. He will leave St. Thomas tomorrow.

COUNCILMAN ON THE LIST.

City Father May Be Indicted With Police at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 18.—As a result of a grand jury investigation in progress here it was rumored today that an expose will be brought about which will upset the South Bend police department. Those "on the inside" refuse to give out any names in connection with the report, but they are not backward in declaring that at least three members of the administration, a police officer, a detective and a councilman, will face charges. While raids were ordered against old offenders, it is alleged that instructions were issued to investigators to forget certain places controlled by persons close to the police department. Prosecutor C. R. Montgomery does not expect the grand jury to report until next week.

ORDERS FOR FIRE ESCAPES.

Much Activity Follows Frat House Fire at Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 18.—John J. Walsh, state factory and building inspector, and his deputy, William P. McMahon, inspected all the rooming houses and Purdue fraternity houses in West Lafayette today and as a result of their visit more than thirty property owners were ordered to place fire escapes on their buildings. The state officials inspected the ruins of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house, which was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning, and issued orders that if student roomers sleep in the attic or third story of any building a watchman must be employed during the night. The officials also conferred with President W. E. Stone, of Purdue university and asked the co-operation of the students in the enforcement of the state inspection laws.

Mail Service

The following had been tried by others for more than ten years without his assistance, but which remained to be accomplished by Cyrus Cline.

1. A direct mail service between Fort Wayne and Indianapolis, and greatly expediting the time of delivery.
2. The re-adjustment of the rural mail service, taking the mail direct to the farmer's door in place of his having to go in many instances a half mile or more to the nearest crossroads for it.
3. The extending of our city free delivery service to all parts of the city, so that every resident will now have his mail delivered direct to his door.
4. Secured an appropriation of $20,000.00 for free delivery in cities and towns having a population of not less than 5,000 people and postoffice receipts of not less than $10,000.00.
5. The securing of an appropriation of $75,000.00 for a new postoffice building at Kendallville.
6. He has the united support of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and the Chairman and members of the Public Buildings Committee for an appropriation of $575,000.00 for a new Post-office Building in Fort Wayne.
7. Free mail delivery at Garrett and Angola obtained and made permanent, and additional collection facilities provided.

SCIENTIST HAS A STRANGE ADVENTURE

"God Man" Terrorizes the Hostile Natives by Will Power; Escapes.

By Henry Clay
San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 18.—An adventure as a "God Man" saved the life of Dr. Richard Thurnwald, German scientist, and his party of black boys in the wilds of the New Guinea mountains.

Dr. Richard Thurnwald

He was chased for a month by 500 Englishmen, who failed to capture him. The natives, or kanakas, in the mountain parts of New Guinea had never seen a white man before I arrived with my party of black boys," said Dr. Thurnwald. "When we approached a village in the interior, the natives fled in terror. It was my desire to placate them with gifts. In many places they refused at first to accept my peace offerings, rushing into the bush when I advanced with iron wares and beads for them. Gradually they became more accustomed to me and rather timidly accepted the presents."

"The last mountain village we passed through was at first the scene of a triumphal entry and later as we returned a place of potential death and tragedy. My black boys and I were met at the edge of the village on our first trip by the old men of the tribe. The rest had fled, taking their women and children into the dense forest of the tropics to hinder pursuit in case the strange man with a white skin decided to choose them for his lair."

"It was evident that the old men considered me a 'God Man.' I was a being unknown to them. I wore white clothes, such as they had never seen. They wore little or none at all. They advanced and accepted my gifts; then, timorously they felt my white suit. They backed off in astonishment with startled 'Ahs' and grunts of surprise. 'Then came a wonderful thing. With branches cut from the sago palm trees, they swept a path through the village for me and my party. It was a triumphal entry for the 'God Man.' How I wish my next visit might have been as peaceful. As we crossed a creek and stood opposite the village one of the old men gave me a most sponge soaked in water and by signs made me understand that he wished me to wave a charm on the village. I did so with much ceremony and then went on my way."

"The charm evidently failed to work. At any rate when we came back through the village we were decidedly unwelcome. A howling mob of 300 armed savages, dancing and shouting, threatening with their clubs and arrows. I did not know what to make of it and tried a peace offering but they would have none of it. They were on the warpath and preparedness for trouble should have been our most valuable asset. But we were not prepared. We had a few rifles but not enough to cope with that band of savages. Besides I did not want trouble. I did not wish to shoot."

My black boys were weary from long mountain climbing and staggered under their packs. "Oh, master," they wailed, "kanaka, suppose he shoot, me die." "It was most unpleasant. The savages grouped at our rear and at times fired arrows, wounding some of my boys. I was determined if possible to escape without returning their fire; it seemed suicidal to shoot at them. "Their superstitious dread of the white man had not vanished and they kept their distance, but still howling their terrible cries. I stopped once to the rear of my boys and noticed that as I halted the natives did likewise. I walked slowly backwards a few paces and threw up my arms with a warning gesture. They turned and ran. But when we started on once more they followed again with their arrows flying about us."

"I stopped again and waved them back. A repetition of these tactics dozens of times on the trail from their village managed to ward them off until at last we were out of their district. "If they had only been more courageous, if they had been less afraid of me, we would never have come out."

Thus the "God Man" won over the ignorance of the savage. A more intelligent human being, by the sheer force of will, the use of his greater personality, bluffed the weaker mind in a time of danger and threatening death, when courage and subtlety were necessary.

The coal mines of Sweden do not produce enough fuel for that country's needs and scientists are trying many experiments with peat, of which there is a vast supply available.

CHILDREN'S FILMS AT ORPHEUM.
Mothers' Club and Manager Brentlinger Combine Efforts.

Once a month, or on the first Saturday of every month, pictures for children will be shown at the Orpheum theater in the morning for the admission of five cents. An arrangement was made by the Mothers' club and through the kindness of Mr. Brentlinger, for the running of films that are particularly appropriate for children at the Saturday matinee several months ago, but where at first it was hoped to have pictures every Saturday morning, it was finally concluded to show them but one Saturday a month or on the first Saturday. The expense of the films and operator is to come out of the proceeds for Mr. Brentlinger, who donates lights, etc., and the rest of the proceeds, if there are any, are to go to the Mothers' club. The Kindergarten Teachers' association has had two showings of films, too, this season. The Mothers' club is connected only with the Orpheum theater showing as it was through the generosity of the theater management that the idea was executed in the first place.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Twin Beds" Tonight and Saturday. The presentation of "Twin Beds," the laugh festival by Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo, which has just completed a fifty-two weeks run in New York, will be made by Selwyn and Co. at the Majestic theater tonight and Saturday matinee and night.

"Twin Beds" is a wholesome, swiftly moving farce which finds its plot in the enforced proximity of people living in fashionable big apartment houses, who have no escape from the neighbors except to move to another part of town, and who, in "Twin Beds," find to their horror that they have not even that. "Twin Beds" is the farce that put the new into neighborhood in fashionable big apartment houses. It is clean, human, irresistibly funny.

KIDDIES TO HAVE BIG DAY.

Shrine Buys Entire Lower Floor of New Palace for Saturday Matinee.

The Mizpah Shrine has purchased the entire lower floor of the New Palace theater for the Saturday matinee to give the kiddies a chance to enjoy the rapid fire sure hit bill that opened yesterday afternoon. The two acts that will especially appeal to the youngsters in years and also those that are youngsters at heart are the "Thaleros Circus" and the childhood reminiscence "Yesterday," being presented by Guy Rawson and Frances Claire. The Thaleros Circus is a hurry up dog, pony and monkey act that is hustled through in jig time, the wonderfully trained four-footed actors zipping from one trick to another with seeming huge enjoyment in their work. "Yesterday" is the dainty little skit in which two children meet, romp and quarrel just like ordinary kids do. The act closes with a sentimental song that goes over big. Rawson's song, "Ellie," is a clever bit of character comedy stuff. Kennedy and Hollis in their fun routine "Freshie's Initiation," initiate Fort Wayne to some comedy that is brand new. Kennedy's headlong style is the sort that carries across the foot lights, while Hollis is a splendid foil for him.

Baron Lichter, the amusing pianist, does a pianologue that is extremely funny, as the haron is a master showman with every trick of the trade at the tips of his fingers. Angelo, Wier and Daecy's singing is both a musical treat and a comedy hit, for these harmonists do not sink to buffoonery in their fun efforts. They possess worth while voices. Victorine and Zolar's dancing is surprising. Each of the girls does a solo number and the act closes with a sensational dance, La Dans Duella, in which the girls use electrically charged swords to good effect.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"The Red Circle" Opens Bill Tonight.

Everyone has read stories galore of the workings of the "Black Hand," a world-famed organization to blackmail or slay its victims, but an opportunity to see the real tactics of this organization is offered all lovers of mystery stories with the opening of "The Red Circle" tonight at the Temple for three nights' stand. It deals with the intrigues of the Knights of the Red Circle, a foreign murder society which has taken root in America. Its suspense interest is unexcelled by any play produced within the last ten years, and "the play will leave its mark wherever placed," asserts a Chicago writer.

Amateurs also will have their time tonight. Saturday and Sunday matinees will be produced and the young folks will be given a chance to demonstrate their ability on the stage Saturday afternoon. A prize will be offered for the best impersonation of Charlie Chaplin.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

NEW FARNUM TRIUMPH.

William Farnum, the superman of the movies, the $100,000 a year star of the William Fox forces, and one of the most magnetic actors the world of drama has ever been acquainted with, creates what is undoubtedly the most telling role of his career in "Fighting Blood," a masterly photoplay triumph which is seen at the Orpheum theater today and tomorrow. As Lem Hardy, the "fighting parson," Farnum creates a screen personality which will live long in the memories of those who have felt their emotions thrill and pulse as they watched this remarkable personage pursue his galvanic course through the six breathless reels of this drama.

The story is alive with thrills, the most momentous of these coming when Farnum whips five or six husky toughs who had broken up his service when he was preaching in a church. The last fight comes when Farnum conquers the town bully of Red Dog, a western mining town, these two providing one of the most vicious and bloody fist fights ever staged for the lens.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

The Great White Way Pictured at Jefferson.
The glittering lights, rippling laughter and music from many instruments, the tinkling of glasses and the mingling of many voices is what greets one on New York's Great White Way where care is unknown and every one lives for today and tomorrow takes care of itself. An innocent country girl travels through this path with the flames burning the hottest and her emergence without being scathed is vividly pictured in "The Salamander" at the Jefferson. One Sassoon has robbed the parents and grandmother of the heroine of their wealth and she sets out alone for the city to find Sassoon to punish him. How well she succeeds is told in the sensational events that follow her arrival in the city where she eventually is responsible for the undoing of the villain. There is a pleasant ending to the story. You should see this picture showing with the Jefferson Travels for the last time today. Tomorrow, "Vengeance is Mine," with Crane Wilbur. Special show for children Saturday morning.

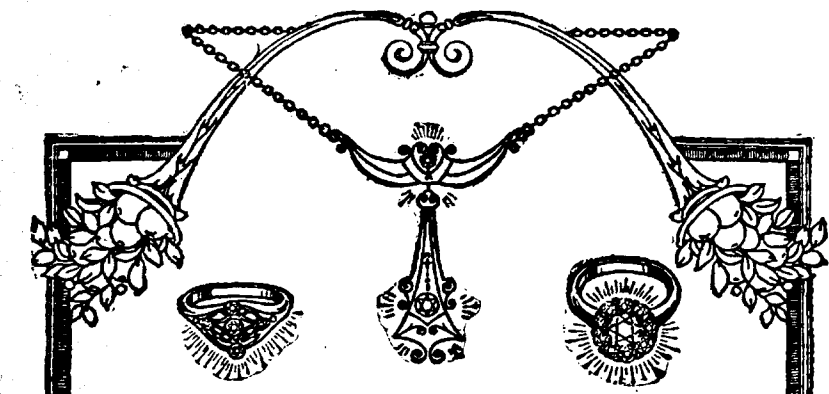

HOW TO REMOVE SPOTS FROM YOUR CLOTHING

Place a pad of clean white cloth under the fabric from which the spot is to be removed, saturate a similar piece with Non-Explosive Klee-Nu Cleaning Fluid. First apply around, then on the spot, always rubbing toward the center of the spot; this prevents a ring from forming and the spots disappear as if by magic.

Klee-Nu is a transparent, scientifically prepared liquid cleaner, which dissolves the spot or soil through the fabric to the pad below. Klee-Nu is perfectly harmless, free from acid, always ready for use, and cannot burn or explode. The finest silks and all fabrics can be cleaned with perfect safety.

Unexcelled for cleaning white kid gloves in a jiffy on the hands, leaving them soft and as white as new.

Get a large bottle of Klee-Nu today at your Druggist's, who will refund your money if dissatisfied, or sent postpaid on receipt of 25 cts. Address The Klee-Nu Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

Flames Drive Ernest Mills and Family from House in Early Morning.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 18.—The residence on the C. W. Shoemaker farm four miles south of Bluffton, was destroyed by fire Friday morning and the tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mills and family, were forced to run from the house with only what clothing and personal belongings they were able to gather up as they hastened out. The house and household goods are a total loss. Mr. Mills had insurance sufficient to cover the loss on the house and the building but not enough to cover the loss. The farm is the property of Rev. C. W. Shoemaker, of La Grange, a brother of Dr. S. A. Shoemaker, of this city. The origin of the fire is not definitely known. The flames spread through the house before the family was awakened. The bedrooms lie off to one side and the remainder of the house was in flames before the fire and smoke got near enough to the bedrooms to awaken the sleepers. Mrs. Mills was the first to awaken, and she alarmed her husband and they awakened their children, aged 2 years and 6 months, and his brother, Arthur Mills, of Swayzee, who has been visiting with them for a week. They saved some clothing and the bed clothes off of two or three beds, but nothing else of consequence. Mr. Mills saved his papers of value.

to change the site of the building. Since there has been such a strong opposition to putting the new building where the old one now stands, there has been a move started to compromise on some site, if possible, and thus avoid any litigation that would delay the building. It is probable that a petition containing the names of a majority of the patrons of the district may yet be filed with the county superintendent asking for a change of site.

COMES FAR TO SURRENDER

Van Wert, Ohio, Feb. 18.—When it was found that Sheriff Gunsett had located him, Jesse O. Blossom came all the way from Tulsa, Oklahoma, to answer a charge of non-support and gave himself over to the officers. Blossom was arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty. He was released on $500 home bond. It was also provided that he pay the sum of two dollars a week for the support of his family to Clerk of Courts Siders, who was appointed trustee, and pay the costs of the case. The bond and costs were provided and he was dismissed.

KEPT MARRIAGE LONG A SECRET.

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Another secret marriage has been made public in the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Ruth (Cress) Fair, formerly of Wolf Lake, and Marvin Rimmel, which was solemnized at Hillsdale, Mich., on Thanksgiving day, 1915. The bride is quite well known here. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Rimmel and is employed at the Stiffey cigar store. Mr. Rimmel is now at the home of Mr. Conley in Orange township, a grandfather of the bridegroom, who has been in poor health for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Rimmel expect to go to house-keeping in this city some time in the spring. They have the best wishes of their many friends.

SUES HUSBAND'S MOTHER.

Wabash, Ind., Feb. 18.—Amanda Shoen was today made the defendant in a $5,000 suit filed at Matilda Shelton, through Attorneys Plummer, Todd and Plummer. Allegation of the affections of plaintiff's husband is given as the cause of action. It is alleged in the complaint that the plaintiff and Willard Shelton, son of the defendant, were duly married in August, 1913, and lived together until July, 1914, when they were forced to separate by reason of the acts of the defendant, among which was making false accusations against the chastity of the plaintiff.

BURGLARY NEAR HICKSVILLE

Hicksville, Ohio, Feb. 18.—While the family was away, the house of Rudolph Curtis, in Milford township, was broken into by unknown parties. The robbers found a key and unlocked a door. The house was torn up and the house ransacked. A revolver was taken and some other small property. The burglars stopped at the pantry and evidently got their fill of eats. Messages were sent to Edgerton and Hicksville as soon as the act was discovered. So far as is known there is no clue to the perpetrators of the offense.

DOCTOR BREAKS BOTH LEGS.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 18.—Dr. Horn, an elderly physician, residing at Pennville, is confined to the hospital at that place receiving treatment for injuries sustained Tuesday, when he met with an accident that will leave him crippled for weeks, and on account of his advanced age may leave him permanently disabled. He had been to his farm near Pennville, and as he was returning to the town a wagon passed him and he endeavored to climb into it to ride home. He slipped and fell and had both of his legs broken.

HAVE BURGLARY SUSPECT

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 18.—"Roman Nose" Hudson is in custody at Kokomo, held as a suspect in the Doyce second hand store robbery which was committed in this city several days ago. The police have been working on the theory that two men, who were in the second hand store on the evening the robbery was committed, had something to do with the theft and this led to the arrest of Hudson. The officers are now looking for Hudson's partner.

NOBLE COUNTY PIONEER DIES.

Mrs. Margaret Foster Shauck, Widow of Former Sheriff, is Called.

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Margaret Foster Shauck, for almost four-score years a resident of this county, up to the time of her death in the wilderness of Jefferson township. A short time prior to the civil war she became the wife of Jacob Shauck, who left his bride to enlist in the union armies for the civil war. They were the parents of two children, Mr. Elroy Shauck, proprietor of a garage here, and Wilmer Shauck, for mer superintendent of the Kendallville municipal electric light and waterworks departments. The funeral of Mrs. Shauck will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the residence, and at 10 o'clock at the Union church. Burial will take place in the Sweet cemetery in Jefferson township.

COLUMBIA CITY MAN DIES.

Columbia City, Ind., Feb. 18.—Isaiah Warnick, 67 years, 9 months and 16 days old, passed away at his home on the south side Thursday after suffering for a year from heart trouble. Mr. Warnick was born in Ohio and when a young man moved from that state to Indiana and settled with his parents near Wabash. Later on he was united in marriage to Sarah Richardson and they moved to Whitley county. To this union eight children were born, all of whom survive; namely, Lewis, Lawrence and Marshall, of Union township, Jackson, of Sidney township, Clarence, of Columbia township, Mrs. Lulu Robinson, of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Frank Grace, of Bluffton. He is also survived by one brother, Geo. Warnick, of Mound City, Kansas. On May 4, 1912, Mrs. Warnick passed away and on August 21 of the same year, Mr. Warnick was again united in marriage to Mrs. Mary Green, of the south side.

WAR OVER SCHOOL SITE

Piercetown, Ind., Feb. 18.—The school question which was so acute a few weeks ago, has remained quiet for some time. The situation is a peculiar one. While nearly every patron in the district signed a petition to change the site, yet as the number of signers on the two petitions was so even, neither had a majority which the law requires.

Preacher Anxious for Church Girls to "Pop Question"

REV. FRANCIS VAN HORN

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 18.—"Girls, take a good look before you leap—then leap." This is the leap year advice of Rev. Francis Van Horn, pastor of the Oakland Congregational church. "Why shouldn't girls propose?" he asks. "We read in the Bible that Ruth proposed to the man of her choice. If Ruth of the olden days could propose, why shouldn't the Ruth of 1916 have the same privilege?" "I am encouraging all the unmarried women in my church to 'pop the question.' If a girl sees a man whom she admires—one whom she believes she can make happy—why should foolish convention refuse her the right to express her love? Before the year is out, I hope that every single woman in my congregation will have found her mate."

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, tummy misery in the chest, belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea. He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices. Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and sodium phosphates. This harmless salt is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results. Advertisements with excellent results. Advertisements with excellent results.

SHOW ME A RULE AND I'LL BREAK IT

College Woman Tells Why Girls Leave Boarding Homes.

New York, Feb. 18.—"Show me a rule and I'll break it!" So a well balanced girl of 25 told Miss Esther Packard, college graduate, investigator of board-

ESTHER PACKARD

ing homes for the Consumers' league. And that sums up the objection of New York young women to the boarding houses for women, established but unsuccessful throughout Manhattan, according to Miss Packard.

There are too many repressive rules. Young girls want freedom.

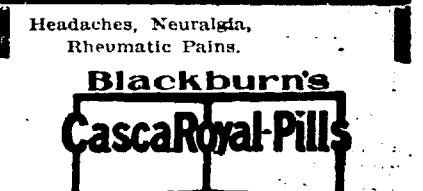

Miss Packard recommends a "socialized apartment house"—suites running from room-and-kitchenette to several rooms—where working girls can live as they like, with a large cafeteria open to the public, and several reception rooms where residents may receive callers.

In 31 non-commercial homes for working women, Miss Packard found 220 vacant rooms. Closing hours, no dancing rules, and other restrictions, drive the girls out, Miss Packard found. The landlady of a furnished room house in the same block with one of the "homes" said she frequently rented rooms for the night to girls locked out of the "home."

EM ROES MEET LYCEUM FEDS HERE IN MARCH

LYCEUM FEDS AND DANVILLE TONIGHT

Normal Boys Come to Local Floor and Real Game is Promised.

St. Patrick's Lyceum Feds meet the Danville Normal five at the Lyceum gym tonight, and the game will go a long way toward deciding the local boys' status in the state title race. The Feds have taken care of everything that has come their way, and the Indianapolis Em-Roe gang, one of the other aspirants to the state title, has done likewise. Last week the Em-Roe five defeated Danville by a margin of ten points, and it now remains for the Feds to hold up their end of the scoring.

The Miller-Flaherty combination will be on the job again tonight, and this feature of the Feds' playing should interest basketball fans if nothing else does. It is doubtful if anywhere in the middle west there is another scoring machine like these St. Patrick's forwards, and their work alone makes it worth while to see the Lyceum games.

In Danville the local boys meet a team that plays real basketball and the Lyceum can and will play just the same sort of game their opponents put up. When they run into a lot of bruisers they bruise, too, and when they meet basketball players they play basketball.

Louis Island will referee tonight.

STATE GOLF MEET IN AUGUST AT LAPORTE.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—The week of Aug. 14-19 was selected for this year's tournament of the Indiana Golf association at the annual meeting of the organization here Thursday. The tournament will be played at Laporte. President John O. Wilson, of Marion, suggested that articles of practical value be given as trophies. It was decided to retain the cups as awards for the main flights and to give useful articles for the minor championships. Four hundred dollars was appropriated for the purchase of trophies. A committee was appointed to revise the constitution.

"LONE STAR" KNOWS FOOTBALL AND A LOT OF OTHER THINGS.

(By Betty Graeme.)

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 18.—If "Lone Star" W. H. Dietz, famous football coach of Pullman college, had not been born an Indian he would have been an Irishman. I discovered this before I had exchanged a dozen words with the big fellow. In the first interview he has ever given to a woman reporter. In his "teepee" in a hotel here, "Lone Star" surprised me by appearing in a dark cutaway coat and vest and gray trousers.

The night before I had seen him at a chamber of commerce banquet in full feather regiments, "dressed to kill."

The fact that I don't know a thing about football, war paint or Indian dialects was embarrassing at first.

But I found that the big coach knows a lot about women. He knows that they like rather to hear kind words that ought to be true instead of unkind ones that are not. And so we got on famously.

I learned also that he is an artist. At Carlisle he was the director of the art department, and it was once his ambition to take up the mantle worn by Frederick Remington, painter of the American aborigines.

"So you are an artist?" I asked. "Could you paint me?"

"If I could," he replied, "but I shouldn't want you painted. You are radiant enough as you are."

"At Pullman," I asked, changing the subject hastily, "you have had a chance to observe co-education—what do you think of it?"

"It works out rather well down there," said "Lone Star," "but I am not so sure it is a good idea. It takes the boys' minds off their work to have girls around."

I noticed a sharp glint in his black eyes at times and wanted to know if he had a bad temper.

"I never let my temper get away with me," he said. "People usually do what I say without waiting to be made to do it. I have never spoken a rough word to the

DEFIANCE COMES TO CONCORDIA

Great Go Scheduled for Tonight at College Gym.

Defiance college will be the attraction at the Concordia college gym tonight and a regular game ought to develop. The Concordia boys, although too young and too light to run far on the road to a city championship, put up as classy a game as any team in the city, and a prettier game than the majority of the "contenders."

Defiance comes with a great team, too, and the going tonight should be all that the basketball followers of the city could wish. A college game is a good game as a rule, and the Concordians have established themselves firmly in the hearts of Fort Wayne enthusiasts as regular fellows and good sports, and a big crowd will be on the job to root for the local boys.

ST. PAUL'S NATIONALS WIN.

In the preliminary at Concordia last night the St. Paul Nationals defeated the St. Mary's Kekiongas 33 and 20. The lineups and scores:

Nationals—Hoffman, and Adams, forwards; Doerfler, center; Linnemeler and Walda, guards.

Kekiongas—Ehrman and Hoffman, forwards; Sprang and Oberwite, center; DeWald and Becker, guards.

Field goals—Hoffman, 5; Adams, 1; Doerfler, 6; Linnemeler, 1; Walda, 2; Ehrman, 2; Sprang, 3; Becker, 2.

Foul goals—Ehrman, 3; Hoffman, 1.

LOVE NOTES READ IN COURT

Jacob Addresses Indianapolis Widow as "Dear Little Hoosier."

Canton, O., Feb. 18.—Thirty letters from Robert R. Jacob, sixty-year-old Pittsburgh banker and hardware man, to his "Dear Little Hoosier," Mrs. Ellen W. Canine, a widow, of Indianapolis, were read in court here in Mrs. Canine's $50,000 breach of promise suit against Jacob.

The letters cover a wide range all the way from lawn mowers to other matters of a more intimate nature.

"You always hold a place in my heart," he says in one epistle addressed to "Dear Little Hoosier."

It was contended during the reading of the letters that Mrs. Canine, who was selling tags for a charity when Jacob met her in Indianapolis, had later planned to go to Europe as a Red Cross nurse, but that he had dissuaded her.

Jacob surprised friends when he said on the stand that he was married last November to a Miss Winn, of Virginia. It was the first announcement of the wedding, excepting to a few close friends. He was at that time a widower with four grown children. Canton society folk filled the courtroom.

boys at Pullman. I just look at them so." His illustration explained much. It told how the Indian coach was able to whip the Washington State college eleven into shape to win over Brown university in California last season and why they won so many other victories.

I imagine that if he gave his boys that look and told them to line up against a bunch of wildcats they would do it without a murmur.

PUPIL OF CY YOUNG GOES TO MAJORS.

STANLEY DOUGAN.

Perhaps it was because he was a pupil of the old master, Denton Tecumseh (Cy) Young, who up to the time of retirement was dean of all pitchers, that Stanley Dougan developed a penchant for hurling no-hit shutouts.

At any rate this budding member of the Cincinnati Reds staff bids fair to emulate the feats of his grizzled coach.

As a student at Ohio university Dougan went into athletics with a splash. He specialized at baseball and old Cyrus, who is cultivating his broad acres near Peoli, O., took a decided shine to the rookie.

Young gave his protege more than passing attention at the daily workouts in which Cyrus presided as coach, and offered to place the youngster with the Zanesville Central league club early in 1915.

Dougan, who was captain of the 1913 "varsity" and later president of the senior class of 1915, spurned the berth. Instead he pitched a few games for the Portsmouth Ohio State league club and later was drafted by Columbus, appearing under the name of Bob Stanley.

From the Senators he drifted back to the smaller fry and last season was the sensation of the Northern league, pitching for Winnipeg. He scored 22 victories, two of whom were no-hit classics. He suffered four defeats.

The Reds have rounded up this promising rah-rah boy and will give him a thorough trial in the spring.

Since the close of the Northern league season he has been coach and athletic director at Jamestown college, Jamestown, N. D. He is a right-hander, measures 6 feet 1/2 inch in his running shoes, weighs 170, is married, and confesses to being 23 years of age.

Indianapolis Champs Meet Local Irishmen in State Title Dispute

Two state championship claimants, the Lyceum Federals of this city, and the Indianapolis Em-Roe five, meet at the Concordia college gymnasium on March 4 in what promises to be one of the greatest basketball affairs ever staged in this city. The Em-Roe crew has been squinting through the periscope at the local Irishmen for some time, and has doped it out that the local boys are about the best bet in the north end of the state among championship contenders.

Although the crowds at the city series game last night broke local basketball box office records, and the next game probably will see a bigger house, the Fed-Em-Roe game may be counted on to turn out more people than any other basketball event of the winter. The college gym is so arranged that thousands may be seated simply by the addition of stands.

LUTHERANS SLIP AND LOSE FIRST ONE

St. Paul's Were Away Off Stride and St. Mary's Cop With Ease.

Gerberding was about as far from right as he could be last night and stick to his pins, and MacMurray played a kid game at center for St. Paul, and thereby hangs the tale of an overwhelming defeat for the Lutherans in their first go with St. Mary's in the city title series. Nearly a thousand people filled the stands at the Concordia gym last night and jangled cowbells and bawled boisterously while the play progressed. The score was 25 and 13.

It was difficult to know last night how the teams would match up if both of them were right, but one thing was certain, if St. Paul's don't brace up and do it fast the Lutherans will find themselves without a third game to play in the series.

St. Mary's five were right. They played a real game, full of beautiful plays, with ease and grace and accuracy, and had the Lutherans baffled the greater part of the time. The floor work of the St. Mary's boys was so fast the Walther leaguers couldn't follow it, and they were accurate at basket throwing. The St. Paul boys hit the baskets scores of times without being able to drop the ball through.

Miller refereed the go and did mighty well, keeping it as clean as a fast and furious game can be. The lineups and scores:

St. Mary's 25—Buescher, I. F.; E. Kersting, A.; Kersting, L. F.; C. Kersting, C.; Eckrich, R. G.; Hoffman, L. G.

St. Paul's 13—Stroup, R. F.; Gerberding, J. F.; MacMurray, C.; Dietrich, R. G.; Kennedy, L. G.

Foul goals—Eckrich, 6; Gerberding, 2; Referee—Miller.

Leona Pursell, Colored, Disappointed When Request is Denied.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18.—Because her father had served in the United States navy and because she wished to serve her country, Leona Pursell, colored, 536 Torbet street, made application at the navy recruiting station in the federal building, requesting that she be permitted to join the navy. Leona is seventeen years old and was apparently disappointed when told that girls and women were not eligible. She then made inquiries as to the possibilities of becoming an army or navy nurse and obtained the address to which such applications should be sent.

FLORISTS WIN.

The New Haven Florals defeated the Cavaliers last night 43 and 11, with the following lineups and scores:

Cavaliers—J. Cassidy and C. Cassidy, forwards; B. Buiten, center; C. Meyers and E. Hargrave, guards.

Florals—H. Heine and H. Foelber, forwards; E. Heine, center; F. Brackman and R. Gover, guards.

Field goals—J. Cassidy, 3; E. Hargrave, 1; H. Heine, 12; Foelber, 4; E. Heine, 3; F. Brackman, 1.

Fouls—J. Cassidy, 3; H. Heine, 3.

In the preliminary the Adams quintet defeated the Gar Creek five by the score of 25 to 13.

EUROPE USING MUCH U.S. CONDENSED MILK

Exports of This Commodity Reach a Tremendous Total.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—American condensed milk is enjoying a vogue in Europe that it never knew in peaceful time. The exports from this country in 1915 amounted to 76,000,000 pounds, valued at $8,000,000, according to figures furnished by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and the bulk of these exports went to Europe. In normal times the value of condensed milk sold abroad varies between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000, and ordinarily the best customers are Cuba, Panama, China and Mexico.

The increased exports of condensed milk to Europe are easy to explain, under the circumstances, but there has been an increase in imports from European countries that is puzzling. Italy's recent participation in the American trade has caused some comment, but the fact that Holland and Switzerland sold much larger quantities of milk in the United States in 1915 than ever before is considered remarkable, for these two countries have access to practically all markets in Europe. The total imports into the United States from all countries in 1915 were valued at practically $2,000,000, or one-third of the exports, and although Canada furnished more than half, Holland did a business approximating $800,000 as against less than $300,000 the year previous. Switzerland now is selling to us at a rate of $250,000 a year, where formerly practically no milk came from that country.

LOCAL WOMAN FOUND HELP IN FIVE DAYS

Mrs. Julian Sordet Says
Tanlac Gave Aid to
Her Son Also.

Mrs. Julian Sordet, wife of a well known employee of the Wayne Oil Tank and Pump Co., who lives at 607 Lawton place, this city, recently told the relief she gained through the use of Tanlac, the Master Medicine, and said her son also had been improved by the new preparation.

"My system was in a generally run down condition," Mrs. Sordet said. "I had stomach and kidney trouble. My appetite was very poor and what food I was able to eat didn't digest properly. I had aches and pains in my back, caused by kidney trouble, and it seemed impossible for me to sleep at night."

"I noticed quick improvement after I started taking Tanlac. In fact five days after I took my first dose of the medicine I noticed good results. The aches and pains in my back have disappeared now; I have a fine appetite, and I never know a thing from the time I go to bed at night until I get up in the morning. I sleep so soundly."

"My son, Maurice, also has been taking Tanlac and he declares he feels 'swell' now."

"I had tried many remedies during last year, but until I took Tanlac, I gained no real relief."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness and the like and is a fine body builder and system purifier.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1429 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

CHURCHES AT CHICAGO WARNED AGAINST REDS

Police Unearth Evidence of Plot of Anarchists to Wreck Edifices.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Chicago churches were warned yesterday by the police to establish a close guard over their premises as a result of evidence disclosed in the hunt for Jean Crone, the anarchist who poisoned the soup at Archbishop Mundelein's banquet.

The evidence disclosed, both in letters and by "stool pigeons" working with the "reds," is declared to have indicated that an anti-clerical demonstration which would outdo Crone's sensational poisoning feat has been planned.

While the police declined to reveal the source of their information, a detective working on the case asserted that the "tip off" came from a man present at a meeting of a branch of anarchists, known as the "Sympathizers." He declared the information was of a startling nature, disclosing that the firebrand had been suggested for several edifices, while a Sunday demonstration in the way of hurling bombs had been talked over.

One of the churches warned by the police is the Belden Avenue Baptist church, of which the Rev. Samuel J. Skewington is pastor. After the raid on Crone's "bedchamber" laboratory in a rooming house at 2201 Prairie avenue, photographs of churches in Chicago and in other large cities, as well as of public buildings, were found. A rough drawing indicating the location of Union League club and federal building also were among his belongings.

While the alleged plan to wreck Chicago churches was being made known and guards were being stationed about several of the larger edifices, John Allegrini, Crone's alleged accomplice and former roommate, held in the county jail on charges of attempted murder, was planning to fight for freedom.

DRYS FRUSTRATE PETITION THEFT

Scurry About for Names
When List is Stolen at Danville, Ill.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 18.—This is a story of foiling the "foiler." While F. G. Duffin, an attorney, was out of his office yesterday some one stole a petition of the drys containing more than 4,000 names.

Constitution reigned in the dry camp when the theft was announced. What could the drys do? It had taken days to get the 4,000 names on the petition and if one with 3,500 names were not filed by 5 o'clock tonight there would be no election on the saloon question.

Should the drys try to run down the thief and regain the petition or should they attempt to get up another? With no clue to the thief, they chose the latter course.

Every man and woman worker that could be summoned was sent out last night in a whirlwind campaign that covered the city. In a few hours the workers reported and it was found enough names had been obtained.

Consequently the new petition will be presented today—if it is not stolen again. But dry leaders say it will not be. They have it in a safe now.

POWERLESS TO STOP ZEP RAIDS, HE SAYS

Kitchener Declares Each
Will Be Made More Costly to Foo.

London, Feb. 18.—Earl Kitchener announced in the house of lords today that during the last Zeppelin raid it was certain the British accounted for one airship which was lost at sea and that there was good reason to believe a second airship had been put out of action. Lord Kitchener added:

"Up to the present time a hostile air invasion of England has had no influence whatever on the military conduct of the war, and regrettable as is the loss of citizen life and damage to private property, I do not believe the people desire to give too great importance to these attacks nor to allow them to affect military operations."

"It is beyond our power to guarantee these shores from a repetition of these air incursions, but we shall make them more costly each time."

Air Defense of Britain.
Outlining the system of air defense in Great Britain, Lord Kitchener said:

"The defense is three fold: first, good advance information regarding the movements of hostile aircraft; second, defense by anti-aircraft artillery; third, attacks on raiders by aeroplanes."

"As regards the first, we now have a system which gives us sufficient warning of impending arrival and probable movements of the enemy. As to artillery, the construction of aircraft guns now has precedence over other ordnance, and now the guns as fast as produced will be distributed to the best advantage throughout the country."

Will Solve Puzzle.
"Attack by aeroplanes at night is attended with great difficulties, but I believe that with more extended practice we shall overcome the difficulties."

"The government will leave no stone unturned in efforts to improve to the utmost our defenses against Zeppelins. The responsibility for defense will be in the hands of Viscount French, with Sir Percy Scott as chief adviser."

PHONE MEN USE RAT AND FERRET AS AIDS

Canton, Ill., Feb. 18.—Success crowned the week-old efforts of two rural telephone company managers today when they established physical connection between their exchanges here.

It was necessary to run the line through a conduit 434 feet long, but of narrow diameter. A week ago, a rat with a silk fishing line tied to its tail, was started through the small passage. A ferret sent after it was too ambitious and caught the rat.

A number of other rats were sent through, but the managers were unable to judge properly the ferret's handicap. Finally a bell was tied on a rat and this proved successful. The fishline was dragged through by the rat and then in turn a fine copper wire was drawn through, hand-over-hand.

We expect to sell over one hundred overcoats tomorrow. Every man who buys will make money close to 100 per cent. on the money he invests.

EX-CONVICT HELD FOR ROBBING MAN

Ivan Cecil North Stole $60
from Stranger Whom He Got Soused.

Clever work by Detective Sergeant William F. Pappert resulted Friday in the arrest of Ivan Cecil Miller, an ex-convict of the Jeffersonville reformatory, who has confessed that Thursday forenoon he robbed Frank Griffith, of Atwood, near Warsaw, Ind., of $60 cash, after having got the man drunk.

North had on him when arrested Griffith's pocketbook, $23 of the stolen money and a big 44-calibre revolver of fine pattern that he had paid $10 for at a pawnshop with cash that he frisked from his victim. At headquarters North made a complete confession. He was recently discharged from Jeffersonville after serving a term for which he was sentenced in Auburn. He was married last Thanksgiving to Miss Mabel Knisely, of St. Joe, DeKalb county, and with his wife had been residing at 415 Baker street. North has been employed in the Anthony hotel kitchen as a dishwasher.

There they had a drink, then North took Griffith to Stewart's negro saloon on Calhoun street, where again Griffith drank. He says he remembers no more after that. They tried to get a room at the Homestead and were refused about 9 o'clock, and later the mistress of the place found Griffith in the stairway and called the police. A letter on North shows that his father, J. C. North, is now a convict at the state penal farm.

Griffith was arrested Thursday forenoon about 10 o'clock in the street entrance to the Homestead hotel, 127 West Columbia street, where he was found down and out. When he had recovered in a police cell Thursday night sufficiently to talk he told the officers he had been robbed of $60 and described North perfectly, but on the slight clue furnished Detective Pappert unraveled the case North and Griffith first met in the Ludwig saloon, Calhoun and Baker streets at 6 o'clock Thursday morning.

NOW ARMY AVIATION SERVICE DEFECTIVE

Arkansas Senator Submits
to Prove Charge.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Photographic copies of correspondence between officers of the army aviation corps which Senator Robinson of Arkansas, declared established beyond doubt the defective condition of the aviation service was shown by him to the senate military committee today.

A letter presented to the committee, purported to be from Col. Reber, head of the service, to Captain Cowan, in charge at San Diego, under date of June 2, 1915, and read:

"I wish you would have your engineering department get me out some drawings for the size of sheets to be placed under the seats of aviators for all legged armor protection. I will have several of these plates made so we can say we have armored aeroplanes, not that I think it vitally essential but in order that we can meet any charge that our machines are not armored."

Captain Cowan in a letter to Col. Reber, declared if the "service ever came under investigation by any one outside our own corps, it would be impossible to explain the rotten way in which the work has been handled."

mountain ridge nearly a mile above sea level yielding to bayonet attack after only 36 hours' bombardment.

The operations were conducted under the most severe weather conditions, the snow being deep and the thermometer registering at times more than 30 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. The Turkish army defending Erzerum, taken by surprise under the methods adopted by the Russians, is now said to be in disorderly flight on the roads leading to Sivas. As the garrison apparently scattered in all directions it is assumed here that large numbers of men were taken prisoner, although official figures are still lacking. After the taking of Nishapur, it appeared that the Russian attack would be directed upon the Turkish right flank and by rapidly transferring troops the Turks made all plans to resist the main assault from this quarter. Apparently they had little fear of the success of this attack because of the strong character of the fortifications in that direction and ever less apprehension of danger from a frontal attack.

Nevertheless, after the Russians succeeded in taking by storm the first Russian forts on Feb. 2 there began a persistent bombardment of the Turkish center, followed by a bayonet charge, the impetuosity of which swept the defenders off their feet. The highest tribute is paid to the bravery of the Caucasian troops, whose charge is considered likely to go down in history as one of the most brilliant feats of the war.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mr. Hilgemann at Woodburn.

Harry H. Hilgemann, candidate for the democratic nomination to congress, addressed an audience of more than two hundred democratic voters in the moving picture theater at Woodburn Thursday evening, where Glenn Henderson presided. Mr. Hilgemann devoted some time to a review of democratic achievements, emphasizing especially the business situation. Mr. Hilgemann asserted that instead of democracy being fairly chargeable with responsibility for business depression at any time, he was prepared to prove by republican testimony that the democrats had, by the passage of the federal reserve banking law, made such panics as that of 1907 impossible.

FRANK DRY GOODS COMPANY

SAYS HARVESTER FURNISHED MONEY

Financed Revolution in Yucatan, Declares
Chicago Man.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Charges that the International Harvester company has furnished money for arms and ammunition to the Ortiz-Agüero revolution against the Carranza government in Yucatan, Mexico, were made today by Levy Mayer, of Chicago, in the senate agricultural committee's investigation into an alleged monopoly for control of the sisal market.

Walter F. Fisher, former secretary of the interior, counsel for the Harvester company, displayed to the committee a bundle of bills, part of 3,500,000 pesos, issued by the Yucatan commission formed for controlling the sisal crop. He was undertaking to explain that the bills had come into the possession of the harvester company from a draft for $480,000 gold issued to Angelino Montes, a sisal purchaser, who the Yucatan planters assert, represented solely the harvester company when he was interrupted by Mayer, who declared they gave the draft to raise money for stirring up a revolution.

"That's just talk," retorted Mr. Fisher.

"We will be able to show and introduce into the record the invoices and bills showing that at least part of the money went to an arms purchasing company, of New York, to buy rifles and ammunition," replied Mayer.

Mr. Fisher asserted the money from the draft was given the Yucatan government in exchange for the commissions money in order to have currency to pay the sisal planters. The Ortiz-Agüero government had control of Yucatan for a short time in 1915 and was overcome by the Carranza army.

BLACK CAT IS TOO MUCH FOR FIREBUG

Tenement House Horror in New York Prevented by Fright.

New York, Feb. 18.—Midnight scenes of terror, which caused horror in normal minds, gave an intense pleasure to the twisted mind of one man. His obsession was found the other day to be the explanation of a series of mysterious fires that have terrified scores of Harlem tenement house dwellers recently.

This strange zest for placing many people against whom he held no grudge in danger of death amid flames his own hands started belonged to Edward Puster, an otherwise apparently normal youth, of 946 Columbus avenue.

Although he was hardened to scenes from which most folks shrink in fear, it was the footfall of a black cat that threw him into the panic which resulted in the exposure of his mania.

He had crept into the basement of his own home early in the morning. Upstairs on the tiered floors two dozen families lay sleeping. On the topmost floor, furthest from safety, his own elderly mother and father slept. He soaked the stairs with kerosene, and then treated in the same way a pile of inflammable rubbish in a coal bin.

Then he felt for a match. At this moment came the fateful footfall of that prowling black cat on some loose boards. The youth fled in terror, and as he rushed to the street he came face to face with a policeman.

"A burglar—in the house—frightened me!" he had presence of mind enough to gasp in explanation of his sudden dash from the house; but in his anxiety for plausibility he overstepped himself.

As he told this story Lieut. William Joyce, of the fire prevention bureau of the fire department, had happened along and had listened to him. Joyce went with him and found that preparations for an incendiary fire had been arranged as Puster described.

76 AMERICANS SLAIN DURING PAST 3 YEARS

State Department Makes a Report on Mexico to Senate.

Washington, Feb. 18.—All the state department's data on the Mexican situation asked for by Senator Fall was transmitted to the senate yesterday by President Wilson, and, under motion of Chairman Stone, of the foreign relations committee, was ordered printed as a public document. It had been expected some of it would be held confidential.

In a letter from Secretary Lansing, accompanying the report it is said that seventy-six American citizens were killed in Mexico in the years 1913, 1914 and 1915, as against forty-seven in the three years preceding it, and that twenty-six civilian Americans and sixteen soldiers were killed on American soil in the same three years as a result of Mexican troubles.

Killings Are Classified.

Americans killed in Mexico from causes that can be attributed to the revolutionary disturbances during 1913, 1914 and 1915 were placed at eighteen: those who have disappeared in Mexico and who were probably killed from causes than can be attributed directly to the revolutionary disturbances, six; those killed, apparently through motives of robbery, by bandits or others (not including those killed by Indians), ten; those killed by Indians, apparently through motives of robbery or revenge, twelve; those killed from miscellaneous causes and causes not definitely stated, thirty.

Ninety-Two Mexicans Killed.

The total number of Mexicans killed in American territory as a result of border trouble other than those resulting from firing across the border, the report says, in 1913 to 1915 inclusive, was eighty-nine. Mexicans killed in American territory as a result of firing across the international line during engagements in border towns in the same period was three, a total of ninety-two.

Regarding the ability of the de facto government to fulfill its promises to protect the lives and property of Americans in Mexico, Secretary Lansing said in his report that since the promises were given the disturbances along the border had in large measure ceased.

Fall is Disappointed.

Senator Fall expressed disappointment because the president and secretary of state deemed it to the public interest to withhold some of the information requested.

"The report is about what I expected," he said, "and is of little value. It is only intended to scatter the fire of critics of the administration's Mexican policy."

Senator Fall was particularly disappointed because reports of the Brazilian minister, reports of American consuls and consular representatives were withheld.

Private advice to the war department tell of an alleged plan of Mexicans on the American side of the border, particularly in California and Texas, for an expedition to cross into northern Mexico to embarrass the Carranza government. Major General Funston has been notified to take steps to prevent any violation of American neutrality.

RECRUITING EFFORT FAILS

Gunner's Mate Tries to Get Governor and Fairbanks into Navy.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—Marvin J. Yost, gunner's mate, second class, a member of the navy recruiting station in the federal building, and who is in charge of the forty-seven-millimeter revolving cannon on exhibition at the Murat theater, received the shock of his life Monday night. While on duty explaining all about the cannon, Yost also passed out cards which were attractive appeals to young men to join the navy.

When two men approached the cannon, Yost immediately handed cards to them and then dwelt on the announcement that "they could travel, see the world, obtain good wages and steady positions." After the men had thanked him for his courtesy, Yost turned to an attaché of the theater and asked who those men were.

"Why, don't you know?" queried the informant in surprise. "You have been talking to Charles W. Fairbanks and Governor Ralston." And when Yost recalled that he had placed emphasis on the fact that they obtain steady steady positions, his heart sank.

HOW BOGGSTOWN SECDED

Anniversary Recalls Event in Indiana Town 55 Years Ago.

Shelbyville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Fifty-five years ago, in a small log schoolhouse in Boggstown, Sugar Creek township, resolutions were passed which are said to have been the cause of several states seceding. The famous "Boggstown resolutions" which sought to bind the residents of Sugar Creek township to the cause of the Confederacy and to secede, if it came to that, were passed February 16, 1861. Only three votes were cast against the resolutions.

The resolutions were prepared by a correspondent of a newspaper in Louisville, Ky., who was in Boggstown at that time visiting his uncle, Dr. J. W. Smelser. Dr. Smelser was made a member of the committee on resolutions. Immediately he took from his pocket a set of resolutions that had been prepared before the meeting. After the resolutions had been adopted, the correspondent left for his home in Louisville. Soon afterward a copy of the resolutions was printed in the papers throughout the south. However, after Lincoln had issued his call for volunteers, the people of Sugar Creek township responded quickly on the Union side.

FOLK WHO WRITE AND ILLUSTRATE MAGAZINES ARE STARS IN THE LATEST SILHOUETTE MOVIE.

New York, Feb. 18.—There's some Cobb, Owen and Mrs. Johnson, James, hijab the spotlight—the silhouette movie. It has darkened the lives not only of some movie actors, but of Irvin Preston and her husband James, and Montgomery and Mrs. Flagg, Charles Dana and Mrs. Gibson, Edgar Selwyn, Margaret Mayo Selwyn, May Wilson Preston and her husband James, and among others, Isabel the Sailor, hero of the first silhouette movie.

The inventor, C. Allan Gilbert, illustrator, and J. H. Bray, cartoonist, induced these notables to go into the movies when they were lured to the Gilbert-Bray studio.

There the authors and artists and their wives or husbands moving in profile across the stage, were thrown into bold relief against a white background, and their movements recorded by a motion picture camera.

Author Cobb acted a brief skit, entitled "Pretensions," with the aid of the "Silhouette" movie.

GOVERNMENT AID IN HOME MAKING

Uncle Sam is Doing Much in the Various Federal Departments.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Numerous government agencies are at work in behalf of homemaking, according to a recent report of home education, prepared by Miss Ellen C. Lombard, of the bureau of education, department of the interior. Besides the bureau of education—which maintains divisions of home education—the bureau of mines, the reclamation service, and the office of Indian affairs, all of the interior department, are doing direct work in education for the home. The treasury department, through its public health service, and the departments of agriculture, labor and commerce, are also promoting homemaking through one or more bureaus or offices. The reclamation service of the interior department is reaching the women on the projects; it is working for improved conditions in the homes, and it has taken active steps in inaugurating clubs for study purposes. More than 200 clubs have been formed among the project women, every one of the 16 states where the government has reclamation projects being represented. The Reclamation Record, the organ of the reclamation service, has become an important factor in reaching the women on the projects; one entire section of this periodical is given over to project women and their interests.

The Indian office, also under the department of the interior, is carrying on four distinct activities in the promotion of better home conditions: Through the Indian children in school; through the farmer on the farm; through the medical service, and through the work of the field matron. The field matron comes into close contact with the Indian mothers. She instructs them how to care for themselves and little children; how to give the children proper food. She teaches them how to care for their houses and gives them valuable lessons in the importance of ventilation, sunlight, and cleanliness. She exerts a definite moral influence in advising the mothers.

Homemaking as a problem in the territories and dependencies of the United States has had the attention of the government for some time, and much good work has been done, although there are still sections, especially in the insular dependencies, where a careful study of living conditions and a plan of work for home education are needed.

In Alaska, where the education of natives is under the direction of the department of the interior, every teacher is a social worker and strives in every way possible to promote the physical, moral, and industrial welfare of the natives, adults as well as children. In the native villages the teachers and nurses of the Alaska school service endeavor to establish proper sanitary disposal of garbage, and by giving instruction in sanitary methods of living. Natives are encouraged to replace their huts by neat, well-ventilated houses. In some sections the natives have been taught to raise vegetables, as a healthful addition to the usual diet of fish and meat.

The need of home education in Porto Rico is evidenced by a survey of home conditions recently made by a special investigator for the bureau of education. While much valuable work has already been done by the authorities, there is urgent need for simple instruction in the selection and preparation of proper food, especially for infants. Steps have already been taken to bring the women together in small groups to discuss home problems. To a large extent this work will be directed by the teachers.

In the Philippines such government agencies as the bureau of education, the bureau of health, and the bureau of agriculture, have been actively engaged in improving and building up home life. There is the closest relation between the home and the school. The bureau of education of the Philippines, co-operating with the bureau of agriculture, has been instrumental in the establishment and supervision of thousands of home gardens, while the bureau of health, which has gained an international reputation for its successful efforts to control diseases of the tropics, has distributed circulars regarding epidemics and has in many other ways reached the homes of the people with instruction in preventive health measures.

Governor Honors Requisition for Accused Elwood Man.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—Governor Samuel M. Tipton decided late yesterday to honor a requisition for the return of Elmer E. Vessey, a hotel keeper of Elwood, Ind., to Cleveland, O., to answer to a charge of obtaining $7,850 under false pretenses.

Vessey through attorneys made a fight to prevent being turned over to the Ohio authorities. It was urged that the requisition papers did not state an offense and that they were otherwise illegal. Vessey is alleged to have swindled a Cleveland woman by selling her mining stock through misrepresentation.

RAILMEN'S DEMAND MEANS MORE SAFETY

That's the View Taken by W. J. Lauck of Plea of Employees.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—"It can't be too strongly emphasized that the movement for an eight-hour day has not the object of securing more wages; they want a reasonable working day."

Thus W. J. Lauck, a railway expert, summed up the position of the four railroad brotherhoods in their demand for an eight-hour day.

Lauck, statistician of the Firemen's Brotherhood in the eastern wage arbitration case of 1913, and represented the engineers and firemen in the western arbitration case of 1914-15. An expert in railway economics, Lauck prepared the case for the men in these arbitrations.

Although not authorized to speak for the brotherhoods in the present demand which may result in the greatest strike in history, he is familiar with the position of the brotherhoods, and should the case go to arbitration, as now seems unlikely, he probably would be called as an expert.

"The demand for time and a half for overtime is not for more pay—it is a penalty the men believe will prevent overtime work," he continued. "All this was made clear in the statement recently issued by the executives of the four railway brotherhoods. The railroads cannot attempt to misrepresent the object of the eight-hour movement by saying it is an indirect demand for higher pay."

"The men's demand is also in the interest of the public; it means greater safety in travel."

"The railroads have grossly exaggerated the cost to them of adopting an eight-hour day. More than 67 per cent. of the total railroad mileage of the southeastern states operates now under an eight-hour day in through freight service, and 3 per cent. of the western railroads have now an eight-hour day. The passenger service already has a working day of less than eight hours.

"The yard, local, work train, and irregular freight services are the only branches in which a change would occur."

"And as through freight service constitutes about 42 per cent. of the total freight service, and only 24 per cent. of this is in the west, for example, would be involved, the proportion of the total payroll affected (assuming the most rigid and extreme application of the employees' requests) would be only about 11 per cent.

"Railway labor has constantly grown in productiveness and has cost the railroads less, even when higher rates of pay have been secured for each ton of freight handled. The increased productivity of labor, as well as the immense resources of the railroads which have arisen from the growth of our industries and population, have been dictated by improper financial management, or capitalized and absorbed by the issue of fictitious securities."

GOVERNMENT AID IN HOME MAKING

Uncle Sam is Doing Much in the Various Federal Departments.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Numerous government agencies are at work in behalf of homemaking, according to a recent report of home education, prepared by Miss Ellen C. Lombard, of the bureau of education, department of the interior. Besides the bureau of education—which maintains divisions of home education—the bureau of mines, the reclamation service, and the office of Indian affairs, all of the interior department, are doing direct work in education for the home. The treasury department, through its public health service, and the departments of agriculture, labor and commerce, are also promoting homemaking through one or more bureaus or offices.

The reclamation service of the interior department is reaching the women on the projects; it is working for improved conditions in the homes, and it has taken active steps in inaugurating clubs for study purposes. More than 200 clubs have been formed among the project women, every one of the 16 states where the government has reclamation projects being represented. The reclamation record, the organ of the reclamation service, has become an important factor in reaching the women on the projects; one entire section of this periodical is given over to project women and their interests.

The Indian office, also under the department of the interior, is carrying on four distinct activities in the promotion of better home conditions: Through the Indian children in school, through the farmer on the farm, through the medical service, and through the work of the field matron. The field matron comes into close contact with the Indian mothers. She instructs them how to care for themselves and little children; how to give the children proper food. She teaches them how to care for their houses and gives them valuable lessons in the importance of ventilation, sunlight, and cleanliness. She exerts a definite moral influence in advising the mothers.

Homemaking as a problem in the territories and dependencies of the United States has had the attention of the government for some time, and much good work has been done, although there are still sections, especially in the insular dependencies, where a careful study of living conditions and a plan of work for home education are needed. In Alaska, where the education of natives is under the direction of the department of the interior, every teacher is a social worker and strives in every way possible to promote the physical, moral, and industrial welfare of the natives, adults as well as children. In the native villages the teachers and nurses in the Alaska school service endeavor to establish proper sanitary disposal of garbage, and by giving instruction in sanitary methods of living. Natives are encouraged to replace their huts by neat, well-ventilated houses. In some sections the natives have been taught to raise vegetables, as a healthful addition to the usual diet of fish and meat.

The need of home education in Porto Rico is evidenced by a survey of home conditions recently made by a special investigator for the bureau of education. While much valuable work has already been done by the authorities, there is urgent need for simple instruction in the selection and preparation of proper food, especially for infants. Steps have already been taken to bring the women together in small groups to discuss home problems. To a large extent this work will be directed by the teachers.

In the Philippines such government agencies as the bureau of education, the bureau of health, and the bureau of agriculture, have been actively engaged in improving and building up home life. There is the closest relation between the home and the school. The bureau of education of the Philippines, co-operating with the bureau of agriculture, has been instrumental in the establishment and supervision of thousands of home gardens, while the bureau of health, which has gained an international reputation for its successful efforts to control diseases of the tropics, has distributed circulars regarding epidemics and has in many other ways reached the homes of the people with instruction in preventive health measures.

VESSEY MUST GO TO OHIO.

Governor Honors Requisition for Accused Elwood Man.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—Governor Samuel M. Ralston decided late yesterday to honor a requisition for the return of Elmer E. Vessey, a hotel keeper of Elwood, Ind., to Cleveland, O., to answer to a charge of obtaining $7,850 under false pretenses.

Vessey through attorneys made a fight to prevent being turned over to the Ohio authorities. It was urged that the requisition papers did not state an offense and that they were otherwise illegal. Vessey is alleged to have evinced a Cleveland woman by selling her mining stock through misrepresentation.

RAILMEN'S DEMAND MEANS MORE SAFETY

That's the View Taken by
W. J. Lauck of Plea of Employees.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—"It can't be too strongly emphasized that the movement for an eight-hour day has not the object of securing more wages than they are now able to work for."

W. J. LAUCK

Thus W. J. Lauck, railway expert summed up the position of the four railroad brotherhoods in their demand for an eight-hour day. Lauck, statistician Lauck represented the firemen's brotherhood in the eastern wage arbitration case of 1913, and represented the engineers and firemen in the western arbitration case of 1914-15. An expert on railway economics, Lauck prepared the case for the men in these arbitration cases.

Although not authorized to speak for the brotherhoods in the present demand which may result in the greatest strike in history, he is familiar with the position of the brotherhoods, and should the case go to arbitration, as now seems unlikely, he probably would be called as an expert.

"The demand for time and a half for overtime is not for more pay—it is a penalty the men believe will prevent overtime work," he continued. "All this was made clear in the statement recently issued by the executives of the four railway brotherhoods. The railroads cannot attempt to misrepresent the object of the eight-hour movement by saying it is an indirect demand for higher pay."

"The men's demand is also in the interest of the public; it means greater safety in travel. The railroads have grossly exaggerated the cost to them of adopting an eight-hour day. More than 67 per cent. of the total railroad mileage of the southeastern states operates now under an eight-hour day. In through freight service, and 3 per cent. of the western railroads have now an eight-hour day. The passenger service already has a working day of less than eight hours.

"The yard, local, work train, and irregular freight services are the only branches in which a change would occur."

"And as through freight service constitutes about 42 per cent. of the total freight service, and only 24 per cent. of this is in the west, for example, would be involved, the proportion of the total payroll affected (assuming the most rigid and extreme application of the employees' requests) would be only about 11 per cent.

"Railway labor has constantly grown in productiveness and has cost the railroads less, even when higher rates of pay have been secured for each ton of freight handled. The increased productivity of labor, as well as the immense resources of the railroads which have arisen from the growth of our industries and population, have been dissipated by improper financial management, or capitalized and absorbed by the issue of fictitious securities."

TELLS JUDGE WIFE HOPPED IN CHURCH

Indianapolis Man Came to Conclusion She is Insane.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—His reasons for filing an insanity charge against his wife in Justice Fieser's court was explained at length to Judge Lahr, in juvenile court by Frank Shelton, 317 South Temple avenue, defendant on a child neglect charge.

"I went to the Apostolic Faith church with her on Ohio street, thinking I might join," said Shelton. "After we had been there a little while my wife and the others started hopping up and down and dancing around like I'd never seen in any other church. I was sitting in the corner talking to a beautiful young woman when my wife came up and said to me, 'I'll brain you.' Judge, she ain't right, she needs attention."

"Suppose we give her the whisky you drink," suggested the court.

"But I average 365 days a year and overtime, so you can see I don't drink much, judge," pleaded Shelton.

"He came home drunk Christmas and drank another quart of whisky before he went to bed," said Mrs. Shelton. Her husband justified himself on the grounds Christmas comes only once a year. He insisted that his wife needed treatment for her mental condition, saying she was nervous.

"Are you nervous?" Shelton was asked. He had been grinning up at the end of every sentence, bobbing his head out of his collar, like a turtle.

"Sure, I'm married," grinned the defendant.

Mrs. Shelton told the court her husband band had been "that way" for eight years.

"Then I think it will take an insanity commission to decide this case," said Judge Lahr. Shelton promised to stop drinking to a "reasonable extent," which he explained meant whisky in the morning, a beer at noon and two beers at night.

"I average 365 days and overtime—" "Yes, I know," said the court. "I'm going to continue this case and send you to jail to sober up."

Halibut Fishermen Hard-Working Crew; No Place for a Weakling

Modern Vikings Range the Northwest Banks from Columbia to Kodiak—They Supply 85 Per Cent. of Halibut Used in United States.

By Jack Jungmeyer
Seattle, Wash., Feb. 18.—Men men actually glory in hard work; there is something fundamentally right about the job.

That's the way the halibut fishermen on the north Pacific perform their task of supplying Uncle Sam's table with sea flesh.

They recognize but one shame and crime—to quit plugging while they have strength to stand.

A harder working crew doesn't live, but they are their own boss. They share the profits of the haul.

And they need never be out of work for long.

Therein lies the secret of their exultation, though their daily stunt is often 20 hours in the dory and the icing pens. These modern Vikings make their own conditions, largely. And they stick with the trawls a lifetime, or until the perils of their calling pull them down.

4,000 Are at Work

Over 4,000 of them range the northwest banks, from the Columbia to Kodiak, supply 85 per cent of the halibut used in the United States.

The commercial side of the industry is told in market reports—65,000,000 pounds taken during 1915, with a return of near $4,000,000 to the men and the vessel owners from the dealers.

But pounds and dollar marks don't tell the story.

The classic of the halibut is written at sea, in dangers and wrecks; in titanic labors; in heroism never chronicled, and in the wonderful team spirit of the 4,000 men who handle the trawls.

Power schooners have taken the place of the Yankee sail on the Pacific. And power has set a terrific pace among the halibut catchers.

Each vessel carries from four to ten dories, from which the men, two to every boat, heave the long, many-hooked trawl lines and lift them again. Nets, spread in the dories, when filled with fish are hoisted aboard the schooner with a winch.

From 4 o'clock in the morning until past midnight, when on the banks, the dorymen do not rest, save for the call of the cook.

The small boats are dropped over the side while the schooner is under way, and are picked up again at dark in the same way. The day's catch is evicted and packed in ice in the vessel's hold after the men come aboard at night.

Three Hours' Sleep.

For perhaps three hours they sleep like dead men, without even removing their boots. Then the cook's gong again—the cook who is master in the fo'castle.

Until the schooner's fish bunkers are filled—from four to fourteen days—this terrible pace is kept up by the men without being driven.

Four-fifths of the entire catch goes to the fishermen, the remainder to the vessel's owner. The crew pays all expenses of the trip, in the independent schooners, and divides the residue in equal shares.

That, with youth and health and the viking spirit, is momentum enough.

It is no berth for a shirker or a weakling. A dory is a dividend reducer, robbing his dorymates.

The best halibut banks lie up against the Alaskan coast, where storms break furiously; where fog and reef and icy waters spell constant peril.

Sometimes six dories go overside in the morning, and but five are picked up at night. Where or how the ill-fated boat with its two men has disappeared no man will ever know.

The halibut men expect that, accepting it with fatalistic calm. Without these dangers, the men tell me, they would find the life too tame. It's chance and the unknown that lure them.

And the fellow who hesitates or whimpers is a shame to his crew. He's not of the halibut clan. And next trip another sits in his dory.

WILL FIGHT PREMIUMS

Business Men's Association to Conduct Campaign in Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—A plan to teach the housewives of this city that they do not get something for nothing when they get premiums with foods they buy, but that they pay full value for the goods and for the premiums, was decided on at the regular meeting of the Indianapolis Business Men's Association at the chamber of commerce.

The educational campaign will be carried on through the newspapers and through the distribution of circulars. Grocers will be urged to take up the matter individually with their customers in an attempt to show that the economical way to buy is to pay for everything that is bought—not buy one article to get possession of something in addition.

The organization is also working for the enactment of a bill before congress which would require a uniform retail price for nationally advertised goods. The business men said that nationally advertised goods which are sold at less than the standard price are merely bait for the unsuspecting housewife who possibly pays more money for other commodities she buys at the same place.

SENT TO INSANE COLONY.

Martinsville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Porter Bond, of Coal City, who killed Melvin Hubble and Harry Gray here Tuesday, was found guilty of murder and ordered committed to the colony for criminal insane at Michigan City. Bond was found guilty of Hubble's murder yesterday. The charge that he murdered Gray has not been disposed of. When the case came up in the circuit court there was no question except that of the sanity of the slayer involved.

MAIL WILL DROP FROM THE CLOUDS IN UNCLE SAM'S NEW POSTAL SCHEME.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—Conservative Massachusetts has beaten Arizona, California and all the other contestants to it with the first aeroplane mail route!

Neither the Indian agents of the painted desert, nor the placer miners of the southern Sierra will be the first to receive Uncle Sam's well known mail from a regularly authorized aviator-mailman!

That honor will fall to the humble fishermen and the less humble hotel keepers of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket—two islands off the southern New England coast.

Advertisements have been issued by the government, asking bids for service to the summer islands—which, by the way, are inhabited from June to September by many folk prominent in New York and Boston society.

During the resort season the government intends to deliver mail to the islands twice each week day and once on Sunday. At other times the services will be daily. The mail now goes out by steamboat from New Bedford, Mass., 56 miles from Nantucket.

The government demands a two-hour schedule from New Bedford to Nantucket, including stops at Woods Hole, Penikese, and the other islands.

and Oak Bluffs, on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

Seven airmail routes also are proposed for Alaska, as follows:

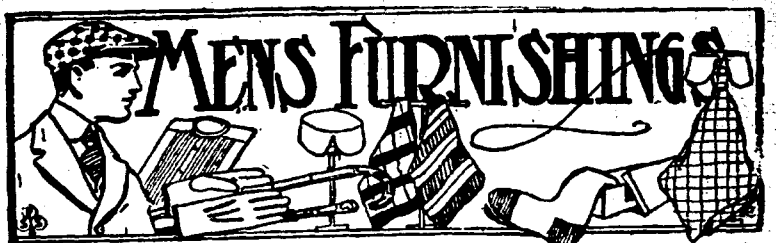

Valdez to Fairbanks, 358 miles; Fairbanks to Tanana, 182; Tanana to Kaltag, 381; Kaltag to Nome, 225; Nome to Iditarod, 280; Iditarod to Seward, 280; Seward to Anchorage, 110. A continuous route of 1,896 miles.

It would take 10-12 days to go from Valdez to Anchorage via the government airmail route under the published schedule.

The present cost of the Nantucket mail service is $25,000 a year, that of the Alaska airmail service is $100,000.

RUMANIA SUPPLYING CEREALS TO BERLIN

Immense Quantities Go to Central Powers Under Contract.

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 25.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Fifty thousand carloads of cereals, or about 10,000,000 hundredweight, go to Germany and Austria from Rumania, as the result of negotiations which have just been terminated. An option for another 50,000 carloads has also been secured by the agents of the central powers. The Rumanian government has sanctioned the transaction, and export begins immediately. A great deal of grain bought by the central powers months ago, but so far unexported for various reasons, will also be moved now. Shipment will be made over every available railroad and on the Danube.

Negotiations were conducted by the Rumanian Grain Sales Commission and the Cereal Central of the German, Austrian and Hungarian governments. The grain consists principally of Indian corn, wheat, barley, beans and lentils. It will be paid for partly in gold, but the greater share of the purchase price will be in German paper currency, marks.

The transaction is remarkable for the fact that for the cost of the cereals the Rumanian government will get a credit on the Deutsche Reichsbank in Berlin, for which the Rumanian National bank will then issue notes, these notes reaching the sellers of the grain.

The foodstuffs so procured will be divided among German and Austria-Hungary as follows: Six cars of each shipment to Germany and five to Austria and Hungary. Cars and means of river transportation will be provided by the central powers.

With another 50,000 cars held on option by the central powers, and with Turkey and Bulgaria also in the market, Rumania disposes of her entire 1915 crop, of which but little had been moved. Available also is still a good share of the 1914 crop, which Rumania was not disposed to sell to the central powers last spring and summer, owing to the belief that the Dardanelles would be forced by the allies. Some of the cereals sold to the allies were moved via Turn-Severin and Kladova, whence they were taken over the Serbian railroads to Salonika. The conquest of Serbia closed this route.

With no prospect that the 1916 crop could be sold to Germany or Austria-Hungary, the Rumanian government has decided to sell its entire 1915 crop to the central powers.

which is said to be very advantageous to the latter. Figures are not available, however. But that the central powers drove a hard bargain is said here to be indicated by the fact that very little gold changes hands, whereas all previous purchases in Rumania by the central powers were made with gold as the only acceptable equivalent.

The transaction was discussed in the Rumanian parliament and was stoutly opposed by the friends of the entente, among them notably Jake Joneescu, Toma Jonescu, Filipescu and Mile. Government members and the grain and landed class interests took the position that Rumania stood in sore need of the revenues to be derived from the sale, these being the only income Rumania has with which to cover imports. Very stormy scenes ensued, but the opposition lost.

Rumania's position is due to her complete isolation from the world's grain consumers. The closing of the Dardanelles left Rumania no other route than that through Serbia, which is now closed up. The central powers, Rumania would not sell, and what little was bought had to be taken at prohibitive prices to which vast sums in the form of extortion of one sort or another had to be added. It is believed that the present transaction cleans the slate.

Agents of the entente governments were active to prevent the sale, but were defeated by the fact that Russia, the only allied power with whom Rumania now has physical contact and communication, does not have to buy grain in foreign markets.

It costs Great Britain on an average $1,500 a year for each man in regular army at the present time.

HARD FOR PRESIDENT TO GET EXACT TRUTH

What Little Reading He Has
Time to Do is Picked Out for Him.

Washington, Feb. 18.—President Wilson asserted in New York that it was by culling the statements of liars he found out the truth about Mexico.

When President Wilson made his assertion he enunciated a general condition which exists at the white house and which has surrounded every president more or less since the beginning of the republic.

A president rarely is able to learn the full truth about conditions at the time the average man learn it. This is true regarding all public matters which do not originate in the white house.

The reason for this condition is: that as soon as a man enters the white house as the chief executive he immediately loses that close contact with his fellow men which he was bound to have in a more or less degree prior to his election.

The instant he assumes his duties he becomes the center of a little world of his own. He has so much to do, so many people to see he has little or no time to read the daily newspapers, and, if he finds time to read a little, his reading is selected and the consequences are he sees only that which is best for him to see from the standpoint of his well wishers.

He rarely ever sees that which is to his political or personal detriment. In other words, he sees only the good things said about him and little of the unfriendly criticism.

What is true of the newspapers is true to a greater degree of his personal interviews with his friends.

No friend of the president will tell him the exact truth regarding any situation unless it is favorable to the president's known viewpoint.

From the day Wilson entered the whitehouse he has had a light of some kind on his hands. This includes his work with congress, his party's troubles, including Mexico. There have been few days since March 4, 1913, that Wilson has been idle.

Five big daily newspapers are delivered every day at the white house. Twice that number are received each day at the executive offices. It is safe to assert that in the three years Wilson has been president he has not read on any one day two of these five papers, and that not more than 100 times has he been able to read any newspaper.

When he read them he did not do so as he was accustomed to doing prior to entering the white house. Then he read them through, since then he has been able to scan them only.

The biggest untruths are told the president with regard to applicants and candidates for public affairs. Senator A. goes to see the president and he recommends N. be made postmaster somewhere. N. is a candidate, too. As soon as the latter learns Senator A. has recommended N. charges immediately are filed against the latter and the friends of B. can not say too many mean things about N. An inspector is sent out to investigate. He makes report favorable to N. More charges are filed and another investigation is made, by another inspector. He probably makes an entirely different report. He probably has seen the same people the first inspector saw and there same people give him an entirely new set of facts. The result is—

The president often has to shut his eyes and take the recommendations of the cabinet officers under whom the particular position belongs. And then Senator A. is displeased. The president has been lied to and he knows it, but has not a ghost of a chance to ascertain the truth.

Very often the president will get two letters at the same time on the same subject and both letters will be radically different in their description of details, which, in actuality, are the same.

In almost every case the cabinet follows and does not advise. This is not any more true of this administration than all others. It was so in Roosevelt's days as president. Root was the only man in the Roosevelt cabinet who had the courage to tell Roosevelt the truth. He did it on several occasions and very forcibly.

President Wilson has begun to find out these facts and this condition. It was this knowledge which led him to accede to the wishes of his friends for a visit to "the folks back home." He will follow this visit with others if he can find the time.

TEAS ARE MACHINE GUNS OF SOCIAL WAR—HEIRS TO MILLIONS ARE DIVIDED IN BATTLE.

New York, Feb. 18.—Who is to be THE Mrs. Astor?

New York society is trying to decide, while the biggest social battle the New York-Newport-Tuxedo-Palm Beach set has seen in years is being waged with the three Madames Astors central figures.

The opening shot was a ball Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who was Madeline Force, gave last month to let the world know she had laid aside the widow's weeds the sinking of the Titanic brought upon her.

The success of the function opened to her doors closed against "that Force girl" from the day John Jacob Astor finally secured a clergyman to marry them.

At the ball her stepson, Vincent Astor, and his wife were conspicuous by their absence.

The first wife of John Jacob Astor is credited with saying she will not recognize Madeline Force Astor, who uses the name of Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

Mrs. Madeline Force Astor's assuming the "John Jacob" portion of her late husband's name has caused no pleasure upon the part of Vincent Astor and his mother. The latter, when she divorced John Jacob Astor, took the name of Ava Willing Astor, but this winter made it known she wishes to be called Mrs. John Astor.

Mrs. Ava Willing, of Mrs. John Astor, has a firmly established social position here and abroad, and for the sake of her son's wife is willing to give her support to make Mrs. Vincent Astor THE Mrs. Astor of New York, while she remains THE Mrs. Astor abroad.

Since Mrs. John Jacob Astor's ball Mrs. Vincent Astor has given a series of affairs supposedly to offset the effects of her rival's successful entertainment.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor opened the Astor mansion in aid of charity just before Christmas. The occasion was a matinee in time for the Serbian relief fund. Proceeds of the play were estimated at $2,500.

And the wife of America's richest young man, Mrs. Vincent Astor, has recently gone in for philanthropy. She plans to help the unemployed by starting shops and stores for men and women without work.

SCHOOL FIGHT IS STARTED ON JOHN D.

Oil Magnate is Charged With Seeking to Control the System.

New York, Feb. 18.—A fight against the general education board of the Rockefeller Foundation has been started in the state legislature. State senator John J. Boylan introduced a resolution to investigate the board on the ground that it was seeking to gain control of the board of education of the city of New York.

Friends of the board say the investigation is a Tammany move and is in retaliation for the fight made by Dr. Abraham Flexner, secretary of the board, against the re-election of Thomas W. Churchill as president of the New York board of education. The fight was made on behalf of Mayor Mitchell.

The resolution provides for a committee of two senators and three assemblymen with an appropriation of $10,000 for its expenses with power to investigate generally the activities, objects, purposes and accounts of the Rockefeller Foundation, the general education board of such foundation, the public education association connected therewith and all similar bodies.

Senator Boylan said the measure had the support of the state federation of labor.

INQUIRY AT SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Feb. 18.—The circuit court grand jury has begun its investigations of a mass of evidence against alleged law violators in South Bend, the results of another moral "cleanup" by Mayor Keller, has ordered for this city. Police officials and the prosecutor's office expect nearly 100 indictments on the evidence that has been collected. Charles Dible and Bert Omstead, special officers named by Mayor Keller, to do the work, will give much of the testimony to the grand jury.

For promptly averting serious results from a cold, use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It spreads a healing soothing influence, cures raw inflamed surfaces, eases tightness and soreness of chest, helps cough, whooping cough, croup, croupy wheezy breathing, bronchitis and croup.

HOW U. S. IS MEETING THE MALARIA PROBLEM

Public Health Service is Doing Remarkable Work in War on Malady.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Four per cent of inhabitants of certain sections of the south have malaria. This estimate, based on the reporting of 204,881 cases during 1914, has led the United States Public Health service to give increased attention to the malaria problem, according to the annual report of the surgeon general. Of 13,526 blood specimens examined by government officers during the year, 1,797 showed malarial infection. The infection rate among white persons was above eight per cent, and among colored persons twenty per cent. In two counties in the Yazoo valley, 40 out of every 100 inhabitants presented evidence of the disease.

Striking as the above figures are they are no more remarkable than those relating to the reduction in the incidence of the disease following surveys of the Public Health service at 34 places in nearly every state of the south. In some instances from an incidence of fifteen per cent in 1914, a reduction has been accomplished to less than four or five per cent in 1915.

One of the important scientific discoveries made during the year was in regard to the continuance of the disease from season to season. Over 2,000 Anopheles mosquitoes in malarious districts were dissected, during the early spring months, without finding a single infected insect, and not until May 15, 1915, was the first parasite in the body of a mosquito discovered. The Public Health service, therefore, concludes that mosquitoes in the latitude of the southern states ordinarily do not carry the infection through the winter. This discovery indicates that protection from malaria may be secured by treating human carries with quinine previous to the middle of May, thus preventing any infection from chronic sufferers reaching mosquitoes and being transmitted by them to other persons.

Although quinine remains the best means of treating malaria and is also of marked benefit in preventing infection, the eradication of the disease as a whole rests upon the destruction of the breeding places of Anopheles mosquitoes. The Public Health service, therefore, is urging a definite campaign of draining standing water, the filling of low places, and the regrading and training of streams where malarial mosquitoes breed. The culling of breeding places, and the stocking of streams with top-feeding minnows, are further recommended. The service also gives advice regarding screening, and other preventive measures as a part of the educational campaigns conducted in sections of infected territory.

This study is typical of the scientific investigations which are being carried out by the Public Health service, all of which have a direct bearing on eradicating the disease.

now includes the collection of morbidity data, malaria surveys, demonstration work, scientific field and laboratory studies, educational campaigns, and special studies of impounded water and drainage projects.

WELL KNOWN BOWSER MAN HAS RESIGNED

G. A. Townsend Retires from Management of Advertising.

George A. Townsend, jr., one of the best known men connected with S. F. Bowser & Company, has tendered his resignation as advertising manager of that concern, effective March 3. He does not care to announce his intentions as to future operations now, but it is understood he has under consideration two or three propositions and may select one shortly. For awhile, however, Mr. Townsend will take a much needed rest.

He has been with S. F. Bowser & Company for six years and during his service always had some very important part to take in the advertising and the sales departments. He was the editor of the Bowser Boomer for two or three years in connection with management of the advertising department. Last January he retired from the editorship of the Boomer and was succeeded by Mr. Gallwey, formerly the company's manager at the Louisville office. Since that time Mr. Townsend has devoted his entire time to the advertising department, which he has brought to a high state of perfection. He is a member of the Efficiency club and has always taken an active part in its work. In his official capacity as editor of the Boomer and manager of the advertising department, Mr. Townsend came in close touch with the men connected with the business and sales departments and none is more generally popular among that class and his other associates than he. C. M. Smith, assistant advertising manager, will also retire from the department in March. He has secured a farm in the vicinity of Rome, on which he will take his family, and hereafter devote his time and energies to farming, a business he was engaged in before he took employment with S. F. Bowser & Company. No successor to Mr. Townsend has been announced, but it is believed the appointment will be made next week.

The walls and ceilings have been renovated, new carpets are being put down and new and pretty furniture will replace the old. This work is under the direction of the general committee of the B. L. E. and the auxiliary, which are composed as follows: B. L. E.—M. G. Flagle, chairman; Peter Carter and M. G. Walker, Auxiliary—Mrs. Peter Carter, chairman; Mrs. George Quiddore and Mrs. Thomas Koster. The B. L. At the district meeting of the B. L. E. divisions from Huntington, Garrett, Wabash, Van Wert, Lima, Chicago, Toledo, Peru and other places will attend and members of the G. I. A. from the towns named and other railway centers in this part of the country will be at the celebration of Friendship division, No. 18. Division 12, B. L. AUXILIARY BALL EARLY

Kekionga Division to Give Annual Event Before Easter.

Kekionga division, No. 51, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, will make an innovation in time of giving its annual ball and card party this year. All previous affairs given by the auxiliary, and in fact by most of the other organizations, were staged after Easter. This year, however, Kekionga division will give its fifth annual dance and card party at the Elks Temple Monday evening, March 6, three days before the Lenten season. The general committee, which is composed of Mrs. W. G. Trout, chairman; Mrs. Charles A. Bowman, Mrs. J. H. Swartz, Mrs. C. T. Matott and Mrs. Olive Current, have taken up the work of arranging for the affair and will soon be able to announce the sub-committees. The program will include a dance, with the best music the city can furnish, and a series of progressive pedro games, with magnificent prizes. The committee on arrangements will prepare for a big attendance—500 or 600 people—and will endeavor to make things pleasant for all their guests.

AN INDOOR PICNIC.

Kekionga Division, No. 51, Plans Novel Entertainment.

Kekionga division, No. 51, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, will give its second indoor picnic at Unity hall tomorrow afternoon and evening. The time has been divided with a view of giving opportunity for all to be present at one part or other of the entertainment. W. C. WIEHE COMING HOME.

A cablegram from Honolulu to the Western Gas Construction company yesterday conveyed the news that W. C. Wiehe had sailed from the island and would arrive in San Francisco February 21 and Fort Wayne about February 25. This message relieved friends and relatives of Mr. Wiehe of a great anxiety, for it was reported that he was one of the passengers on the Italian steamer which struck a mine and went down several weeks ago. Mr. Wiehe is an erector of gas making tanks and machinery for the Western Gas Construction company and last February a year ago, he went to Orop, Macton Island, in the Philippines, to install an immense coconut oil tank and only recently completed the work. The cablegram indicates his safety and brings gladness where sorrow and doubt prevailed for awhile. Fred Wiehe, Pennsylvania boilermaker, is a brother to W. C. Wiehe.

SLIGHT BLAZE AT THE "LIGHTS."

A fire in the annealing department at the General Electric works yesterday caused less than $100 damage, created considerable excitement and resulted in two of the firemen, George Doehla and Philip Weick, being slightly injured by breaking window glass. A short circuit set fire to oily waste, which fell into a car of Japan, used for coating iron. The blaze was fierce for a moment, but was soon extinguished by the company's fire department. Dr. F. J. Schulz attended the injured firemen.

INCREASING FOUNDRY FORCE.

The Bass Foundry and Machine works is taking on moulders as rapidly as good men apply for work. During the past three or four days Walter Wieland, Roland Stevens, James Lucas, Joseph Woods and Herbert Merchland have taken employment there and Supt. William Kingman is looking for more moulders. He has increased the force of moulder helpers over twenty-five in the past week.

APPRENTICE PAINFULLY HURT.

Leo Schallenberger, an apprentice in the Bass machine shop, sustained a bad cut on one of his knees yesterday, which will disable him for awhile. He was taking measurements inside a tank when he slipped and struck his knee on the sharp edge of the tank steel.

Rowley, a Pennsylvania fuel-welder, resumed work today after being sick a few days. Machinist F. E. English, of the Pennsylvania shops, is off duty with an injured finger. T. Labundy, a laborer, took employment at the Pennsylvania machine shop this morning. Ora Opatz, machinist, failed to show for duty at the Pennsylvania tool Machinist J. J. McLaughlin resumed work at the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning, having recovered from an illness.

General Foreman E. B. Hughes, of the Pennsylvania round house, has returned from a trip to Pittsburg in the interest of the company.

W. L. Wilt, who had been attending a conference of the presidents' committee on government valuation of railroads at New York, arrived home this morning.

He fractured the bones of one of his great toes Wednesday and can scarcely walk.

J. E. Naze, a machinist who has been employed in the erecting shop of the Pennsylvania since last fall, resigned this morning and will resume work in an automobile repair shop Monday. He was engaged in that line of work before going in the shops.

Changes at the General Electric works yesterday were the transfer of James Mills from stationery department, presided over by F. A. Goetz, to the meter testing department and the employment of O. Rosenberger to fill the vacancy in the stationery department. Clark Linn is a new messenger in the meter department.

Machinist E. M. Weintritt is absent from the Pennsylvania shops today on account of an injury received several days ago. While grinding a tool he allowed one of his fingers to get against the emery wheel. The wound did not cause much trouble until this morning when it became so painful he had to quit work and go home.

Wetzel, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the east room on the second floor of the public library. The state scout commissioner will conduct the school in person. He will not give any drill practice but will give talks on "First Aids" and woodcraft and several other departments in the scout work. He will also give several demonstrations.

Several new troops will be organized in a few weeks in addition to the fire troops already at work. Fort Wayne will soon see one of the finest boy scout organizations in the state.

Military Surgeons Accused of Granting Illegal Exemptions.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—"A Russian newspaper publishes sensational disclosures concerning illegal exemptions from military service," says the Overseas News Agency. "The secretary of a recruiting committee at Petrograd and a large number of military surgeons have been arrested. They are charged with having accepted amounts ranging from ten thousand rubles up in each case."

"The Russian press also reports that a Moscow committee for the relief of refugees received 200,000 rubles from the government in December of 1915. The president of the committee, Prince Troubetskoy, stated later that 200,000 rubles more was sent to the committee in December and 700,000 rubles in January, but that this money never reached its destination. The leakage has not yet been explained."

"This corruption, together with the reactionary policy of the Russian authorities, caused a strong opposition movement among members of the duma. After the downfall of Premier Goremykin, the new premier, M. Sturmer, attempted to calm the storm by meeting the party leaders individually. Most of these leaders declined to receive him. He then invited the leaders to afternoon teas in order to establish harmonious social relations, but this move was equally unsuccessful, as was demonstrated by the recent convention of the party leaders."

LODGE OUT IN WARNING

Change in Sea Attitude Would Be Unneutral, He Declares.

MUST NOT ABANDON AMERICAN RIGHTS

Senator Cites International Law and Rules as U. S. Guide.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Senator Lodge, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, made a speech in the senate today declaring that abandonment by the United States at this time of the principle that its ports were open to and its citizens free to travel on merchantmen of belligerent nations armed solely for defensive purposes would be an unneutral act and a step toward war. He said it would make the United States the ally of the belligerent whose merchant marine had been swept from the seas.

The senator spoke at length, dwelling upon the history of international law relating to the arming of merchantmen for defense and citing precedents in the record of the United States. He referred to reports that the administration was preparing to change its policy, which have been denied by Secretary Lansing since the issuance of the German and Austrian memorandums announcing their intention to treat armed merchant ships as war vessels, after Feb. 29.

Change Incredibly.
As late as the previous note of May 13, signed by Mr. Bryan, Senator Lodge said, this government recognized that "American citizens were within their undisputed rights in taking their ships and in traveling wherever their legitimate business calls them upon the high seas."

"Such," he added, "has been the practice of all nations in regard to the armed merchantmen. It seems utterly incredible that this position should be in any way altered now and that our government should be ready to surrender the unquestioned rights of Americans to travel or ship goods on a belligerent merchantman subject to all the rules which have been established by the courts and by all international authorities for at least two centuries."

"The abandonment of these rights by any neutral government on the ground that the invention of submarines with the necessary limitations upon the powers of capture possessed by those boats is inconceivable. Such abandonment could only rest on the grounds that the rights of neutrals, the rules which for centuries have been agreed upon by all nations for the protection of innocent lives upon vessels captured in war, must be thrown aside and discarded in order that a new instrument of maritime destruction must not be impeded in its work of death and murder. Such a doctrine is revolting to every instinct of humanity, to every principle of law and justice."

"There is, however, another side to this matter which is of even graver importance. There can be no question that any act by a neutral which alters conditions created by the war is an unneutral act and places the neutral upon the side of one belligerent or the other."

"This is eminently true of any form of embargo, and there is no need that I should repeat the unanswerable argument on this point embodied by Mr. Lansing in his note of last August to the government of Austria-Hungary. The war, and the war alone, has also created conditions under which any change at this time in the attitude which we took officially at the outset of the war in regard to armed merchantmen would be an unneutral act. The merchantmen of one belligerent have been swept from the seas. Therefore if we should abandon all the principles on this subject that we have ever sustained, if we should abandon the rules laid down by Mr. Lansing and declare that our ports were closed to armed merchantmen, or that goods and passengers from the United States could not be placed on uncommissioned merchantmen, armed solely for self defense, our action would affect only one belligerent; it would alter conditions created by the war and would therefore be unneutral. It would make us at once the ally of the belligerent whose merchant marine has been driven from the ocean. It would be a step toward war."

"I cannot believe that the administration thinks for a moment of altering the well defined position which it took at the outset of the European war and I believe that it must stand as firmly on this question as it has on the question of the embargo. Should it act otherwise it would accept a humiliation and incur a danger of war from which even the most unscrupulous would shrink."

TRAILING THE ACCUSED CHEF

New York Police Are Making Effort to Run Down Jean Crones.

NEW LETTER FROM FUGITIVE COMES

Confident Man Who Placed Poison in Banquet Soup is in New York.

New York, Feb. 18.—Believing that Jean Crones, the Chicago chef accused of poisoning the soup at a dinner of Catholic clergymen and laymen in that city in New York city or nearby the police made every effort today to run him down. The authorities think Crones is the author of two letters mailed in this city to the New York Times in which the writer boasts that he has escaped and makes veiled threats.

The identification by John McCort, assistant United States district attorney at Scranton, Pa., of the facsimile of the first Crones letter received here as the handwriting of the man wanted in Chicago stimulated the police efforts. Crones' writing was identified by examination papers he had sent to a correspondence school in Scranton. The second letter apparently signed by Crones received by the New York paper last night contained what purported to be his finger prints. The police are endeavoring to learn by these prints whether Crones had a record in the police bureau of identification.

The Latest Letter.
In this letter the writer attempted to tell in an incoherent manner "why I did it." Many of the words are misspelled as was the case in the previous letter.

The writer asserted that while in Europe millions of Christians are "slaughtering each other in the most bloody massacre, and in those free country thousands of men and women are tramping the streets without food and shelter at the very same time the church holds dinners and pays 15¢ for each cover which starts with beluga caviar and champagne, the same money which was begard from poor working men and women the same money were the blood of poor workers has run for."

"These conditions," the writer continued, "are a scandal. That is the failure of Christianity and an insult to ward honesty and a challenge to humanity. Let the church answer those my charges toward the world and I shall stand for the charges made against me."

"The police makes me laugh. When I was in Buffalo two spies where after me. After a while they went back."

"How foolish is the police; not for two cents brains. Yesterday I was working for an hour around the police headquarters but no one came out and got me. I am glad that the spies from Chicago are coming but I know better at what time to let or go."

CHICAGO EXPECTS ARREST.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Following the publication in New York today of another letter believed to have been written by Jean Crones, former assistant chef at the University club here, police officials looked for Crones' arrest in some eastern city, on a charge of putting poison in the soup served at a banquet given in honor of Archbishop George Mundelein one week ago last night.

The federal operatives here continue their efforts to assist the police in running down reports that the poisoning was the result of an anti-clerical plot of nation-wide proportions. It was learned today that government agents received warning of such a conspiracy more than three months ago. At that time it was reported that anarchist leaders had been holding secret meetings at Salida, Colo., and had discussed plans for a reign of terror to be created throughout the United States by the destruction of churches and public buildings. It was reported that the $2,500,000 federal building at Denver, Col., was among those marked for destruction.

LOCAL BUSINESS MAN DIES AT CINCINNATI

William C. Klitzke Expires Suddenly at the Age of Forty-eight Years.

William C. Klitzke, a prominent business man of Fort Wayne and president of the Fort Wayne Central league baseball club of 1915, expired suddenly Thursday night at the Jewish hospital in Cincinnati. He had been in failing health for some time but only two weeks ago left the city for treatment and although his many friends and acquaintances were aware of his serious condition, the news of his death comes as a great shock. Mr. Klitzke was forty-eight years of age.

Towards the close of the baseball season last summer, Mr. Klitzke was taken ill and his condition seemed to grow worse from time to time. He consulted some of the leading physicians of the country but none seemed to relieve him. Death was due to Bright's disease.

The deceased came to Fort Wayne nine years ago from Hammond, and since his residence here became widely known. He was president of the Fort Wayne Dairy company, Fairfield avenue and Baker street, and was also a stockholder in the Fort Wayne Transfer company. The family home is at 449 Brackenridge street.

When the Fort Wayne baseball club was organized last spring, Mr. Klitzke became the principle stockholder and was made president of the company. Only on account of his failing health did he retire from this venture. C. H. Varnell, also a former president of the baseball club, passed away but a few weeks ago from the same disease.

Mr. Klitzke was a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Shrine. He was also a member of the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks. Surviving him leaves the widow, the parents, who live at Hammond, and several brothers.

W. H. W. Pelletier left for Cincinnati Friday morning and with the widow, who has constantly been at his bedside, will accompany the remains to this city.

LABOR COUNCIL WILL MEET ON MARCH 12.

Plans Are Now Under Way for a Mass Meeting to Be Held in Near Future.

A meeting of the newly organized Labor Council, of which Clayton Johnson is president, will be held on Sunday, March 12, according to arrangements completed Wednesday evening at a meeting of the executive committee in Mr. Johnson's office, in Harmony hall, on West Berry street.

Much interest is being taken in the new labor organization, which promises to be of great aid to the Federation of Labor and to the cause of labor in Fort Wayne. Arrangements are now under way for a big labor meeting to be held in the near future at which time a prominent and well known labor leader from a distance will be the principal speaker. It is hoped to hold these meetings at regular intervals, to which the public in general will be invited.

Members of the street car men's union continue to meet every morning in the Buffalo's hall, although there is little business to be transacted. Each member unless employed or ill is expected to report every day. The car men received their weekly pay Friday from the fund provided by the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees and the various local unions of the city. Each man is paid according to whether he is married and, if married, the number dependent upon him. Several of the carmen have secured jobs. Those who are working do not share in the weekly benefits. So far as is known there have been no new efforts to settle the strike since the officials of the company and the federation of labor failed to agree.

ATTEMPTS TO ENTER HER BURNING HOUSE

Mrs. Anna Dornte Wanted to Save Fox Terrier Dog and Diamonds.

In an effort to save her little fox terrier and diamonds, Mrs. Anna Dornte made three attempts to rush into her burning home at Beechwood avenue and Sheridan street, early Friday morning, and was prevented each time by firemen and policemen. The house was a mass of flames and she would have doubtless perished had she succeeded in her attempts. The last time she was caught within a foot of the door by Stationmaster Fred Fry and though she resisted she was carried to safety.

The fire gained rapid headway, the firemen being helpless as the house was out of water reach. A greater part of the household goods were saved. The fire was discovered about 12 o'clock. Mrs. Dornte and Hays Linvill, of Columbus City, were in the living room listening to a victrola when they heard a noise at the rear of the house. Stopping the music Mr. Linvill went to the back door to investigate and found the summer kitchen on fire. An alarm had already been turned in by neighbors who had seen the blaze before the occupants of the house knew of it.

Mrs. Dornte believes that the fire was of incendiary origin. To her certain knowledge there had been no fire in the summer kitchen for months. Shortly before 12 o'clock she says she went to the back yard and when she started back to the house she thought she heard some one following her. She told her suspicions to Mr. Linvill, who looked all around but could see or hear nothing.

Mrs. Dornte believes she has had more than her share of misfortunes. Her children have all died and last summer her husband passed away. For months she has been in extremely poor health and has undergone several operations. Her house was fully insured.

PLEA FOR HOSPITAL FOR RUSSIAN ARMY

New York, Feb. 18.—An appeal was issued here today by the American hospital and ambulance in Russia, for $225,000 for the equipment of a hospital for the Russian army.

Among the signers to the appeal are Robert L. Bacon, Nicholas Murray Butler, Robert McCormick, Alton B. Parker and Theodore Roosevelt, jr. The signers declare that an unfortunate impression exists in Russia that the people of the United States are unfriendly toward the Russians. It is asserted that this impression is largely due to the substantial aid given to the wounded of all other belligerent countries while "next to nothing has been given to Russia, the historical friend of the United States."

USE YOUR TALENTS

BY EDNA EGAN.

A CERTAIN parable deals with a man who gave to each of his three servants a certain number of talents. Upon his return from a long voyage he summoned the three to the account for their stewardship of his money. The first, who received five talents from his master, had improved his time and was able to return ten when called to account, and likewise the second, who had been given two talents, had doubled his sum. And the master was pleased with their progress and put them in charge of much greater affairs. But the third returned the one talent he had received without any addition to it, giving as his excuse that he feared to lose the talent and so had hidden it beneath a tree for safe keeping till his master's return.

The master was much vexed with him and bade his retainers take away the one talent from the slothful servant, who knew not how to increase it, and give it to the one with the ten talents, "for," quoth he, "unto every one that hath shall be given, but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath."

There is a lesson for each and every one of us hidden away in this parable, for we all have talents of one kind or another, and how many of us improve them?

How many of us can count ourselves in the ranks of the faithful servants who returned their talents doubled in value to the master who had bestowed them? Not many, it is to be feared. No, most of us come rather under the head of the slothful servant, from whom was taken even that which he had. Most of us neglect and abuse our talents instead of training them to the utmost.

We cannot all be musicians, artists, writers or dramatists. But if we look well into our natures we will find the talent which the great Master allotted to us when the distribution of talents was made among his servants. It is our duty to train it to the utmost, so that when the day comes when accounts are called we may be able to point with pride to what we have achieved with that talent given us.

Are you striving to make the most of your talent or are you letting it lie useless and neglected? Or perhaps you have not yet discovered just what talent is yours. Do not think, just because you are not a musician or an artist, that you have been forgotten when the talents were given out.

You may have a talent for cooking, for sewing or for nursing. Or your talent may consist of making a home comfortable. Or you may have a particular gift for cheering others or for peace-making. "Seek and you will find" your talent, and when you have found it make the most of it. Every talent should be trained.

A Renovated Dining Room

CARE OF THE HAIR

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

ALTHOUGH it may not be possible or indeed desirable for every woman to have tresses of Godlike abundance, it is within the power of almost everybody to have a fine head of hair, or to possess what looks like one, whether her locks are long or short, thick or thin, dry or oily, dark, fair or just mid-brown. The whole secret lies in the state of the health and the daily care of the hair.

If the hair is in an impoverished condition, abnormally greasy or abnormally dry, showing a tendency to become brittle and break off short; if it loses its color and bulk then it is no good in beginning any hair treatment without first attending to the general state of the health.

One should take sufficient exercise and rest and correct any indiscretions in diet. Where an anæmic condition exists a tonic often does wonders, so will a course of cod liver oil, while raw eggs and unboiled milk are articles of diet which directly beautify the hair. As to the general care of the hair it should be washed as often as it requires cleaning. Once a week is not too often for a very oily type of hair, and about once in three weeks is a good average for ordinary hair.

If it is washed at home liquid soap is the best thing to use. The hair should be thoroughly wetted with warm water, then a handful of the liquid rubbed in. If it does not lather at once use a little more water and a little more liquid till the whole head is in a perfect foam. Rinse out the lather very thoroughly, take the worst of the moisture off with hot towels, and dry by brushing and fanning. Do not on any account seek to dry it by the fire.

The daily care of the hair is most important. It should be well brushed every night, the scalp being first of all treated with a rather hard brush to stimulate the circulation, and the long hair afterward brushed with long sweeping strokes, two brushes with rather long, stiff bristles being used. This is to keep the hair clean and give it a natural gloss.

WHY DO WE CONCEAL AGE? Sooner or Later Time is Certain to Bring Out the Telltale Marks.

OF course women lie about their ages," said my friend.

"I was ever a failing of the weaker sex," she supplemented. "I could name more than one man who dyes his hair and confesses to ten years less than his birth certificate would show."

"True—some men are vain," I sighed.

"Some, did you say?" she queried. "They're all vain. For Simon pure vanity, a woman can't compare with a man. Every man is proud of his shape, if nothing else. He believes what his tailor tells him. A man's vanity is of the hard-shell variety—you can't crack it. His fellow-men don't try, either. Men don't comment upon each other's personal points, as women do among themselves. Women have a way of pointing out other women's deficiencies to their faces, which takes off some of the shine of their vanity."

"What men dub vanity in women is in most cases plain good business. A woman knows that a lot of her success, in whatever her walk of life, depends upon her appearance. Therefore she cultivates as pleasing an appearance as possible. She takes the same pains with her personality, if she is wise. And she lies about her age for the same reason."

"I know several school teachers this minute who are down on the records as several years younger than they really are. One would expect gray hairs and middle age to be assets in the schoolroom, if anywhere. Yet the solemn fact is that there is a constant effort to push out the teachers who are pretty well along in years. The general idea is that it is time for them to retire and give the younger ones a chance."

"I know a woman doctor who became prematurely gray and who was losing out in her practice because she was considered superannuated and a younger, more up-to-date physician was desired. She dyed her hair, and is one of the most popular women doctors in town today."

"I know a lot of women in business who are still considered young women and whose ages would startle you if you ever found them out. They are valuable in their business connections, but if they didn't lie about their years they would not receive the same consideration or the same salary. 'Old ones' aren't wanted. There is an inherent disrespect somewhere in the masculine get-up for a woman over forty, especially when she works for a living. The idea is, I suppose, that she ought to be a grandmother and ready for the shelf by that time."

"But even the married woman isn't always allowed to grow old in comfort. Very often, when a woman is married, she is as old or older than the man who marries her. She never dared to admit it when he was courting her, for fear of nipping the romance in the bud. So she keeps up the lie the rest of her life—and it's no easy job."

"There are men, too, who insist upon their wives keeping young looking. I know one man near the sixty mark who wears the most marvelous toupee you ever saw—you'd swear the hair grew on his head. He admits to forty-nine years of his age. His wife is about fifty, but he wants her to stay young looking because folks might think he is old if she looks old. So he commanded her to dye her hair when it began to turn gray, and go through effort to push out the teachers who are pretty well along in years. The general idea is that it is time for them to retire and give the younger ones a chance."

A UNIQUELY ARRANGED BEDROOM

HOW TO ENTERTAIN IN AN INEXPENSIVE WAY

BY ANNETTE ANGERT.

ENTERTAINING to the woman of moderate means is rather a problem. To entertain elaborately and in large numbers means the expenditure of much money more expensive than the average housewife likes to meet. Yet if she accepts the hospitality of others, she must do something in return. But for the woman with a small apartment and only one maid it is rather hard to find a way to entertain her guests properly.

A popular form which entertainment has taken in the last season is the informal dance. The music of a phonograph takes the place of an orchestra, rugs are rolled up, furniture pushed back into the corners, and light refreshments are served in the place of the regular dance-supper. But even this is impossible for the hostess whose apartment is too small for dancing.

What, then, can the woman of limited purse and small home offer her friends to make her entertaining in an apartment arranged so that the dining room opens out of the parlor, the hostess can use the dining table for her tea things.

A few flowers will make the rooms look fresh and sweet and are the only addition needed. The dining table should be bared, with a dolly and a bowl of flowers in the center. Small plate dainties around the table should hold the plates of sandwiches, cake, etc. At one end of the table the tea and chocolate sets should be grouped, on the right hand of the hostess, the whipped cream, sugar, lemon, etc., and the cups on the left, so that the pouring will be made easy. Two or three kinds of sandwiches, a layer cake and assorted little cakes, simple candies and a few shelled nuts make up a delicious and not too expensive menu to go with the chocolate and tea. For the sandwiches, cream cheese and minced pecans are a luscious filling; a good jelly or jam will do for the second variety, and perhaps lettuce or cucumber slices for the third.

LOAFERS AND BUMS ARE GIVEN THE RUN
 Plain Clothes Cops Make Fine Cleaning in the Court House

The most complete riddance of bums, loafers and chronic loafers that the Allen county court house has enjoyed for many a day was experienced Friday after Chief of Police Charles Lenz had detailed Harry Harris for plain-clothes duty in the big auditorium with explicit orders to make a cleaning. The officers cleaned up in fine fashion and by Friday afternoon the first floor corridors and stairways had an almost deserted appearance that was belatedly to breed melancholy in the bosoms of persons accustomed to the sight of the pipe-smoking, tobacco-spitting throngs that for a long time have been wont to take possession of the place. It is said that the clean-up order is not for a day, but is to be a regular thing and that many of the loafers will be prosecuted as vagrants and loiterers if they persist in resorting in the building.

at the age of 62 years, and was not unexpected as his condition had been critical for several weeks. In an effort to save his life a surgical operation was performed seven weeks ago but only gave temporary relief. Death was due to stomach trouble.
 Born in Hancock county, Ohio, he came to Fort Wayne when a very young man. A short time after his marriage he moved to Pittsburg, Kansas, where he remained until fifteen years ago, when he moved back to this city. The deceased was the son of Andrew A. and Barbara Davidson, pioneer settlers of Hancock county, Ohio.
 As a member of Calvary F. B. congregation he was very active in church affairs. Besides the widow he is survived by four children—Clifford C. of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Henry Brandt and Misses Emma and Hazel Davidson, all of this city; one grand-daughter, Lucile Davidson; three sisters, Mrs. John W. Snyder, Mrs. Lawrence Springer, of this city, and Mrs. A. O. Hadley of Poe. Two sisters preceded him in death.
 Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence and at 2:30 at Calvary F. B. church. Rev. J. W. Borkert officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

BRIDGE SPAN OUT OF QUESTION NOW
 Track Elevation at Coombs Street Will Blockade River Way.

While the board of works is quite ready and willing to take up the question of building an additional span on the south end of the Coombs street bridge, as provided in the flood prevention plans prepared by Special Engineer A. W. Grosvenor, it is recognized that there is no great occasion for haste in urging the matter. When, within a few weeks, the Nickel Plate railroad begins to make a five-foot raise of its tracks to make a clearance for the subway at Coombs street, where the grades are to be separated, the Coombs street bridge will be entirely shut off from traffic for a time. There is no other way by which to approach the bridge. Track elevation work will require several months for completion and after that the additional span to the bridge and the approach, which the commissioners have asked the board to provide, must be constructed. Councilman A. H. Keller, of the Eighth ward, appeared before the board of works Thursday night to request that the board urge upon the county commissioners early attention to the construction of the proposed span. The board promised to write to the commissioners at once.

PETITIONS FOR SIDEWALKS.

The board of works Thursday evening received petitions from resident property owners for the following sidewalks: On John street, Creighton avenue to Pontiac, on the east side of South Wayne avenue, Branning to Organ; on Pope avenue, St. Mary's river to the bridge. Property owners petitioned for the paving of Colerick street, Oliver to Hanna. A street lamp was ordered erected at Spring and Andrews streets and petitions for lights at Fourth and Andrews and Eckart and Plaza drive were referred to Lighting Superintendent Frank Dick.

WAITING FOR WEATHER.

The board of works is playing a waiting game against the weather man for an opportunity to begin the work of constructing the approaches to the new Harrison street bridge. The work will be pushed with all speed when it is once under way. The bridge itself is completed and will be opened to traffic whenever the approaches are finished.

DEPUTY CLERK HAS HEIR.

Deputy City Clerk and Mrs. Leroy J. Swartz, 2435 Smith street, are the parents of a little daughter who arrived Thursday night. Deputy Swartz has intimated generous intentions toward his conferees in the city hall.

SEWER RESOLUTION NOT UP.

Because the city engineering department was not yet quite ready to submit the resolution for the construction of a main sewer in the Spy run district, that matter did not come before the board of works Thursday evening, as was expected. The resolution will be submitted within a short time and adopted.

CONFER ON JITNEY DAMAGE.

City Attorney Guy Colerick and Attorney E. M. Hulsh had a conference Thursday respecting the damage wrought to the jitney automobile of E. B. Snell that went into Spy Run when the approach to the bridge collapsed under the machine the night of Jan. 12 and threw it into the flood, where it remained until a few days ago. It was agreed by City Attorney Colerick and Attorney Hulsh, who represent Snell, that the machine should be thoroughly gone over by experts at the No. 1 fire engine house to ascertain the extent of damage to the automobile's machinery. The agreement is made without admissions or prejudice as respects either side and the question of damages will be considered later.

COAL BIDS SUBMITTED.

Twelve companies, a number of them in Fort Wayne, submitted twenty-four proposals to the board of works and the city lighting department, Thursday afternoon for furnishing 12,000 or more tons of coal for the power plant. The bids

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 18. CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Sympathy with higher prices at Liverpool brought about an advance today in the wheat market here, it being reported that offerings in Great Britain were exceedingly small and reserves dangerously low. Complaints regarding the condition of the domestic winter crop tended further to give an advantage to the bulls. After opening a shade off to ¼¢ up the market receded a little, but then rose all around to well above yesterday's finish. Initial prices for May were 129 to 129½¢ and for July 125½ to 126¢.
Prices closed firm, ¼¢ to ½¢ net higher, with May $1.29½ and July, $1.23½ to $1.24.
Corn hardened with wheat. The opening, which ranged from a shade to ¼¢ to ½¢ lower, was followed by a moderate upturn.
The close was unsettled at ¼¢ to ½¢ net advance.
Oats had the same action as corn. Trade was mainly of a local character.
Some strength developed in provisions despite lower prices on hogs. There seemed to be an absence of any pressure on the selling side.

The reversal of the first hour was precipitated by the heaviness of motor shares. Studebaker and Packard, New York, Airbrake and Petroleum, in which recessions extended from 1½ to 5 points. General Motors being the chief sufferer. Meanwhile coppers made further upward progress and rails, under lead of Reading, manifested a better tendency. Marine preferred, United Fruit, Sugar and American Tobacco also rose one 3/4 points. Following its usual course, the markets became dull with the approach of midday and prices were again shaded lower. Bonds were steady.

The market was at its best during the last hour, prices at the time showing variable but substantial gains. The closing was strong.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Feb. 18.—More steadiness was shown at the outset of today's trading than at any recent session, gains predominating in most parts of the active list. U. S. Steel, Crucible Steel, Pressed Steel Car, Industrial Alcohol and Mexican Petroleum rose appreciably over yesterday's final quotations but rails were irregular. Much of this advantage was forfeited before the end of the half hour.

SHE IS LONDON'S PROUDEST WOMAN

How Mrs. Crooks Takes Care of Her Noted Husband.

By Mary Boyle O'Reilly
London, Eng., Feb. 18.—The proudest woman in London, Mrs. Will Crooks, lives in a little house on Gough street, Poplar, East End, not far from White-chapel district. The king has called Will Crooks, champion of labor and member of parliament, to his privy council, an unparalleled distinction. Mrs. Crooks bade me welcome and led the way into the new privy councilor's workroom. On a big desk littered with documents and letters lay the photographs of two women, "Mother," and another, much older. "It's strange, how the goodness fortune guides a man," said Will Crooks, P. C. "Yesterday, when mother here was opening my letters (you see how she has me trained), she asks, 'Will, what is it to be a P. C.?' "Why a member of the king's privy council," I told her, "why do you want to know? Then, woman-like, she felt to crying. And that was how I first knew. "Man alive!" admonished Mrs. Crooks, "will you look at the clock and be off. First, settle your tie. Show me, have you brushed your hat? "Be good," warned Mrs. Crooks and smiled as she watched him away. Then her glance met mine. "The man who imagines himself his own master has a deal to learn," observed the boss of the "Boss of Poplar." "Will was secretary of his union when we married. One week taught me what lay before us. My man had a good brain and a good trade, but he was no saver. "And the want of ready money is the root of most worry in this world. "Well, I took his money in hand. I studied what he wished to be, and saw that he looked the part. There's more 'luck' in a well-dressed suit than a slack woman is likely to think. "Nothing proceeds like prosperity," say I. "Soon Will was president of a federation, next mayor of the borough, then a member of parliament. And now — the proudest woman in London looked hard out of the window. Two blocks away a crowd of rejoicing dockers were shouting "Crooks; M. P. P. C." "It will be a three-day wonder," apologized Mrs. Crooks airily, "but, perhaps, one good thing will grow from it. "Young wives hereabouts may learn what can come from having brains and snug savings laid by. I'm thankful to think that my husband never had to stand back when a few shillings could help him forward.

TWELFTH DISTRICT NOT REPRESENTED

Northern Indiana Fails to Figure in Meeting of Moose Committee.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18.—At a meeting of the progressive state committee held in the state headquarters in the Lemcke building yesterday district chairmen and other party leaders brought reports of existing conditions in their localities that indicate much interest is being manifested in the party's candidates.

Considerable routine business was transacted, including the fixing of dates for the reorganization of the state and district committees and the election of county chairmen. A resolution praising Albert J. Beveridge and declaring that the principles he fought while a United States senator from Indiana are now being enacted into laws was adopted unanimously.

Under the provisions of the primary law the precinct committeemen who are chosen at the primaries on March 7 will meet on the following Saturday, March 11, and elect county chairmen. The state committee will instruct the county chairmen to meet on March 18 for the selection of district chairmen, and on March 30 the district chairmen, comprising the state central committee, will meet in Indianapolis for the election of a state chairman. These dates were fixed by the committee yesterday.

Beveridge is Praised.
The resolution praising Mr. Beveridge was introduced by Lewis McNutt, of Brazil, chairman of the Fifth district. It reads as follows:

"The state committee of the progressive party assembled points with pride to Indiana's favorite son, and one of the nation's greatest statesmen, Albert J. Beveridge.
"When time writes its unbiased history, Indiana will point with pride to this big-hearted, unselfish statesman, who has given so much of his life for the benefit and the welfare of others. It is with great pleasure we note that the things he made great sacrifices for and fought so valiantly for bid fair to be included in the national statutes, namely, a law for the prevention of child labor and the tariff commission. So popular has become the demand that these are practically no longer political issues as far as substance goes, and we will all point with pride to Morton, Harrison and Beveridge.
"We ask the nation at this crisis to consider well the qualifications of Indiana's favorite son, a student and a man of conservative yet decisive judgment that commands the confidence of those of other political faith. It is the consensus of this committee assembled that they desire to voice their confidence and show their loyalty to one of the nation's greatest characters, Albert J. Beveridge."
Only Two Chairmen Absent.
All of the districts were represented except the Twelfth and Thirteenth and the chairmen in those districts sent word that on account of personal business they could not attend. Those who were at the meeting were: W. E. McElderry, Princeton; John N. Dyer, Vincennes; William Wallace Willey, Brooklynn; William A. Pierson, New Albany; Dr. J. B. Stalker, Borden; Will H. Newsom, Elizabethtown; Lewis McNutt, Brazil; H. T. Roberts, Greenfield; Earl Crawford, Milton; George R. Carter, Connersville; Frank J. Doudican, W. D. Hendrick, Elias D. Salsbury, Thomas A. Daily and Clarence R. Martin, Indianapolis; Carl Thompson, Winchester; William Holton Dye, Noblesville; J. W. Whicker, Attica; Dr. G. R. Coffin, Monticello; John W. Harvey, Lafayette; Lyman H. Jackson, Huntington, and Cornelius McGreevey, Logansport.
The committee modified its rules concerning proxies to the provisions of the primary law no alternate delegates are elected to the convention and the rules of the committee in the future will provide for the transfer of credentials by delegates who are unable to attend the convention, the transfer to be approved by the county chairmen.

ETHEL BARRYMORE PAYS THE SKIPPER

His Vigorous Expletives Relieve Feelings of Noted Actress.

Boston, Feb. 18.—Twenty dollars for a rousing American cuss word! That's the price Ethel Barrymore paid as bounty for a Yankee halibut skipper's tongue-lashing of the steamer Deutschland's captain.

The reward was spontaneous, and came when the liner ran down the schooner Harry G. French in a fog off the Nantucket shore.

Ethel Barrymore

The impact had roused the actress, on her way back from London, and she came on deck just in time to hear the outraged skipper firing a verbal broadside at the Deutschland's master.

"You blankety-blank blank of a blank, what do you mean by running us down!" came the aggrieved roar, as the liner stood by picking up the schooner's crew.
"Hurrah! Fine!" applauded Ethel Barrymore, congratulating the cussier for his discerning use of American expletives.
"Here's $20, and over yonder is the bar—go and warm yourself up a bit." And the skipper, mollified, obeyed the command instantly.
St. Henderson, a Maine stater, who got in on the $20 as a member of the wrecked crew, has rescued the story from fo'castle oblivion.
"Guess the lady got tired of them weak-kneed foreign oaths," he explains. "She said she was hungry for the American brand, and our skipper was certainly stocked up with the choicest in that line."

BRITISH BLOW FAILS

Germans Hurl Back New Effort of the English to Retake Trenches.

BAYONET ATTACK CARRIED ERZERUM

City Held Out But 36 Hours With Temperature 30 Below Zero.

Today's War News Given in Summary

The British evidently are retreating under the continued occupation by the Germans of the several hundred yards of a first line trench south of Ypres, lost in recent fighting. Berlin today reports another attempt by the British to retake the position, but declares the effort failed with heavy losses.

South of the river Somme, where the French recently lost ground and have been counter attacking, they essayed a fresh attack, but according to Berlin the offensive broke down under the German fire.

Elsewhere along the Franco-Belgian front the operations have been of a minor nature, such as outpost engagements, and mining operations, with a German air raid on Poperinghe, Belgium. Paris reports the night uneventful along the entire French line.

The Russian war office has officially announced in its regular bulletin the capture of Erzerum from the Turks, but has furnished no details of the number of prisoners captured or guns taken.

Much speculation regarding the probable further course of events in the campaign about Erzerum is being indulged in, but there is little positive information regarding the numbers and positions of the opposing forces. One report says the Russians have pushed a force northwest from Erzerum and that this body of troops already has reached Balibut, 75 miles away, on the road to Trabzon, the important Turkish port on the Black sea.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The British have made a new attempt to retake the position southwest of Ypres, Belgium, recently captured by the Germans, but were beaten off with heavy losses, it was officially announced today.

The Cologne Volks-Zeitung says that Major General Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British forces in Egypt, has ordered the withdrawal of Mohammedan troops from the Suez canal and their transportation to another war theater where they will not fight against Mohammedans. It is said there have been frequent desertions among these troops.

YIELDED TO BAYONET ATTACK.

Erzerum Held Out But 36 Hours in Bitterly Cold Weather.

Petrograd, Feb. 18.—The fall of Erzerum, the most important Turkish stronghold in Asia Minor and for a long time considered impregnable, offers the unprecedented spectacle of a first-class fortress built on a steep

HE SAYS HE'S 69—BUT NOT TOO OLD TO FIGHT.

Washington, Feb. 18.—S. A. Walden, a Confederate veteran of Murfreesboro, Tenn., who wrote that he was 69 years old, but not too old to fight, today sent President Wilson a sword made of cedar from the Stone river battlefield, as an evidence of his interest in the preparedness program.

GOOD GRUBBING ON NEW COUNTY FARM FOR "LAZY HUSBAND" LAW PRISONERS

There is good grubbing and lots of it, and maybe good grub, though not so much of it, on the new county farm north of the city for convicts sentenced to labor under the "lazy husband" act of the last legislature. The county commissioners on Friday arranged to find employment at grubbing in the jungles on the farm for Homer Young, the first convict to go from the circuit court on a commitment accompanied by an order that the board put him at work. Young was sentenced to six months at labor by Judge John W. Ezeman, who found him guilty of neglecting his children. He will be paid one dollar a day and the court's order di-

RIGID POLICE GUARD PLANNED AT K. C. BALL

Threat by Anarchist Chief Results in Precautions in New York.

New York, Feb. 18.—The fact that Jean Croues, the anarchist chief who is accused of poisoning the soup at a dinner given by Catholic clergy to Archbishop Mundelein, in Chicago, is supposed to be in this city caused the police today to take extraordinary precautions to safeguard guests attending a ball to be given tonight by the Knights of Columbus.

The ball is to be held in Madison Square garden and Gov. Whitman, high city officials and many dignitaries of the Catholic church are expected to be present. Detectives have been ordered to watch every section of the auditorium and another large detail will patrol the environs of the garden.

The police have been spurred to renewed activity by the definite establishment of the fact that two letters, received by the New York Times and purporting to have been written by Croues, were mailed in New York. The second letter which was received by the Times last night and published this morning conveyed a threat that a new outrage was planned in this city.

DIES FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED IN FALL

Fractured Skull Fatal to Etna Green Young Man in Fort Wayne.

Walter Lonn, aged 25 years, of Etna Green, Kosciusko county, died at Hope hospital, at noon, Friday, from injuries which he received in a fall while out hunting Thursday afternoon. He was brought to the local institution at midnight, suffering from a fractured skull. An operation was performed early Friday morning but of no avail.

The young man in company with several others went into the woods Thursday afternoon to hunt. While climbing in a tree he slipped and fell headlong to the ground a distance of ten or twelve feet. He was unconscious when his companions reached his side and he was hurried to his home, where it was found that it was necessary to have him removed to the hospital.

The parents and several brothers and sisters survive him. The body was shipped to Bourbon Friday afternoon by Sheuman & Son.

LATKER LEASES ROOM IN THE LAU BUILDING

Louis Latker, clothing merchant, has closed a lease with Louis Fox for the room now occupied by the Rodenbeck hair bazar at 1004 Calhoun street, in the Lau block, and will open a store about Easter with a full line of clothing. The Rodenbeck hair bazar has leased the two rooms in the same building with entrances on Washington boulevard west, and will move to the same as soon as the necessary repairs can be made. The two rooms were formerly occupied by the Markov Bros. flower shop and St. hat store.

POSTMASTER WILL MAKE APPOINTMENTS

Announcement will soon be made by Postmaster Edward C. Miller of the appointment of two substitute carriers and one clerk. The postmaster will make the appointments out of a list of over fifty who have passed the civil service examination and are eligible. The two substitute carriers and clerk will be the first three on the list of eligibles, which are arranged according to the grade each received.

rects that this be paid to the wife, Emma Young. President William C. Schiwer, of the board of commissioners, stated Friday that the commissioners had no road work at this time for prisoners, but could furnish employment to a good many men in the work of clearing the new 800-acre farm. "We can take care of two or three out there at this time," said President Schiwer, "but if the court sends us any great number of prisoners we shall have to construct barracks on the farm to furnish quarters for them. That is probably what we shall do. We can give work to lots of men out there."

TEAM-WORK A DEATH BLOW

Men's League and Saloon Men Crimp Cramer's License Fight.

Liquor Dealers' Board of Censors Blocks Bond for Appeal.

Team-work by the Men's Christian league and the board of censors of the Licensed Liquor Dealers' association blew up Frank Cramer's ambitious project to buy the license of Andy J. Kelly and transfer it from 1618 Calhoun street to 2116 Winter street. Cramer's undertaking is wrecked and dead.

The board of county commissioners on Monday, February 7, refused to grant the transfer, when it was found that Cramer's taxes were delinquent and Roy James A. Nipper filed a remonstrance.

Cramer announced that he would appeal from the board to the higher court and give the commissioners and the balance of the opposition a fight. In preparation for this he paid his taxes and otherwise got ready. Thursday, February 17, was the last day in which he could file a valid appeal bond. He did not file it and his application is dead by default.

When Cramer prepared to contest the decision of the commissioners he did not count on having the Liquor Dealers' association to back. But the opposition was lurking in his pathway against the same. Frank M. Morches, Henry Hunsche, Albert C. Heckler and Louis G. Juddell, composing the association's board of censors, got busy and did some strong work to prevent Cramer, who has no money or property of his own, from procuring an appeal bond. The brewery on which he was relying to furnish the bond backed away and left him helpless.

Frank Morches and others of the association stated Friday that if Cramer had been able to procure a bond to make an appeal the association would have fought him in the upper courts, joining heartily with the Men's league in that purpose.

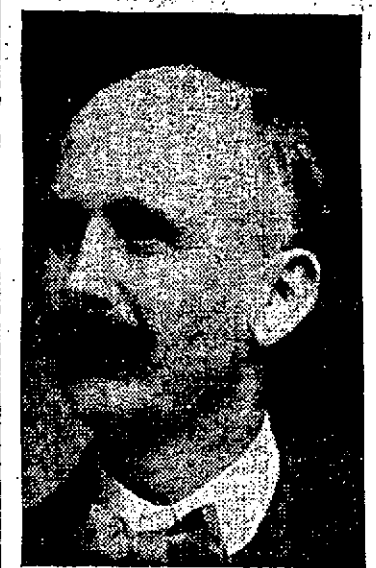

"We are going to clean up the saloon business in Fort Wayne," said Mr. Morches, "and we were dead against Cramer's enterprise."

Some weeks ago Cramer was turned down by the commissioners in the same attempt, the board standing for its policy not to authorize the transfer of saloons from the business to a residence district. Then Cramer came back with a second application and expected to fight his way through.

CALVIN HOSLER IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Former Tea Merchant Was Long Street Railway Transfer Man.

Calvin Hosler, 52 years of age, and until four months ago manager of the local store of the Union Pacific Tea company, died at 10:15 o'clock Thursday night at the family home, 439

East Taber street. Death was due to pneumonia and it followed a brief illness, though Mr. Hosler had been in failing health for some months and for that reason had been compelled to relinquish work.

For many years he was employed on the city street railway lines as transfer agent at Main and Calhoun streets, his service there dating from the old days of the horse cars in Fort Wayne, and he was very widely and favorably known.

Mr. Hosler was a member of Sol D. Bayless lodge of Masons and of Mechucauquiqua tribe, Improved Order of Red Men. Besides the widow he is survived by one son, Jesse Hosler and by one brother and four sisters—Edward Hosler, Muskegon, Mich.; Mrs. William Buss, Pontiac, Mich.; Mrs. George Everett, Indianapolis, and Mrs. Rol and Walker, Fort Wayne.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence in charge of the Masons, with the Red Men in charge at the grave; interment at Leo cemetery.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED

Two days after the accident occurred, John Siler, residing near the Four-mile house on the Lincoln highway east of Fort Wayne, has been identified as the man who was struck about 8:30 Wednesday night by H. L. Daler's motorcycle at the corner of Maumee and Glasgow avenues, when Daler himself was thrown from his machine, rendered unconscious and sustained serious injuries to one leg. Siler has been found with a broken leg in the Lutheran hospital where he is under the care of Dr. J. H. Hosford. When Policeman John Keintz investigated the accident, Wednesday night, immediately after it occurred, Daler was in such a dazed condition he could give no description of the man he had struck and no one about the scene of the mishap had taken the trouble to learn his name. Siler was taken to the hospital Wednesday night by Dr. Hosford and meanwhile the police had been trying to learn the man's identity. Siler is getting along well.

WILL NOTIFY AUSTRIA, TOO

United States Desires Its Position Fully and Uniformly Known.

SUBMARINE CASE BEFORE CABINET

Bernstorff Transmits U. S. View to the Berlin Government.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The submarine situation with its new developments was discussed at today's cabinet meeting. Secretary Lansing went to the white house before the cabinet assembled and discussed the question with the president at some length.

It was indicated today that Austria too, will be notified of the assurances which the United States is asking for the future so that the position of this government may be fully and uniformly known to the German allies.

A long dispatch from Ambassador Bernstorff was on its way to Berlin today explaining that in its negotiations with Germany over submarine warfare the United States will accept nothing short of a complete agreement covering all points for which it has contended to assurance that the warfare in the future will be conducted in accordance with the established principles of international law.

It is understood that the ambassador informed his government that the United States considers Germany's declaration of its intention to sink armed merchant ships without warning after February 29 is inconsistent with the assurances given in the Arabic case.

RAILROAD COMPANY FILES SUIT FOR $5

That $5 looks as good to a railroad company as it does to the average individual was shown Friday in a suit which the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad company, through its attorney, Walter Olds, filed in the federal court against Harry Clinton Parkinson. The complaint sets forth that on January 8, 1914, Parkinson shipped a carload of dressed poultry from Ossian to Harlow Brothers, Buffalo, and at Belle vue, Ohio, it became necessary for the railroad company to ice the car. The cost of ice amounted to $5 which the complaint alleges Parkinson refuses to pay. The company is asking for the $5 with interest from January 10, 1914.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO CHARTER TRAIN

Fort Wayne commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar, will charter a special train to Indianapolis on May 14 on account of the grand convocation to be held in that city on that date. The band will accompany the local Knights and every possible effort is being made to make a good showing.

At the meeting of the commandery Thursday evening Willis Hattersley was elected a trustee to succeed his father the late Alfred Hattersley, who served as trustee of the Fort Wayne commandery for over thirty years.

THOROUGH SEARCH AT RED KEY IS FUTILE

If Brown Has Been Slain, His Body Has Been Safely Hidden.

Red Key, Ind., Feb. 18.—The town of Red Key was thoroughly searched for Roy Brown. About fifty men from Ridgeville, the home of the Brown family, assisted. A large crowd of men divided in squads of three and four men. They examined every alley in town and looked into every old building, in old wells and in every secluded spot. If Roy Brown has been killed, which is the popular opinion, his body has been successfully disposed of.

CRACKSMEN FOIL SELVES.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—Safe crackers, who exploded a charge of nitroglycerine in a safe in the office of the George Hitz & Co. commission house, one block from the police station, early today, foiled themselves. An overcharge or an insufficient charge of the explosive jammed the doors of the safe so that the robbers were unable to open them. It is believed they feared to explode a second charge.

"Was there any money in the safe?" Mr. Hitz was asked.

BAD WATER AT GARY.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 18.—An epidemic, attributed to contamination of the drinking water, has afflicted scores of persons in Gary. The symptoms resemble those of ptomaine poisoning. Patients suffer severe intestinal disorders, accompanied by a fever. For several days the drinking water, which is obtained from Lake Michigan, had a strong odor.

APPLE KINGS BUSY.

Orleans, Ind., Feb. 18.—The "apple kings" of Orange county promise to make the next state apple show, which will be held at West Baden, the best ever held in the state. Robert A. Troth and Joe A. Burton, leading apple growers, have raised $500 for purses. This is the first time the show will be held away from Indianapolis and the recognition of the apple industry in southern Indiana is viewed with satisfaction by apple growers here.

COLD WAVE COMING SAYS WEATHERMAN

Those who have permitted their coal bins to get low during the comparatively warm weather that has prevailed during the past few days, had better put in a telephone call to the coal man post haste. A cold wave is on its way, according to Prognosticator Patrick McLaughlin and by the usual methods of calculating speed and distance it should arrive sometime tonight. There is little possibility of it getting sidetracked, for the reason that it hasn't far to come and is now sweeping southward from the north, where, according to telegraphic reports, below zero weather was very much in evidence during the morning hours.

WILL HAVE BUSY SESSION.

Much Business Before Meeting of Logansport Presbytery.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 18.—The Logansport Presbytery will convene at Laporte Feb. 23, to receive Rev. B. W. Tyler, Franklin, Ind., from the Presbytery of Indianapolis, and to arrange for his installation over Calvary church of Logansport; grant Rev. J. R. Skinner a letter to the Presbytery of Mattoon, Ill.; to receive Rev. E. F. Lively, Winona Lake, from the Presbytery of Fort Wayne and to arrange for his installation over the church at Remington; receive Rev. W. E. Kunz, of Chicago from the Presbytery of Chicago and to arrange for his installation over the church at Bourbon and receive Rev. J. B. LAST MINUTE NEWS

STRIKE OF 40,000 NEEDLEWORKERS ENDS.

New York, Feb. 18.—An agreement was signed today which it is believed will end the needleworkers' strike in this city. It is expected that a majority of the forty thousand strikers will return to work within a few days, although some of the manufacturers have not signed the agreement.

ASQUITH TO REQUEST NEW VOTE OF CREDIT.

London, Feb. 18.—New votes of credit amounting to approximately £4,000,000 will be asked by Premier Asquith, of the house of commons, on Monday. The new vote will bring up the total of war appropriations to £2,062,000,000.

HANS SCHMIDT PAYS PENALTY

Ex-Priest Dies in Electric Chair for Murder of Miss Aumuller.

Goes to Death Asking Forgiveness and Granting It to Others.

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Hans Schmidt was electrocuted at Sing Sing today for the murder of Anna Aumuller Sept. 20, 1913.

Schmidt went quietly to the death chamber, accompanied by the principal keeper and Rev. Father Caspin, the prison chaplain. Leaving the death house he said good-bye to those who remained.

When he entered the room guards attempted to direct him toward the chair but Schmidt gently shook them off and insisted upon addressing the seventeen witnesses. The guards desisted from their efforts and with Father Caspin at one side and the keeper at the other, Schmidt said:

"Gentlemen, I ask forgiveness of all those I have injured or scandalized. I forgive all who have injured me. My last wish is to say good-bye to my dear old mother."

Schmidt then seated himself in the electric chair and the current was applied three times. Within a minute he was dead.

He had spent the night up to tonight praying and talking with Father Caspin and slept from midnight to 5 o'clock when he was awakened for breakfast. He would take only a cup of coffee. Schmidt last night issued a statement through his attorney declaring he was fully reconciled to die and willingly accepted death as retribution for his fratricide.

Schmidt asserted, however, that he would be executed for "lying and not for murder," because Miss Aumuller's death resulted from an operation, but added, "I felt morally responsible for the girl's death and could not in honor drag those to ruin who took part in the operation at my solicitation."

"I hope and pray that time will prove every one of my contentions and that my judicial murder will help to abolish executions, for not one-third of the men who have been in the death chamber with me, including Becker, were guilty of murder."

History of the Case.

When the torso of Anna Aumuller was washed up on the New Jersey shore of the Hudson river there started a search which has had but few parallels in the annals of New York crime. There was just one faint clue, a pillowslip on which was embroidered the letter "A," but it was just such a pillowslip as might be found in hundreds of homes or stores. There was not even a laundry mark to aid the police. With this slender clue Inspector Faurot took personal charge of the case, and on Sept. 14, 1913, twelve days after the murder, Hans Schmidt, an assistant priest at an uptown church, was arrested charged with the crime. An hour before the arrest the inspector had broken into a flat and found a long bladed butcher's knife and other evidence that the murder had been committed. Schmidt confessed and his defense was that it was a "blood sacrifice murder." The body had been dismembered and presumably

AUTO DRIVER FINED IN THE CITY COURT

Clarence Rosenthal Pushed
ing Street Car.

Clarence Rosenthal, driver of an automobile, was found guilty in the city court, Friday morning, of violating the state traffic laws by driving his automobile past a street car that was stopped to receive and discharge passengers. He was fined $1 and costs and paid up. The offense was committed Wednesday morning at the corner of Calhoun and Wallace streets. Fred Fahling, claim agent for the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, was about to board the car and passengers were about to leave it when Rosenthal is said to have driven at rapid speed north on Calhoun street. Some of the testimony was confused as to the day of the violation and one witness for the state who testified as to the identity of the automobile had forgotten the number of its license, but the other respects the testimony was convincing. Rosenthal swore that he had stopped his machine when the street car stopped, but seeing no doors opened and nothing no one about to get on or off, started his auto and drove past. Other City Court Cases.

Ed Lauer, who was in the city court a few days ago on a drunk charge and was turned loose after giving testimony on which Walter Wedlaw, a negro, was convicted on a blind tiger charge, was back again Friday morning. He was continued until Saturday and locked up in default of $35 bond.

Lee Phillips, an invalid from dry Angola, came down Thursday to consult a physician. He did not say that his prescription called for copious imbibitions of red liquor, but that is what he took and he was found down and out at 1 o'clock Friday morning in the Lake Shore depot. Judge Kerr fined him $1 and costs and he went to jail.

Ora Ormsby, a young man who got drunk, had trouble with a friend and transferred the occasion to Policeman Galentine, who arrested him. He was fined $1 and costs.

Frank Griffith was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness and Jake Rudisill, another son, was turned loose.

Carl Collins, a vag, and Frank Ward and Edward Ullery, loiterers, were given indefinite continuances.

Mrs. L. M. Blakeley, a dope fiend who was arrested several days ago for disorderly conduct near her home on Michigan avenue, was continued until March 18 and released on her own recognizance.

HUNDREDS OF FLOOD REFUGEES NEED AID

Southern Cities Make Preparations for Extensive Relief Work.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 13.—Preparations for taking care of hundreds of additional refugees, made homeless by the flood waters still pouring through the Buckridge crevasse were being made today at Natchez, Miss., and Vidalia, La. Rescue boats are expected at Natchez today. Flood waters today were threatening several thousand head of cattle, mules and horses corralled on Sicily island, near St. Joseph. Many isolated small groups of refugees in the vicinity of Newellton have been concentrated at central points. Next to food, boats are said to be most needed in the flooded areas.

No new breaks in any of the levees were reported by the state and federal engineers.

The death list today remained at three, the victims being unidentified negroes.

HINDUS MUTINY IN EGYPT, IS REPORT

British Quell Insurgents
Only After Battle of
Two Hours.

Berlin, Feb. 13.—A mutiny of Hindu troops in Egypt is reported by the Cologne Volks Zeitung as quoted by the Overseas News agency. It is said an entire regiment mutinied, killing twelve officers, including a major and that other Hindu troops went over to the mutineers. After a battle of two hours, it is said, the mutinous troops were routed. The news agency's statement follows:

"The Cologne Volks Zeitung publishes a report received from reliable sources that strong opposition has developed among the Hindu troops to the British. A captain of the Australian troops named Brown on Jan. 10 shot two servants who had made a mistake, the Gazette says. Two Hindus who witnessed the incident, killed the captain with a bayonet.

"The whole regiment then mutinied. A majority of the officers saved themselves by flight, but twelve of them, including the commander of the regiment and a major were killed.

"Other Hindu troops were sent to suppress the uprising but refused to fire on the mutineers, to whom part of them went over. After two hours of fighting with Australian regiments part of the mutineers fled into the desert. The others were killed or wounded.

Woman Risked Her Life in Flood to Save San Diego Valley Dam

During Midnight Storm, as Flood Water Swept Down,
Mrs. Mary McQuarrie
La Mesa Dam Safe.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 18.—A telephone call jingled at midnight.

The call wasn't very distinct, for the wires, half down, were swaying in the storm outside.

But it was loud enough to awaken the woman in the dark little room. It wouldn't have taken much more than a pin-fall to do that.

"Turn loose the water in the reserve mains at once. You'll have to hurry to save the dam!"

That was the order that came over the telephone.

Mrs. Mary McQuarrie, custodian of the La Mesa dam, didn't lose a second's time.

Without waiting to strike a light, she was out in the rain storm. Tumbling, slipping and falling, she finally managed to get to the bottom of the steep, rocky ravine at the base of the dam. She was out of breath and her body was bruised and scratched, but she twisted the wheel on the shut-off valve with a man's strength.

The force of the waters, as they rushed out, wrecked the pump-house and drenched Mrs. McQuarrie.

Men came out the next day and took one look at the rising waters in the dam, at the rushing spillway several feet deep in water.

"You risked your life to go down there last night," they told Mrs. McQuarrie, "and you saved the dam."

Mrs. McQuarrie smiled. "That's what I am here for," was all she had to say. Mrs. McQuarrie is on the job every day in the year as custodian of the La Mesa dam. It was during the height of the recent rain storm that her prompt action saved the structure from flood waters that rushed down on it. During the rains she stayed at her post, never consenting to rest from her long vigil until the fight against the floods was won.

Mrs. McQuarrie's husband was drowned at Cuyamaca lake during a rain storm three years ago. He was keeper of the dam at that place.

But she has always one eye open for the safety of the dam. That's the most important thing for her.

"I feel safer with Mrs. McQuarrie on the job at Las Mesa than if a man were there," says Col. Ed Fletcher, who employs her.

gine has gyroscopic fly wheels. The safety of the plane is not dependent on these.

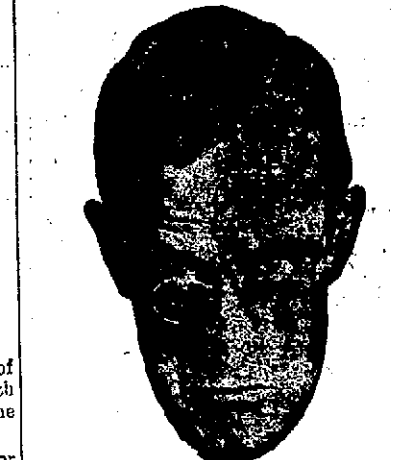

Any way the plan is dropped, upside down sideways, backwards or forwards, it will right itself to flying position and gracefully glide to the earth. The features of the control have never before been tried out or even suggested before, as far as Mr. Stacey has been able to learn in going after his patents.

The inventions are the results of 16 years of study of the theory of flying and of the performances of other aeroplanes. Mr. Stacey has built other models which have been successful, but which he did not reveal publicly because they did not have the element of absolute safety he believes he has achieved in his latest machine.

TEMPTATION

A man without money is an easy mark for temptation.

It's hard to keep straight with a cold back and an empty stomach.

The hungry crowd that fills our big cities is to be pitied, but five out of six of them would not be where they are if they had saved their money.

A savings account has nothing in common with the bread line.

A savings account keeps you from temptation and delivers you from evil.

By R. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course, Moody Bible Institute.
(Copyright, 1914, Western Newspaper Union.)

CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 4:32-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love one another from the heart fervently.—1 Pet. 1:22 R. V.

The Sanhedrin had tried threatening upon the disciples and this is generally pretty weak business. But their threat meant danger and the disciples were not unduly puffed up over their deliverance. With all their believing friends they prayed and in response the Holy Spirit came upon them in still further measure. (4:31-32).

1. The Spirit-Filled Believers, 4:32-37. The two sections of this lesson are really one and are designed to bring out sharply the contrast between the Holy Spirit-filled church and an evil spirit-filled man. The communism of the early church was (a) Christian communion (see 2:44); and it was (b) for a special occasion; (c) it was benevolent—each had according to his "needs" (4:34, 35); (d) it was voluntary (4:34); and (e) it recognized the right to private property (see 5:4, 9). He, the Holy Spirit, does bring that unity, that altruism, those active social relations and services of which Pentecostal communism is the type. Unity and love are seen in genuine Christianity in all ages, but the forms of their expression may differ.

The power of the Holy Spirit was manifested, not merely in love and unity which it produced, in the brotherhood thus evidenced, but also in the testimony given for the Lord Jesus Christ, "with great power gave the apostles witness to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus." There is much witness to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ in our day, but not always "with great power." When we are filled with the Holy Spirit it is of Jesus, and especially of his resurrection, that we will bear witness.

Another result of being filled with the Holy Spirit was that grace was upon all. "Grace" means favor. We are not told whether it was God's favor or man's favor that was upon them. It seems to imply both (see Luke 2:52). No man looked upon his own interests, but "every man on the things of others." Distribution was made according as each had need, not according to his ability, not according to his notable service. The pre-eminent illustration of Christian love in the brotherhood at Jerusalem was Barnabas.

If we had more of such today we would have less of union labor troubles and missionary deficits. We do well to consider carefully the six distinguishing features of this early church: (1) A praying church (4:24-30), (2) a Spirit-filled church (31), (3) a united church (32), (4) a witnessing church (33), (5) a ministering church (34, 35), (6) a multiplying church (36, 37).

II. The Devil-Possessed Unbeliever, 5:1-16. Barnabas had received great praise for what he had done at the impulse of the Holy Spirit in his life. It is an exceedingly fair picture, but the scene of the early church had been from foes without, now it faces the greater peril of foes within. And when this great question, regarding the deity and personality of the Holy Spirit, is first brought to light, God, through his church, dealt with it in a stern manner. The devil is always presenting his imitations of everything good and holy. Ananias and Sapphira were not willing to make a like sacrifice. They too, "sold a possession," but they secreted a part of the price and brought the rest with the intent to deceive the church. The Holy Spirit quickly informed this church of this hypocrisy and, Spirit-guided, they were not deceived. For Ananias to lie in the atmosphere of love and consecration engendered by the Holy Spirit made his crime the more unpardonable. The same words are used in describing the actions of those used in describing the actions of Barnabas up to a certain point. But what a difference we see subsequently. In the case of Barnabas his act was a deed of self-forgetting love; in the case of Ananias it was one of calculating hypocrisy. We thus see that the early church was not as perfect as some would have us imagine it to be.

The second section of this paragraph (vv. 12-16) is a record of what the results of this vindication of the Holy Spirit were. First the Spirit came upon the apostles and literally overflowed upon all those about them. In the second place those who were thinking of joining the church for mercenary motives were held back from so doing (v. 13).

If the Holy Spirit were present in such power today there would be fewer hypocrites who would dare to join themselves to it.

The deception of Ananias was deliberate (v. 4); he had talked it over with his wife (vv. 2, 9), and he was a grave danger to this early church. It threatened to choke the very fountain of love and unity which had sprung up in the midst of the selfish world.

The stern judgment that came upon Ananias and Sapphira was richly merited and indeed was gracious, for it sifted and saved the church.

A Full Measure of Value for Every Man All of the Time

You have never heard of Uncle Sam lowering the standard of a ten dollar gold piece. The government in issuing money, sets a value to which it must measure up to. It is the same way with Sherman's Clothes—made in our own factory, sold only in our own stores and measuring up to a standard of value we set—that the cloth must be all-wool before it is put into making. These clothes cannot be sold at wholesale any cheaper than they are sold to you and whereby you save the regular retailer's profit of $5 to $8.

You have your choice of hundreds of different styles of suits and overcoats in any material. We never have sales or any catch-penny prices, but always good honest values to offer you. An iron-clad guarantee goes with every garment that it gives you absolute satisfaction in every way or your money back. Come to Sherman's today or tomorrow and spend five minutes of your time. Look over this large, well assorted stock of clothes for men and young men. You will be under no obligations to buy.

ROOSEVELT TO RUN ANYWAY, IS BELIEF

Perkins and Other Signs Seem to Be Pointing That Way.

By Gilsou Gardner
Washington, Feb. 12.—Roosevelt will run anyway. A trip to New York before Roosevelt left for the West Indies has convinced me of this much. George W. Perkins thinks so too. I had a long talk with Perkins. He thinks Roosevelt can win even in a three-cornered fight; so, as T. Burton would say, facta est alia, which, being interpreted is, "The dice are down," or as a great German student has rendered it, "The homes are in the ring."

The Barnes-Crane-Hilles combination

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-checked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Advertisement.

may go as far as they like. They may go ahead and get their hand-picked delegates and arrange for their dark horses and masked marauds until the gong sounds. The little old B. Moore bunch is going to rally around the anti-trust again. Once more the Florentine room in the Congress hotel will echo to the roar of the bull moose and once more in the auditorium hall the hosts of Armageddon will assemble to do battle for the Lord—and T. Roosevelt.

"You can't beat somebody with nobody," Dick Croker used to say. That is why Perkins is chipper. Weeks, Burton and other "white hopes" of the Barnes-Peterson-Crane-Sinnot managers are "nobody" in the estimation of Perkins, while T. R. stands for "somebody." He believes the vagueness and indefiniteness of the standard republican campaign will be its undoing. Already the prospective southern delegates demand to know for whom they are going to vote. They want at least a prospect of winning—the jobs! No more Taft campaigns for theirs!

The standard game has been much weakened by the premature appearance of old General Prosperity. There isn't a grave-digger's chance for Barnes & Co. to be the advance agents of a prosperity which is prancing around with all four hoofs in their faces. The tariff issue—including a tariff commission—is now unanimous, having been adopted and endorsed by W. Wilson, et al. Everybody's for preparedness with the biggest navy in the world. So there's no issue between anybody, except the personal issue between T. Roosevelt and W. Wilson; which issue is sharp and acrid.

Of course the three-cornered fight may become a two-cornered fight. Symptoms in Massachusetts point strongly that way. When Bird, Cushing and Augustus Gardner can get together on Roosevelt, there is little of the chicken left for Crane and Weeks—hardly anything except the neck and the feet, as it were.

Other states, Perkins thinks, are likely soon to follow Massachusetts, and he says it would not be surprising if it were all over but the shouting by June 7.

The hearings on the subject of Louis D. Brandeis and his qualifications for the supreme court, as conducted by the sub-committee of the senate committee on the judiciary, have so far been a fiasco. The hostile senators voted to have this hearing public in the hope that something seemingly detrimental to Brandeis would be brought out and get full publicity. They put out a dragnet and went fishing for hostile criticism. Even unknown persons who wrote to the committee in a critical vein were invited to appear before the committee and tell what they knew or thought. Even when they turned out to be harmless cranks they were listened to with a patience new in senators. Lawyers who had been in opposition to Brandeis in private practice were summoned and permitted to air their ancient grudges and to retry cases in which they had been beaten. Any witness who could name a person who might be willing to say something against Brandeis was welcomed and the name jotted down for subpoena. Even thus the committee has been obliged to take a long recess to get its second wind and see if something can't be framed as a basis for continuing the alleged "investigation."

My zest for preparedness was a little whetted the other day when I sat in on the hearing in progress before the house committee on naval affairs, and Admiral Blue was on the stand. There I learned that the total number of men in our naval reserve is 303. That in the French navy is 90,000; that in the German about 100,000; that in the Japanese about 100,000, and Great Britain's, of course, about twice as much. I learned that our navy has not been

Psalms 46:1-11.

1 God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.
 2 Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea;
 3 Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah.
 4 There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the Most High.
 5 God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her, and that right early.
 6 The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted.
 7 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.
 8 Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth.
 9 He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire.
 10 Be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.
 11 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

Framing the Army Bill.

While the clashing hosts of preparedness and anti-preparedness are indulging in vociferous argument, marked by crimination and re-crimination all over the country, it will be noted that the house military committee is going quietly about to frame the administration army bill. Something like a skeleton form of the new measure has already been licked into shape, and while it will not be complete for presentation to the house for some weeks, a number of its outstanding features have already been agreed upon.

For instance, the plans of the committee are known to call for a standing army of 153,000 men. The number probably will be increased to 160,000. The Continental army is not included. The National guard will be increased from its present strength of about 104,000 to 400,000 or 500,000, as fast as it can be accomplished, if the bill passes. Control of the guard will be as the president directs.

The bill will incorporate in it the reserve bill introduced by Representative Caldwell, of New York, providing for keeping men in reserve with some remuneration, until they are 45. They will be divided into a first reserve—those who have been in the regular army within five years—a second reserve of men who have been with the colors within ten years, but not within five years, and so on.

The army bill also will have incorporated in it Speaker Clark's bill, providing for double the number of cadets at the military academy and providing that any one wishing to take the course in addition to the regular cadets may do so at exact cost. The bill introduced by Representative McKellar, of Tennessee, providing state military academies, also likely will be included in the general bill.

In all probability, of course, there will be at least minor changes in the measure before it is enacted into law, for both house and senate will insist on modifications or additions to meet views of those who may be able to command support enough to enforce them. On its face, however, the outlook is not such as to give alarm to those who feared a headlong plunge into absolute militarism.

The Sentinel's attention has been called to the fact that it fell into error a day or two ago in its statement that the new portable schoolhouse for use in the city schools was to be constructed by the pupils in the manual training department. As a matter of fact, it is the lads in the vocational school who will undertake this work, and that they will make a success of it there is no doubt. The vocational boys are given three hours of practical work daily under the direction of a practical tradesman, with the remaining hours devoted to correlated academic work. It is the hope of those in charge of vocational work in the Fort Wayne schools that the department will, in the course of a very few years, be provided with a building of its own in order that this intensely useful branch of educational endeavor may be still further developed.

Under the decree of Judge Eggeman, in the circuit court, one Fort Wayne father who was convicted of having shamefully neglected his children, will be forced to work for six months on the county roads as a jail prisoner, while the $1 per day authorized by law to be paid as wages in such cases will be turned over to the man's family for their support. It is the first application of the new "lazy husband" law in Fort Wayne, and it should serve not only as a correctional influence in the case in point, but serve as an impressive warning to other men who may be unmindful of their obligations in this regard. It remains to be seen how many husbands of this type desire a job of this sort that, while attended by some humiliation, is apt to produce more revenue for the unfortunate family than it has enjoyed under the old regime.

Ex-Governor James E. Campbell, of Ohio, has filed in that state his declaration of candidacy for the democratic nomination for president, in order that Ohio candidates for delegates to the national convention may declare for a "second choice" for president as required by law. The former governor explains that he is nursing no delusions and cherishing no ambitions—that president Wilson is the choice of Ohio democrats, and that his action signifies that he is merely an "honorary" candidate in order that the provisions of the Ohio law may be fully complied with. Under the circumstances it would clearly be cruel to raise objections to Mr. Campbell's enjoyment of the transitory effulgence of such reflected glory as may come his way. Let him go to it.

From various sources nowadays we are being told that nobody can beat Wilson but Roosevelt; that nobody can beat Wilson but Burton; that nobody can beat Wilson but Cummins; that nobody can beat Wilson but Fairbanks; that nobody can beat Wilson but Weeks, and that nobody can beat Wilson but Hughes. Taking up the elimination by the old school day method of cancellation, it appears that Nobody is the one who is likely to do it.

Whether he is enjoying it or not, Mr. Brandeis is at least getting a pretty accurate line on what some of his loving brethren in the legal profession think of him in the course of that hearing to determine the question of senate confirmation of his nomination to the supreme bench.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What The Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Attorney William P. Breen has gone to Terre Haute on business.

George W. Pixley and Charles E. Read, of the Pixley Clothing Company, have gone to Utica, N. Y.

Dr. W. W. Barnett is attending the practice of Dr. J. M. Dinnen during the latter's absence.

Harry Harrison has received a cocker spaniel pup from Grand Rapids. W. P. Chapman, manager of the telephone exchange, has gone to White Hill, Ill., on a visit.

The Fort Wayne Baseball club has been organized with $3,000 capital stock and the following officers: President, William Meyer, jr.; vice president, John Reidmiller; treasurer, Henry Meyer, jr.; secretary, Louis Heilbroner. Guy Hecker has been engaged as manager of the team.

M. M. Slattery, the electrician, expects to have his storage battery for the propulsion of street cars ready for a practical test in about two weeks.

Policeman John O'Connell, who is an expert, has been engaged by the Morton club to set up the new billiard tables in the club's new quarters in the Odd Fellows' block.

Hayden park is to be left undisturbed and the proposed eighth ward fire engine house will be built elsewhere, much to the satisfaction of the residents of that ward.

Christ Broward, the barber, who is entertaining an offer from a wealthy New York sporting man to walk the length of the North American continent, is training every day for his arduous task. He is confident he will be successful and earn the big money offered.

There was a big attendance at the mass meeting in the circuit court room last night to take organized steps to free the toll roads of Allen county. T. E. Ellison explained the bill he has drawn for the purpose and it will be introduced in the legislature. Frank Alderman was made chairman of a committee of fifty citizens of the city and county to go to Indianapolis to urge the passage of the bill.

TESTED SEED

(Indiana Daily Times)

Reports sent out by the Indiana Grain Dealers' association carry a warning to Indiana farmers to the effect that seed oats are alarmingly poor in germinating quality, and the good seed oats are alarmingly scarce. Tests for germination have been made of a large number of samples of oats from different parts of the state. As a result it is authoritatively asserted that the highest rate of germination found in any sample is 77, while many samples run as low as 20 per cent. of good seed oats. It is concluded that not more than 50 per cent. of the oats in Indiana will show better than 40 per cent. germination. It is shown that unless great care is taken in getting good seed oats heavy losses will be suffered by farmers in Indiana. By reason of the fact that a light wheat acreage has been sown it is expected the farmers will plant a large acreage of oats. Grain dealers are being asked by Charles B. Riley, secretary of the grain dealers' association, to get in touch with the farmers and to see to it that good seed oats are located and provided for Indiana growers. To prevent all farmers from planting any but tested seed oats is the purpose of a concerted Indiana movement which the grain dealers are systematically encouraging.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Good Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture, stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to lifelong skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of assimilative agents has made fat grow after years of thinness, and it is also unequalled, judging from reports, for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing assimilative elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks' systematic use of Sargol should go far to produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying nourishing fats to the blood. If not, every druggist who sells it is authorized to return the purchase price. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are thus provided. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., Dreier Drug Co., D. & N. Pharmacy, The Family Drug Store and other leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has from reports given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, its use is not recommended to nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.—Advertisement.

FILM CENSORS NOW CASKING MORE POWER

Pennsylvania Board Seeks Wider Latitude in Its Operations.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 18.—Amendment to the state laws governing the supervision of moving picture films so that the Pennsylvania board of censors may have greater authority over films shipped into this state from other parts of the country, the power to confiscate objectionable films and be enabled to bar all seals except that of the commonwealth from films shown within the state are among the recommendations made in the report of the censors submitted today to the governor.

The board collected $27,000 in fees and $2,965 in fines, condemned 169 films and eliminated parts of 6,540. The report states that three-fourths of the films are made in California. Seven per cent. of the films shown in this state are melodrama and 29 per cent. come under comedy, much of which the report classifies as coarse. Criticism is made of many of the advertisements shown by the movie theaters and the report declared that the board cannot believe the motion picture theater is a medium for teaching the youth of Pennsylvania moral lessons, through melodrama which it could much better get through the old channels in the church or school nor will it be turned from its way by appeals for freedom to lay bare or advertise the sordid relationship of life in the name of literature or the dramatic art.

Former Insurgent Leader Aids Accused American Lawyer.

Manila, Feb. 18.—Dr. Emilio Aguinaldo, the former insurgent leader, is at the head of a petition for the pardon of the American lawyer, Kelly, who was disbarred, fined $500 and sentenced to six months' imprisonment for publication of a book alleging that General Noriel, the insurgent leader, who was put to death last year for murder of a political enemy, was innocent. Kelly accused sixty persons of assassination in connection with the execution of Noriel and his two accomplices. It is not regarded as likely that the petition will be granted.

Col. Roosevelt inspected the harbor works and then drove about the town visiting other places of interest. He dined with the governor's secretary.

The colonel declined to be interviewed on political affairs, saying he had come here for a rest. He will leave St. Thomas tomorrow.

COUNCILMAN ON THE LIST.

City Father May Be Indicted With Police at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 18.—As a result of a grand jury investigation in progress here it was rumored today that an expose will be brought about which will upset the South Bend police department. Those "on the inside" refuse to give out any names in connection with the report, but they are not backward in declaring that at least three members of the administration, a police officer, a detective and a councilman, will face charges. While raids are ordered against old offenders, it is alleged that instructions were issued to investigators to forget certain places controlled by persons close to the police department. Prosecutor C. R. Montgomery does not expect the grand jury to report until next week.

ORDERS FOR FIRE ESCAPES.

Much Activity Follows Frat House Fire at Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 18.—John J. Walsh, state factory and building inspector, and his deputy, William P. McMahon, inspected all the rooming houses and Purdue fraternity houses in West Lafayette today and as a result of their visit more than thirty property owners were ordered to place fire escapes on their buildings. The state officials inspected the rooms of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house, which was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning, and issued orders that if student roomers sleep in the attic or third story of any building a watchman must be employed during the night. The officials also conferred with President W. E. Stone, of Purdue university and asked the co-operation of the students in the enforcement of the state inspection laws.

Mail Service

The following had been tried by others for more than ten years without his assistance, but which remained to be accomplished by Cyrus Cline.

1. A direct mail service between Fort Wayne and Indianapolis, and greatly expediting the time of delivery.
2. The re-adjustment of the rural mail service, taking the mail direct to the farmer's door in place of his having to go in many instances a half mile or more to the nearest crossroads for it.
3. The extending of our city free delivery service to all parts of the city, so that every resident will now have his mail delivered direct to his door.
4. Secured an appropriation of $20,000.00 for free delivery in cities and towns having a population of not less than 5,000 people and postoffice receipts of not less than $10,000.00.
5. The securing of an appropriation of $75,000.00 for a new postoffice building at Kendallville.
6. He has the united support of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and the Chairman and members of the Public Buildings Committee for an appropriation of $575,000.00 for a new Post-office Building in Fort Wayne.
7. Free mail delivery at Garrett and Angola obtained, and made permanent, and additional collection facilities provided.

rived with my party of black boys," said Dr. Thurnwald. "When we approached a village in the interior, the natives fled in terror. It was always my desire to placate them with gifts.
In many places they refused at first to accept my peace offerings, rushing into the bush when I advanced with iron wares and beads for them. Gradually they became more accustomed to me and rather timidly accepted the presents."

"The last mountain village we passed through was at first the scene of a triumphal entry and later as we returned a place of potential death and tragedy.
My black boys and I were met at the edge of the village on our first trip by the old men of the tribe. The rest had fled, taking their women and children into the dense forest of the tropics to hide from the white man. The strange man with a white skin decided to choose them for his lair."

"It was evident that the old men considered me a 'God Man.' I was a being unknown to them. I wore white clothes, such as they had never seen. They were little or none at all. They advanced and accepted my gifts, then, timorously, they felt of my white suit.
They backed off in astonishment with startled 'Ahs' and grunts of surprise."

"Then came a wonderful thing. With branches cut from the sago palm trees, they swept a path through the village for me and my party. It was a triumphal entry for the 'God Man.' How I wish my next visit might have been as peaceful. As we crossed a creek and stood opposite the village one of the old men gave me a mossy sponge soaked in water and by signs made me understand that he wished me to wave a charm on the village. I did so with much ceremony and then went on my way."

"The charm evidently failed to work.
At any rate when we came back through the village we were decidedly unwelcome. A howling mob of 300 armed savages danced around us, threatening with their clubs and arrows. I did not know what to make of it and tried a peace offering but they would have none of it. They were on the warpath and preparedness for trouble should have been our most valuable asset. But we were not prepared. We had a few rifles but not enough to cope with that band of savages. Besides I did not want trouble. I did not wish to shoot."

My black boys were weary from long mountain climbing and staggered under their packs.
"Oh, master," they wailed, "kanakas, suppose he shoot, me die."
"It was most unpleasant. The savages grouped at our rear and at times fired arrows, wounding some of my boys. I was determined if possible to escape without returning their fire; it seemed suicidal to shoot at them."

"Their superstitious dread of the white man had not vanished and they kept their distance, but still howling their terrible cries. I stopped once to the rear of my boys and noticed that as I halted the natives did likewise.
I walked slowly backwards a few paces and throw up my arms with a warning gesture. They turned and ran. But when we started on once more they followed again with their arrows flying about us."

"I stopped again and waved them back. A repetition of these tactics doctrines of times on the trail from their village managed to ward them off until at last we were out of their district.
"If they had only been more courageous, if they had been less afraid of me, we would never have come out."
Thus the "God Man" won over the ignorance of the savage. A more intelligent human being, by the sheer force of will, the use of his greater personality, bluffed the weaker mind in a time of danger and threatening death, when courage and subtlety were necessary."

The coal mines of Sweden do not produce enough fuel for that country's needs and scientists are trying many experiments with peat, of which there is a vast supply available.

CHILDREN'S FILMS AT ORPHEUM.
Mothers' Club and Manager Brentlinger Combine Efforts.

Once a month, or on the first Saturday of every month, pictures for children will be shown at the Orpheum theater in the morning for the admission of five cents. An arrangement was made by the Mothers' club and through the kindness of Mr. Brentlinger, for the running of films that are particularly appropriate for children at the Saturday matinee several months ago, but where at first it was hoped to have pictures every Saturday morning, it was finally concluded to show them but one Saturday a month or on the first Saturday. The expense of the films and operator is to come out of the proceeds for Mr. Brentlinger, who donates lights, etc., and the rest of the proceeds, if there are any, are to go to the Mothers' club. The Kindergarten Teachers' association has had two showings of films, too, this season. The Mothers' club is connected only with the Orpheum theater showing as it was through the generosity of the theater management that the idea was executed in the first place.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

Shrine Buys Entire Lower Floor of New Palace for Saturday Matinee.

The Mizpah Shrine has purchased the entire lower floor of the New Palace theater for the Saturday matinee to give the kiddies a chance to enjoy the rapid fire sure hit bill that opened yesterday afternoon. The two acts that will especially appeal to the youngsters in years and also those that are youngsters at heart are the Thaleros Circus and the childhood reminiscence "Yesterday," being presented by Guy Rawson and Frances Claire. The Thaleros Circus is a hurry up, down, pony and monkey act that is hustled through in five minutes. The wonderfully trained four-footed actors zipping from one trick to another with seeming huge enjoyment in their work. "Yesterday" is the dainty, little skit in which two children meet, quarrel and quarrel just like ordinary kids do. The act closes with a sentimental song that goes over big. Rawson's song, "Ella," is a clever bit of character comedy stuff. Kennedy and Hollis in their fun routine "Freshie's Initiation," initiate Fort Wayne to some comedy that is brand new. Kennedy's headlong style is the sort that carries across the foot lights, while Hollis is a splendid foil for him.

Baron Lichter, the amusing pianist, does a pianologue that is extremely funny, as the baron is a master showman with every trick of the trade at the tips of his fingers. Angelo, Wier and Dacey's singing is both a musical treat and a comedy hit, for these harmonists do not sink to buffoonery in their fun efforts. They possess worth while voices. Victorine and Zolar's dancing is surprising. Each of the girls does a solo number and the act closes with a sensational dance, La Dans Duell, in which the girls use electrically charged swords to good effect.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"The Red Circle" Opens Bill Tonight.

Everyone has read stories galore of the workings of the "Black Hand," a world-famed organization to blackmail or slay its victims, but an opportunity to see the real tactics of this organization is offered all lovers of mystery stories with the opening of "The Red Circle" tonight at the Temple for a three nights' stand. It deals with the intrigues of the Knights of the Red Circle, a foreign murder society which has taken root in America. Its suspense interest is unexcelled by any play produced within the last ten years, and "the play will leave its mark wherever placed," asserts a Chicago writer.

Amateurs also will have their time tonight. Saturday and Sunday matinees will be produced and the young folks will be given a chance to demonstrate their ability on the stage Saturday afternoon. A prize will be offered for the best impersonator of Charlie Chaplin.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

NEW FARNUM TRIUMPH.

William Farnum, the superman of the movies, the $100,000 a year star of the William Fox forces, and one of the most magnetic actors the world of drama has ever been acquainted with, creates what is undoubtedly the most telling role of his career in "Fighting Blood," a masterly photoplay triumph which is seen at the Orpheum theater today and tomorrow. As Lem Hardy, the "fighting parson," Farnum creates a screen personality which will live long in the memories of those who have felt their emotions thrill and pulse as they watched this remarkable personage pursue his galvanic course through the six breathless reels of this drama.

The story is alive with thrills, the most momentous of these coming when Farnum whips five or six husky toughs who had broken up his service when he was preaching in a church. The last fight comes when Farnum conquers the town bully of Red Dog, a western-mining town, these two providing one of the most vicious and bloody fist fights ever staged for the lens.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

The Great White Way Pictured at Jefferson.

The glittering lights, rippling laughter, and music from many instruments, the tinkling of glasses and the mingling of many voices is what greets one on New York's Great White Way where care is unknown and every one lives for today and tomorrow takes care of itself. An innocent country girl travels through this path with the flames-burning the hottest and her emergence without being scorched is vividly pictured in "The Salamander" at the Jefferson. One Sassoon has robbed the parents and grandmother of the heroine of their wealth, and she sets out alone for the city to find Sassoon to punish him. How well she succeeds is told in the sensational events that follow her arrival in the city where she eventually is responsible for the undoing of the villain. There is a pleasant ending to the story. You should see this picture showing with the Jefferson Travels for the last times today. Tomorrow, "Vengeance is Mine," with Crane Wilbur. Special show for children Saturday morning.

Society

Parties to honor Miss Constance Kephling are still in order among her many friends. This afternoon Miss Virginia Olds entertained the members of the bridal party at an informal tea, which she served with the accompaniment of lovely spring flowers. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fee are to entertain at their home both men and women of the bridal party and tomorrow afternoon Miss Ruth Evans will be a hostess for the same elected bride.

Miss Irene Lennon entertained a number of friends at a theater party at the New Palace on Thursday evening, to honor her friend, Miss Armonde Breen, who is to be a March bride. The party occupied two boxes on the entresol floor and after the performance went to the Aurenz confectionery, where a long table had been arranged for them. Pink roses decorated the table and a dainty ily tied box containing a gift from the hostess, lay at Miss Breen's plate. A large box of confectionery at the theater and a corsage of beautiful flowers easily led the beholder to select the honor guest at the party. Miss Lennon's guests also included Misses Matilda Boyce, Lucille Miller, Muriel Larimore, Frances McGuire, Irma Blee, Esther Lennart, Julia Brannan, Josephine Hayes, Mary Travis, Vivian Closs, Mrs. Albert Moran and Mrs. C. E. Wahl, of Denver, Col.

Mrs. Leon Mariotte and Miss Julia Chambers were united hostesses on Thursday evening in a party of lovely arrangement which they gave to honor a bride of this month, Miss Marie Kerby. There were a dozen young ladies in the party and after the entertainment at the Jefferson theater the party went to Aurenz's for refreshments. This evening the Misses Ethel and Henrietta Mariotte, of Washington boulevard west, are to give a party at their home in honor of Miss Kerby, and there are being planned several other social affairs in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Wood have returned from Angola and Lake James.

Mrs. Charles Hepp, of 3016 Hoagland avenue, went to Logansport on Friday for a few days' visit.

Mrs. J. L. Cooper, of Winona Lake, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lyman K. Gould, of Rockhill street.

Mrs. E. M. Dickinson, of New York, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. W. K. Noble, of West Wayne street.

Mrs. J. E. Knapp has gone to Indianapolis for a few days' visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hertzler are now at home at 1116 Washington boulevard west, the T. J. Rodabaugh residence.

Mrs. Nettie Rabich, of Fairfield avenue, entertained a few friends at a Valentine party on Tuesday evening, which the guests greatly enjoyed.

Miss Margaret Rohan, of Fairfield avenue, has been elected a member of the Sigma club, a social organization of the University of Chicago, where she is a student.

Mrs. J. H. Vevey is to leave on Saturday for a visit in Cincinnati with Mrs. Robert Orr. Mrs. E. C. Smith,

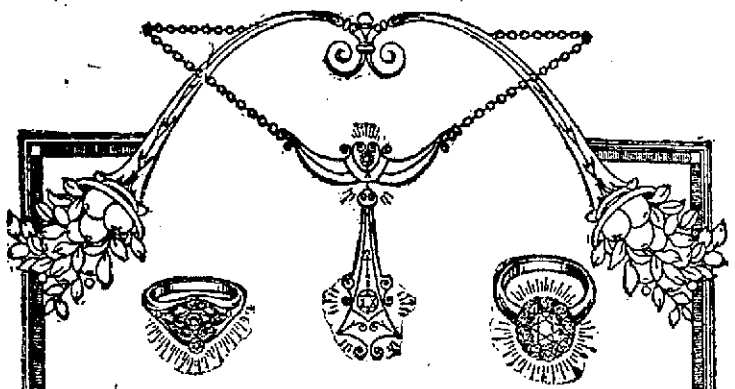

HOW TO REMOVE SPOTS FROM YOUR CLOTHING

Place a pad of clean white cloth under the fabric from which the spot is to be removed, saturate a similar piece with Non-Explosive Klee-Nu Cleaning Fluid. First apply around, then on the spot, always rubbing toward the center of the spot; this prevents a ring from forming and the spots disappear as if by magic.

Klee-Nu is a transparent, scientifically prepared liquid cleaner, which dissolves the spot or soil through the fabric to the pad below. Klee-Nu is perfectly harmless, free from acid, always ready for use, and cannot burn or explode. The finest silks and all fabrics can be cleaned with perfect safety.

Unexcelled for cleaning white kid gloves in a jiffy on the hands, leaving them soft and as white as new.

Jefferson School P-T Club.

The parent-teacher club of the Jefferson school will meet next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The opening of the program will consist of the pupils of the entire school giving a series of songs, folk dances and exercises. Parents are urged to be present in time to see some of this work. Dr. K. K. Wheelock is to give a talk on "The Ear, Nose and Throat" and this will follow the work of the pupils who will be dismissed as soon as their part of the program is done. All parents are urged to be present.

Country Club Dance.

The dance at the Anthony hotel next Monday evening, which the Country Club members are to give, promises to be one of the large and popular occasions of this mid-winter season. Franklin's orchestra has been engaged for the music and the program will present the new and favorite numbers from the Hippodrome and "Princess Pat," so that no one who can dance will want to keep off the floor. Arrangements are to be made, however, for such club members as don't dance, so they can attend the affair and enjoy a good time.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

Flames Drive Ernest Mills and Family from Home in Early Morning.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 18.—The residence on the C. W. Shoemaker farm, four miles south of Bluffton, was destroyed by fire Friday morning and the tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mills and family, were forced to run from the house with only what bed clothing and personal belongings they were able to gather up as they hastened out. The house and household goods are a total loss. Mr. Mills had insurance sufficient to cover the loss on the household goods and there was some insurance on the building but not enough to cover the loss. The farm is the property of Rev. C. W. Shoemaker, of Le Grange, a brother of Dr. S. A. Shoemaker, of this city. The origin of the fire is not definitely known. The flames spread through the house before the family was awakened. The bedrooms of the house were in flames before the fire and smoke got near enough to the bedrooms to awaken the sleepers. Mrs. Mills was the first to awaken, and she alarmed her husband and they awakened their children, aged 2 years and 6 months, and his brother, Arthur Mills, of Swazey, who has been visiting with them for a week. They saved some clothing and the bed clothes off of two or three beds, but nothing else of consequence. Mr. Mills saved his papers of value.

to change the site of the building. Since there has been such a strong opposition to putting the new building where the old one now stands, there has been a move started to compromise on some site, if possible, and thus avoid any litigation that would delay the building. It is probable that a petition containing the names of a majority of the patrons of the district may yet be filed with the county superintendent asking for a change of site.

COMES FAR TO SURRENDER

Van Wert, Ohio, Feb. 18.—When it was found that Sheriff Gunsett had located him, Jesse O. Blossom came all the way from Tulsa, Oklahoma, to answer a charge of non-support and gave himself over to the officers. Blossom was arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty. He was released on $500 bond. It was also provided that he pay the sum of two dollars a week for the support of his family to Clerk of Courts Siders, who was appointed trustee, and pay the costs of the case. The bond and costs were provided and he was dismissed.

KEPT MARRIAGE LONG A SECRET.

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Another secret marriage has been made public in the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Ruth (Cress) Fair, formerly of Wolf Lake, and Marvin Rimmel, which was solemnized at Hillsdale, Mich., on Thanksgiving day, 1916. The bride is quite well known here. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Rimmel and is employed at the Stiffney cigar store. Mrs. Rimmel is now at the home of Mr. Conley in Orange township, a grandniece of the bridegroom, who has been in poor health for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Rimmel expect to go to house-keeping in this city some time in the spring. They have the best wishes of their many friends.

SUES HUSBAND'S MOTHER.

Wabash, Ind., Feb. 18.—Amanda Shelton was today made the defendant in a $5,000 suit filed by Matilda Shelton, through Attorneys Plummer, Todd & Plummer. Allegation of the affections of plaintiff's husband is given as the cause of action. It is alleged in the complaint that the plaintiff and Willard Shelton, son of the defendant, were duly married in August, 1913, and lived together until July, 1914, when they were forced to separate by reason of the acts of the defendant, among which was making false accusations against the chastity of the plaintiff.

BURGLARY NEAR HICKSVILLE

Hicksville, Ohio, Feb. 18.—While the family was away, the house of Rudolph Curtis, in Millford township, was broken into by unknown parties. The robbers had a key and unlocked a door. The beds were torn up and the house ransacked. A revolver was taken and some other small property. The burglars stopped at the pantry and evidently got their fill of eat. Messages were sent to Edgerton and Hicksville as soon as the act was discovered. So far as is known there is no clue to the perpetrators of the offense.

DOCTOR BREAKS BOTH LEGS.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 18.—Dr. Horn, an elderly physician, residing at Pennville, is confined to the hospital at that place, receiving treatment for injuries sustained Tuesday, when he met with an accident that will leave him crippled for weeks, and on account of his advanced age may leave him permanently disabled. He had been to his farm near Pennville, and as he was returning to the town a wagon passed him and he endeavored to climb into it to ride home. He slipped and fell and had both of his legs broken.

HAVE BURGLARY SUSPECT

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 18.—"Roman Nose" Hudson is in custody at Kokomo, held as a suspect in the Boyer second hand store robbery which was committed in this city several days ago. The police have been working on the theory that two men, who were in the second hand store on the evening the robbery was committed, had something to do with the theft and this clue led to the arrest of Hudson. The officers are now looking for Hudson's partner.

Preacher Anxious for Church Girls to "Pop Question"

REV. FRANCIS VAN HORN

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 18.—"Girls, take a good look before you leap—then leap." This is the leap-year advice of Rev. Francis Van Horn, pastor of the Oakland Congregational church.

"Why shouldn't girls propose?" he asks. "We read in the Bible that Ruth proposed to the man of her choice. If Ruth of the olden days could propose, why shouldn't the Ruth of 1916 have the same privilege?"

"I am encouraging all the unmarried women in my church to 'pop the question.' If a girl sees a man whom she admires—one whom she believes she can make happy—why should foolish convention refuse her the right to express her love? Before the year is out, I hope that every single woman in my congregation will have found her mate."

SHOW ME A RULE AND I'LL BREAK IT

College Woman Tells Why Girls Leave Boarding Homes.

New York, Feb. 18.—"Show me a rule and I'll break it." So a well balanced girl of 25 told Miss Esther Packard, college graduate, investigator of boarding homes for the Consumers' league. And that sums up the objection of New York young women to the boarding houses for women, established but unsuccessful throughout Manhattan, according to Miss Packard.

There are too many repressive rules. Young girls want freedom.

Miss Packard recommends a "socialized apartment house"—suites running from room-and-kitchenette to several rooms—where working girls can live as they like, with a large cafeteria open to the public, and several reception rooms where residents may receive callers.

In 31 non-commercial homes for working women, Miss Packard found 220 vacant rooms. Closing hours, no-dancing rules, and other restrictions, drive the girls out, Miss Packard found. The landlady of a furnished room house in the same block with one of the "homes" said she frequently rented rooms for the night to girls locked out of the "home."

EM ROES MEET LYCEUM FEDS HERE IN MARCH

LYCEUM FEDS AND DANVILLE TONIGHT

Normal Boys Come to Local Floor and Real Game is Promised.

St. Patrick's Lyceum Feds meet the Danville Normal five at the Lyceum gym tonight, and the game will go a long way toward deciding the local boys' status in the state title race. The Feds have taken care of everything that has come their way, and the Indianapolis Em-Roe gang, one of the other aspirants to the state title, has done likewise. Last week the Em-Roe five defeated Danville by a margin of ten points, and it now remains for the Feds to hold up their end of the scoring.

The Miller-Flaherty combination will be on the job again tonight, and this feature of the Feds' playing should interest basketball fans if nothing else does. It is doubtful if anywhere in the middle west there is another scoring machine like these St. Patrick's forwards, and their work alone makes it worth while to see the Lyceum games.

In Danville the local boys meet a team that plays real basketball and the Lyceums can and will play just the same sort of game their opponents put up. When they run into a lot of bruisers they bruise too, and when they meet basketball players they play basketball.

Louis Island will referee tonight.

STATE GOLF MEET IN AUGUST AT LAPORE.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—The week of Aug. 14-19 was selected for this year's tournament of the Indiana Golf association at the annual meeting of the organization here Thursday. The tournament will be played at Laporte, President John O. Wilson, of Marion, suggested that articles of practical value be given as trophies. It was decided to retain the cups as awards for the main flights and to give useful articles for the minor championships. Four hundred dollars was appropriated for the purchase of trophies. A committee was appointed to revise the constitution.

"LONE STAR" KNOWS FOOTBALL AND A LOT OF OTHER THINGS.

(By Betty Graeme.)

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 18.—If "Lone Star" W. H. Dietz, famous football coach of Pullman college, had not been born an Indian he would have been an Irishman. I discovered this before I had exchanged a dozen words with the big fellow, in the first interview he has ever given a woman reporter. In his "teepee" in a hotel here, "Lone Star" surprised me by appearing in a dark cutaway coat and vest and gray trousers.

The night before I had seen him at a chamber of commerce banquet in full feather regiments, "dressed fit to kill." The fact that I don't know a thing about football, war paint or Indian dialects was embarrassing at first.

But I found that the big coach knows a lot about women. He knows that they like rather to hear kind words that ought to be true instead of unkind ones that are not. And so we got on famously.

I learned also that he is an artist. At Carlisle he was the director of the art department, and it was once his ambition to take up the mantle worn by Frederick Remington, painter of the American aborigines.

"So you are an artist?" I asked. "Could you paint me?"

"I could," he replied, "but I shouldn't want you painted. You are radiant enough as you are."

"At Pullman," I asked, changing the subject hastily. "You have had a chance to observe co-education—what do you think of it?"

"It works out rather well down there," said "Lone Star," "but I am not so sure it is a good idea. It takes the boys' minds off their work to have girls around."

I noticed a sharp glint in his black eyes at times and wanted to know if he had a bad temper.

"I never let my temper get away with me," he said. "People usually do what I say without waiting to be made to do it. I have never spoken a rough word to the

DEFIANCE COMES TO CONCORDIA

Great Go Scheduled for Tonight at College Gym.

Defiance college will be the attraction at the Concordia college gym tonight and a regular game ought to develop. The Concordia boys, although too young and too light to run far on the road to a city championship, put up as classy a game as any team in the city, and a prettier game than the majority of the "contenders."

Defiance comes with a great team, too, and the going tonight should be all that the basketball followers of the city could wish. A college game is a good game as a rule, and the Concordians have established themselves firmly in the hearts of Fort Wayne enthusiasts as regular fellows and good sports, and a big crowd will be on the job to root for the local boys.

ST. PAUL'S NATIONALS WIN.

In the preliminary at Concordia last night the St. Paul Nationals defeated the St. Mary's Kekongas 33 and 21. The lineups and scores:

Nationals—Hoffman and Adams, forwards; Doerfler, center; Linnemeyer and Walda, guards.

Kekongas—Ehrman and Hoffman, forwards; Sprung and Oberwits, center; DeWald and Becker, guards.

Field goals—Hoffman, 5; Adams, 1; Doerfler, 6; Linnemeyer, 1; Walda, 2; Ehrman, 2; Sprung, 2; Becker, 8.

Foul goals—Ehrman, 3; Hoffman, 1.

LOVE NOTES READ IN COURT

Jacob Addresses Indianapolis Widow as "Dear Little Hoosier."

Canton, O., Feb. 18.—Thirty letters from Robert R. Jacob, sixty-year-old Pittsburgh banker and hardware man, to his "Dear Little Hoosier," Mrs. Ellen W. Canine, a widow, of Indianapolis, were read in court here in Mrs. Canine's $50,000 breach of promise suit against Jacob.

The letters cover a wide range all the way from lawn mowers to other matters of a more intimate nature.

"You always hold a place in my heart," he says in one epistle addressed to "Dear Little Hoosier."

It was contended during the reading of the letters that Mrs. Canine, who was selling tags for a charity when Jacob met her in Indianapolis, had later planned to go to Europe as a Red Cross nurse, but that he had dissuaded her.

Jacob surprised friends when he said on the stand that he was married last November to a Miss Winn, of Virginia. It was the first announcement of the wedding, excepting to a few close friends. He was at that time a widower with four grown children. Canton society folk filled the courtroom.

A company in Norway has patented a secret process for producing 98 per cent. nitric acid from the 30 per cent. acid it has been making from atmospheric nitrogen.

The aluminum output of the United States this year may reach 100,000,000 pounds, or about half the world's production.

The Episcopal diocese of New York grew 5 per cent. last year, and now numbers 93,424 communicants, with 35,000 more in Brooklyn and Queens.

PUPIL OF CY YOUNG GOES TO MAJORS.

STANLEY DOUGAN

Perhaps it was because he was a pupil of the old master, Denton Tecumseh (Cy) Young, who up to the time of retirement was dean of all pitchers, that Stanley Dougan developed a penchant for hurling no-hit shutouts.

At any rate this budding member of the Cincinnati Reds staff bids fair to emulate the feats of his grizzled coach.

As a student at Ohio university Dougan went into athletics with a splash. He specialized at baseball and old Cyrus, who is cultivating his broad acres near Peoli, O., took a decided shine to the rookie.

Young gave his protegee more than passing attention at the daily workouts in which Cyrus presided as coach, and offered to place the youngster with the Zanesville Central league club early in 1915.

Dougan, who was captain of the 1913 varsity and later president of the senior class of 1915, spurned the berth. Instead he pitched a few games for the Portsmouth Ohio State league club and later was drafted by Columbus, appearing under the name of Bob Stanley.

From the Senators he drifted back to the smaller try and last season was the sensation of the Northern league, pitching for Winnipeg. He scored 22 victories, two of whom were no-hit classics. He suffered four defeats.

The Reds have rounded up this promising rah-rah boy and will give him a thorough trial in the spring.

Since the close of the Northern league season he has been coach and athletic director at Jamestown college, Jamestown, N. D. He is a right-hander, measures 6 feet 1/2 inch in his running shoes, weighs 170, is married, and confesses to being 23 years of age.

WRIGHT, AT 40, TO COME BACK

Beale C. Wright, at 40, national singles tennis champion in 1905 and doubles title holder with Holcombe Ward in 1904, 1905 and 1906, plans to come back. He wrote a friend to that effect from Honolulu, where he is tuning up to meet Ward Dawson and Clarence Griffin, Californians, in the islands championships.

Indianapolis Champs Meet Local Irishmen in State Title Dispute

Two state championship claimants, the Lyceum Federals of this city, and the Indianapolis Em-Roe five, meet at the Concordia college gymnasium on March 4 in what promises to be one of the greatest basketball affairs ever staged in this city. The Em-Roe crew has been squinting through the periscope at the local Irishmen for some time, and has doped it out that the local boys are about the best bet in the north end of the state among championship contenders.

Although the crowds at the city series game last night broke local basketball box office records, and the next game probably will see a bigger house, the Fed-Em-Roe game may be counted on to turn out more people than any other basketball event of the winter. The college gym is so arranged that thousands may be seated simply by the addition of stands.

LUTHERANS SLIP AND LOSE FIRST ONE

St. Paul's Were Away Off Stride and St. Mary's Cop With Ease.

Gerberding was about as far from right as he could be last night and stick to his pins, and MacMurray played a kid game at center for St. Paul, and thereby hangs the tale of an overwhelming defeat for the Lutherans in their first go with St. Mary's in the city title series. Nearly a thousand people filled the stands at the Concordia gym last night and jangled cowbells and howled boisterously while the play progressed. The score was 25 and 12.

It was difficult to know last night how the teams would match up if both of them were right, but one thing was certain, if St. Paul's don't brace up and do it fast the Lutherans will find themselves without a third game to play in the series.

St. Mary's five were right. They played a real game, full of beautiful plays, with ease and grace and accuracy, and had the Lutherans baffled the greater part of the time. The floor work of the St. Mary's boys was so fast the Walther leaguers couldn't follow it, and they were accurate at basket throwing. The St. Paul boys hit the baskets scores of times without being able to drop the ball through.

Miller refereed the go and did mighty well, keeping it as clean as a fast and furious game can be. The lineups and scores:

St. Mary's—23—Buescher, R. F.; E. Kersting and A. Kersting, L. F.; C. Kersting, C. Eckrich, R. G.; Hoffman, J. G. St. Paul's—12—Stroup, R. P.; Gerberding, L. F.; MacMurray, C.; Dietrich, R. G.; Kennedy, L. G.

Field goals—Buescher, 2; E. Kersting, 1; A. Kersting, 2; C. Kersting, 3; Eckrich, 1; Stroup, 1; Gerberding, 1; MacMurray, 2; Dietrich, 1.

Foul goals—Eckrich, 6; Gerberding, 2.

GIRL ASKS TO JOIN NAVY.

Leona Pursell, Colored, Disappointed When Request is Denied.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18.—Because her father had served in the United States navy and because she wished to serve her country, Leona Pursell, colored, 536 Tabor street, made application at the navy recruiting station in the federal building, requesting that she be permitted to join the navy. Leona is seventeen years old and was apparently disappointed when told that girls and women were not eligible. She then made inquiries as to the possibilities of becoming an army or navy nurse and obtained the address to which such applications should be sent.

EUROPE USING MUCH U.S. CONDENSED MILK

Exports of This Commodity Reach a Tremendous Total.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—American condensed milk is enjoying a vogue in Europe that it never knew in peaceful time. The exports from this country in 1915 amounted to 76,000,000 pounds, valued at $6,000,000, according to figures furnished by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and the bulk of these exports went to Europe. In normal times the value of condensed milk sold abroad varies between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000, and ordinarily the best customers are Cuba, Panama, China and Mexico.

The increased exports of condensed milk to Europe are easy to explain, under the circumstances, but there has been an increase in imports from European countries that is puzzling. Italy's recent participation in the American trade has caused some comment, but the fact that Holland and Switzerland sold much larger quantities of milk in the United States in 1915 than ever before is considered remarkable, for these two countries have access to practically all markets in Europe. The total imports into the United States from all countries in 1915 were valued at practically $2,000,000, or one-third of the exports, and although Canada furnished more than half, Holland did a business approximating $800,000, as against less than $300,000 the year previous. Switzerland now is selling to us at a rate of $250,000 a year, where formerly practically no milk came from that country.

The biggest ox in the world is to be killed at Schwerin, Germany, for food. He was bred from an Indian zebu, stands ten feet six inches high and weighs 4,189 pounds.

LOCAL WOMAN FOUND
HELP IN FIVE DAYS*Mrs. Julian Sordet Says
Tanlac Gave Aid to
Her Son Also.

Mrs. Julian Sordet, wife of a well known employe of the Wayne Oil Tank and Pump Co., who lives at 807 Lawton place, this city, recently told the relief she gained through the use of Tanlac, the Master Medicine, and said her son also had been improved by the new preparation.

"My system was in a generally run down condition," Mrs. Sordet said. "I had stomach and kidney trouble. My appetite was very poor and what food I was able to eat didn't digest properly. I had aches and pains in my back, caused by kidney trouble, and it seemed impossible for me to sleep at night."

"I noticed quick improvement after I started taking Tanlac. In fact five days after I took my first dose of the medicine I noticed good results. The aches and pains in my back have disappeared now; I have a fine appetite, and I never know a thing from the time I go to bed at night until I get up in the morning. I sleep so soundly."

"My son, Maurice, also has been taking Tanlac and he declares he feels 'swell' now."

"I had tried many remedies during last year, but until I took Tanlac, I gained no real relief."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness and the like and is a fine body builder and system purifier.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

CHURCHES AT CHICAGO WARNED AGAINST REDS*Police Unearth Evidence of Plot of Anarchists to Wreck Edifices.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Chicago churches were warned yesterday by the police to establish a close guard over their premises as a result of evidence disclosed in the hunt for Jean Cronen, the anarchist who poisoned the soup at Archbishop Mundelein's banquet.

The evidence disclosed, both in letters and by "stool pigeons" working with the "reds," is declared to have indicated that an anti-clerical demonstration which would outdo Cronen's sensational poisoning feat has been planned.

While the police declined to reveal the source of their information, a detective working on the case asserted that the "tip-off" came from a man present at a meeting of a branch of anarchists, known as the "Sympathizers." He declared the information was of a startling nature, disclosing that the firebrand had been suggested for several edifices, while a Sunday demonstration in the way of hurling bombs had been talked over.

One of the churches warned by the police is the Belden Avenue Baptist church, of which the Rev. Samuel J. Skevington is pastor. After the raid on Cronen's beachmaster laboratory in a rooming house at 2201 Prairie avenue, photographs of churches in Chicago and in other large cities, as well as of public buildings, were found. A rough drawing indicating the location of Union League club and federal building also were among his belongings.

While the alleged plan to wreck Chicago churches was being made known and guards were being stationed about several of the larger edifices, John Allegretti, Cronen's alleged accomplice and former roommate, held in the county jail on charges of attempted murder, was planning to fight for freedom.

PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO.DRYS FRUSTRATE
PETITION THEFT*Scurry About for Names
When List is Stolen at Danville, Ill.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 13.—This is a story of foiling the "foiler." While F. G. Duffin, an attorney, was out of his office yesterday some one stole a petition of the drys containing more than 4,000 names.

Consternation reigned in the dry camp when the theft was announced. What could the drys do? It had taken days to get the 4,000 names on the petition and if one with 3,500 names were not filed by 5 o'clock tonight there would be no election on the saloon question.

Should the drys try to run down the thief and regain the petition or should they attempt to get up another? With no clue to the thief, they chose the latter course.

Every man and woman worker that could be summoned was sent out last night in a whirlwind campaign that covered the city. In a few hours the workers reported and it was found enough names had been obtained.

Consequently the new petition will be presented today—if it is not stolen again. But dry leaders say it will not be. They have it in a safe now.

POWERLESS TO STOP
ZEP RAIDS, HE SAYS*Kitchener Declares Each
Will Be Made More Costly to Foe.

London, Feb. 13.—Lord Kitchener announced in the house of lords today that during the last Zeppelin raid it was certain the British accounted for one airship which was lost at sea and that there was good reason to believe a second airship had been put out of action. Lord Kitchener added:

"Up to the present time a hostile air invasion of England has had no influence whatever on the military conduct of the war, and regrettable as is the loss of citizen life and damage to private property, I do not believe the people desire to give too great importance to these attacks nor to allow them to affect military operations."

"It is beyond our power to guarantee these shores from a repetition of these air incursions, but we shall make them more costly each time."

Air Defense of Britain.

Outlining the system of air defense in Great Britain, Lord Kitchener said:

"The defense is three fold: First, good advance information regarding the movements of hostile aircraft; second, defense by anti-aircraft artillery; third, attacks on raiders by aeroplanes."

"As regards the first, we now have a system which gives us sufficient warning of impending arrival and probable movements of the enemy. As to artillery, the construction of aircraft guns now has precedence over other ordnance, and now the guns as fast as produced will be distributed to the best advantage throughout the country."

Will Solve Puzzle.
"Attack by aeroplanes at night is attended with great difficulties, but I believe that with more extended practice we shall overcome the difficulties."

"The government will leave no stone unturned in efforts to improve to the utmost our defenses against Zeppelins. The responsibility for defense will be in the hands of Viscount French, with Sir Percy Scott as chief adviser."

The Randall memorial fund has now reached a total of $2,910 and before evening it is believed that more than $3,000 will have been raised.

Among the new subscriptions received since the report Thursday is one for $50 from R. L. Romy, who is spending the winter at Fort Myers, Florida. In sending it he writes the committee as follows: "The notice of Perry A. Randall's death was a great shock to me. He was a very great help to me in my younger days. I shall never forget him for his kindness and his help to me in those long past days. So put me down for a subscription of $50 for the memorial to him. I have never given $50 away so cheerfully and at the same time with so much of sorrow."

Another subscription of $20 comes from Col. and Mrs. D. B. Kehler, the colonel being commandant of the "Soldiers' Home" at Lafayette. Mr. Randall was a life-long friend of Col. Kehler, who made a special trip to Fort Wayne to be present at Mr. Randall's funeral.

PHONE MEN USE RAT AND FERRET AS AIDS

Canton, Ill., Feb. 13.—Success crowned the week-old efforts of two rural telephone company managers today when they established physical connection between their exchanges here.

It was necessary to run the line through a conduit 434 feet long, but of narrow diameter. A week ago, a rat with a silk fishline tied to its tail, was started through the small passage. A ferret sent after it was too ambitious and caught the rat.

A number of other rats were sent through, but the managers were unable to judge properly the ferret's handiwork. Finally a bell was tied on a rat and this proved successful. The fishline was dragged through by the rat and then in turn a fine copper wire was drawn through, hand-over-hand.

We expect to sell over one hundred overcoats tomorrow. Every man who buys one will make very close to 100 per cent. on the money he invests.

EX-CONVICT HELD FOR ROBBING MAN*Ivan Cecil North Stole $60
from Stranger Whom He Got Soused.

Clever work by Detective Sergeant William F. Pappert resulted Friday in the arrest of Ivan Cecil Miller, an ex-convict of the Jeffersonville reformatory, who has confessed that Thursday forenoon he robbed Frank Griffith, of Atwood, near Warsaw, Ind., of $60 cash, after having got the man drunk.

North had on him when arrested Griffith's pocketbook, $23 of the stolen money and a big 44-calibre revolver of fine pattern that he had paid $10 for at a pawnshop with cash that he frisked from his victim. At headquarters North made a complete confession. He was recently discharged from Jeffersonville after serving a term for which he was sentenced in Auburn. He was married last Thanksgiving to Miss Mabel Kinney, of St. Joe, DeKalb county, and with his wife had been residing at 415 Baker street. North has been employed in the Anthony hotel kitchen as a dishwasher.

There they had a drink, then North took Griffith to Stewart's negro saloon on Calhoun street, where again Griffith drank. He says he remembers no more after that. They tried to get a room at the Homestead and were refused, about 9 o'clock, and later the mistress of the place found Griffith in the stairway and called the police. A letter on North shows that his father, J. C. North, is now a convict at the state penal farm.

Griffith was arrested Thursday forenoon about 10 o'clock in the street entrance to the Homestead hotel, 127 West Columbia street, where he was found down and out. When he had recovered in a police cell Thursday night sufficiently to talk he told the officers he had been robbed of $60 and described North perfectly, but on the slight clue furnished by Detective Pappert unraveled the case. North and Griffith first met in the Ludwig saloon, Calhoun and Baker streets at 6 o'clock Thursday morning.

NOW ARMY AVIATION SERVICE DEFECTIVE*Arkansas-Senator Submits
to Prove Charge.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Photographic copies of correspondence between officers of the army aviation corps which Senator Robinson of Arkansas, declared established beyond doubt the defective condition of the aviation service was shown by him to the senate military committee today.

A letter presented to the committee, purported to be from Col. Rever, head of the service, to Captain Cowan, in charge at San Diego, under date of June 2, 1915, and read:

"I wish you would have your engineering department get me out some drawings for the size of sheets to be placed under the seats of aviators for all aged armor protection. I will have several of these plates made so we can say we have armored aeroplanes, not that I think it vitally essential but in order that we can meet any charge that our machines are not armored."

Captain Cowan in a letter to Col. Rever, declared if the "service ever came under investigation by any one outside our own corps, it would be impossible to explain the rotten way in which the work has been handled."

mountain ridge nearly a mile above sea level yielding to bayonet attack after only 36 hours' bombardment.

The operations were conducted under the most severe weather conditions, the snow being deep and the thermometer registering at times more than 30 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. The Turkish army defending Erzerum, taken by surprise under the methods adopted by the Russians, is now said to be in disorderly flight on the roads leading to Sivas.

As the garrison apparently scattered in all directions it is assumed here that large numbers of men were taken prisoner, although official figures are still lacking. After the taking of Nisiklan, it appeared that the Russian attack would be directed upon the Turkish right flank and by rapidly transferring troops the Turks made all plans to resist the main assault from this quarter. Apparently they had little fear of the success of this attack because of the strong character of the fortifications in that direction and ever less apprehension of danger from a frontal attack.

Nevertheless, after the Russians succeeded in taking by storm the first line of forts on Feb. 2 there began a persistent bombardment of the Turkish center, followed by a bayonet charge, the impetuosity of which swept the defenders off their feet. The highest tribute is paid to the bravery of the Caucasian troops, whose charge is considered likely to go down in history as one of the most brilliant feats of the war.

the first jury in December, 1913, failing to reach a verdict. In February, 1914, he was found guilty.

Besides the sordid story of Anna Annulter's infatuation for Schmidt the trials revealed that he was a career of crime. He was engaged in a counterfeiting scheme at the time the murder was committed, it developed and "Dr." A. Murel, who posed as a dentist, was sent to prison for seven years as Schmidt's accomplice in the latter's scheme. It was found that Schmidt also had posed as a physician, that he had committed forgery on numerous occasions and that he had been guilty of various other acts of fraud. His attorneys pleaded their client was insane. The slayer, however, always contended that he was sane. He took no active part in his own defense. When he was sentenced he thanked the court and expressed a desire to be executed at once. He maintained the same stolid composure through the various stages of his case.

SAYS HARVESTER FURNISHED MONEY

Financed Revolution in Yucatan, Declares Chicago Man.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Charges that the International Harvester company has furnished money for arms and ammunition to ribe Ortiz-Arquedo revolution against the Carranza government in Yucatan, Mexico, were made today by Javy Mayer, of Chicago, in the senate agricultural committee's investigation into an alleged monopoly for control of the sisal market.

Walter F. Fisher, former secretary of the interior, counsel for the Harvester company, displayed to the committee a bundle of bills, part of 3,500,000 pesos, issued by the Yucatan commission formed for controlling the sisal crop. "He was undertaking to explain that the bills had come into the possession of the harvester company from a draft for $480,000 gold issued to Angelino Montes, a sisal purchaser, who the Yucatan planters assert, represented solely the harvester company when he was interrupted by Mayer, who declared they gave the draft to raise money for stirring up a revolution.

"That's just talk," retorted Mr. Fisher.

"We will be able to show and introduce into the record the invoices and bills showing that at least part of the money went to an arms purchasing company, of New York, to buy rifles and ammunition," replied Mayer.

Mr. Fisher asserted the money from the draft was given the Yucatan government in exchange for the commissions money in order to have currency to pay the sisal planters. The Ortiz-Arquedo government had control of Yucatan for a short time in 1913 and was overcome by the Carranza army.

76 AMERICANS SLAIN DURING PAST 3 YEARS

State Department Makes a Report on Mexico to Senate.

Washington, Feb. 12.—All the state department's data on the Mexican situation asked for by Senator Fall was transmitted to the senate yesterday by President Wilson, and, under motion of Chairman Stone, of the foreign relations committee, was ordered printed as a public document. It had been expected some of it would be held confidential.

In a letter from Secretary Lansing, accompanying the report it is said that seventy-six American citizens were killed in Mexico in the years 1913, 1914 and 1915, as against forty-seven in the three years preceding it, and that twenty-six civilian Americans and sixteen soldiers were killed on American soil in the same three years as a result of Mexican troubles.

Killings Are Classified.
Americans killed in Mexico from causes that can be attributed to the revolutionary disturbances during 1913, 1914 and 1915 were placed at eighteen; those who have disappeared in Mexico and who were probably killed from causes that can be attributed directly to the revolutionary disturbances, six; those killed, apparently through motives of robbery, by bandits or others (not including those killed by Indians), ten; those killed by Indians, apparently through motives of robbery or revenge, twelve; those killed from miscellaneous causes and causes not definitely stated, thirty.

Ninety-Two Mexicans Killed.
The total number of Mexicans killed in American territory as a result of border trouble other than those resulting from firing across the border, the report says, in 1913 to 1915 inclusive, was eighty-nine. Mexicans killed in American territory as a result of firing across the international line during engagements in border towns in the same period was three, a total of ninety-two.

Regarding the ability of the de facto government to fulfill its promises to protect the lives and property of Americans in Mexico, Secretary Lansing said in his report that since the promises were given the disturbances along the border had in large measure ceased.

Fall Is Disappointed.
Senator Fall expressed disappointment because the president and secretary of state deemed it to the public interest to withhold some of the information requested.

"The report is about what I expected," he said, "and is of little value. It is only intended to scatter the fire of critics of the administration's Mexican policy."

Senator Fall was particularly disappointed because reports of the Brazilian minister, reports of American consuls and consular representatives were withheld.

Private advice to the war department tell of an alleged plan of Mexicans on the American side of the border, particularly in California and Texas, for an expedition to cross into northern Mexico to embarrass the Carranza government. Major General Funston has been notified to take steps to prevent any violation of American neutrality.

RECRUITING EFFORT FAILS

Gunner's Mate Tries to Get Governor and Fairbanks Into Navy.

Indianapolis, Feb. 12.—Marvin J. Yost, gunner's mate, second class, a member of the navy recruiting station in the federal building, and who is in charge of the forty-seven-millimeter revolving cannon on exhibition at the Murat theater, received the shock of his life Monday night. While on duty explaining all about the cannon, Yost also passed out cards on which were attractive appeals to young men to join the navy.

When two men approached the cannon, Yost immediately handed cards to them and then dwelt on the announcement that "they could travel, see the world, obtain good wages and steady positions." After the men had thanked him for his courtesy, Yost turned to an attaché of the theater and asked who those men were.

"Why, don't you know?" queried the informant in surprise. "You have been talking to Charles W. Fairbanks and Governor Ralston." And when Yost recalled that he had placed emphasis on the fact that they obtain steady steady positions, his heart sank.

HOW BOGGSTOWN SECEDED

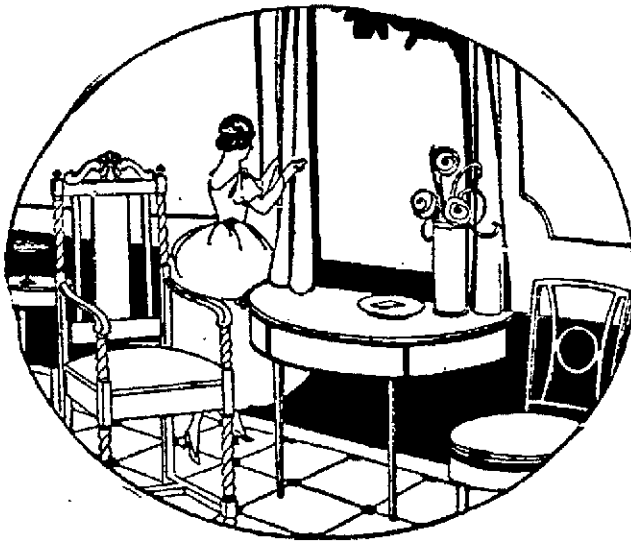

Anniversary Recalls Event in Indiana Town 55 Years Ago.

Shelbyville, Ind., Feb. 12.—Fifty-five years ago, in a small log schoolhouse in Boggstown, Sugar Creek township, resolutions were passed which are said to have been the cause of several states seceding. The famous "Boggstown resolutions" which sought to bind the residents of Sugar Creek township to the cause of the Confederacy and to secession, if it came to that, were passed February 12, 1861. Only three votes were cast against the resolutions.

The resolutions were prepared by a correspondent of a newspaper in Louisville, Ky., who was in Boggstown at that time visiting his uncle, Dr. J. W. Smelser. Dr. Smelser was made a member of the committee on resolutions. Immediately he took from his pocket a set of resolutions that had been prepared before the meeting. After the resolutions had been adopted, the correspondent left for his home in Louisville. Soon afterward a copy of the resolutions was printed in the papers throughout the south. However, after Lincoln had issued his call for volunteers, the people of Sugar Creek township responded quickly on the Union side.

FOLK WHO WRITE AND ILLUSTRATE MAGAZINES ARE STARS IN THE LATEST SILHOUETTE MOVIE.

New York, Feb. 12.—There's some Cobb, Owen and Mrs. Johnson, James Cobb, the cartoonist, induced these notables to go into the movies when they were lured to the Gilbert-Bray studio.

There the authors and artists and their wives or husbands moving in profile across the stage, were thrown into bold relief against a white background, and their movements recorded by a motion picture camera.

Author Cobb acted a brief skit, entitled "Preparedness," with the aid of a toy gun, an American flag and his vast proportions. Illustrator Flagg acted Flagg the Harlequin, since his costume was for something besides exposing his flagstaff figure.

One lady illustrator, wearing one of last summer's silhouette gowns, upon learning she would illustrate herself if she appeared between the spotlights and the curtain, sat down in a corner and not even the moving picture of "In bad the Sailor" could move her.

BLACK CAT IS TOO MUCH FOR FIREBUG

Tenement House Horror in New York Prevented by Fright.

New York, Feb. 12.—Midnight scenes of terror, which caused horror in normal minds, gave an intense pleasure to the twisted mind of one man. His obsession was found the other day to be the explanation of a series of mysterious fires that have terrified scores of Harlem tenement house dwellers recently.

This strange zest for placing many people against whom he held no grudge in danger of death amid flames his own hands started belonged to Edward Putter, an otherwise apparently normal youth, of 946 Columbus avenue.

Although he was hardened to scenes from which most folks shrink in fear, it was the footfall of a black cat that threw him into the panic which resulted in the exposure of his mania.

He had crept into the basement of his own home early in the morning. Upstairs on the tiered floors two dozen families lay sleeping. On the topmost floor, furthest from safety, his own elderly mother and father slept. He soaked the stairs with kerosene, and then treated in the same way a pile of inflammable rubbish in a coal bin.

Then he felt for a match. At this moment came the fateful footfall of that prowling black cat on some loose boards. The youth fled in terror, and as he rushed to the street he came face to face with a policeman.

"A burglar—in the house—frightened me!" he had presence of mind enough to gasp in explanation of his sudden dash from the house; but in his anxiety for plausibility he overstepped himself.

As he told this story Lieut. William Joyce, of the fire prevention bureau of the fire department, had happened along and had listened to him. Joyce went with him and found that preparations for an incendiary fire had been arranged as Putter described.

GOVERNMENT AID IN HOME MAKING

Uncle Sam is Doing Much in the Various Federal Departments.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Numerous government agencies are at work in behalf of homemaking, according to a recent report of home education, prepared by Miss Ellen C. Lombard, of the bureau of education, department of the interior. Besides the bureau of education—which maintains divisions of home education—the bureau of mines, the reclamation service, and the office of Indian affairs, all of the interior department, are doing direct work in education for the home. The treasury department, through its public health service, and the departments of agriculture, labor and commerce, are also promoting homemaking through one or more bureaus or offices.

The reclamation service of the interior department is reaching the women on the projects; it is working for improved conditions in the homes, and it has taken active steps in inaugurating clubs for study purposes. More than 200 clubs have been formed among the project women, every one of the 16 states where the government has reclamation projects being represented. The Reclamation Record, the organ of the reclamation service, has become an important factor in reaching the women on the projects; one entire section of this periodical is given over to project women and their interests.

The Indian office, also under the department of the interior, is carrying on four distinct activities in the promotion of better home conditions: Through the Indian children in school; through the farmer on the farm; through the medical service, and through the work of the field matron. The field matron comes into close contact with the Indian mothers.

She instructs them how to care for themselves and little children; how to give the children proper food. She teaches them how to care for their houses and gives them valuable lessons in the importance of ventilation, sunlight, and cleanliness. She exerts a definite moral influence in advising the mothers.

Homemaking as a problem in the territories and dependencies of the United States has had the attention of the government for some time, and much good work has been done, although there are still sections, especially in the insular dependencies, where a careful study of living conditions and a plan of work for home education are needed.

In Alaska, where the education of natives is under the direction of the department of the interior, every teacher is a social worker and strives in every way possible to promote the physical, moral, and industrial welfare of the natives, adults as well as children. In the native villages the teachers and nurses of the Alaska school service endeavor to establish proper sanitary disposal of garbage, and by giving instruction in sanitary methods of living. Natives are encouraged to replace their huts by neat, well-ventilated houses. In some sections the natives have been taught to raise vegetables, as a healthful addition to the usual diet of fish and meat.

The need of home education in Porto Rico is evidenced by a survey of home conditions recently made by a special investigator for the bureau of education. While much valuable work has already been done by the authorities, there is urgent need for simple instruction in the selection and preparation of proper food, especially for infants. Steps have already been taken to bring the women together in small groups to discuss home problems. To a large extent this work will be directed by the teachers.

In the Philippines such government agencies as the bureau of education, the bureau of health, and the bureau of agriculture, have been actively engaged in improving and building up home life. There is the closest relation between the home and the school. The bureau of education of the Philippines, co-operating with the bureau of agriculture, has been instrumental in the establishment and supervision of thousands of home gardens, while the bureau of health, which has gained an international reputation for its successful efforts to control diseases of the tropics, has distributed circulars regarding epidemics and has in many other ways reached the homes of the people with instruction in preventive health measures.

VESSEY MUST GO TO OHIO.

Governor Honors Requisition for Accused Elwood Man.

Indianapolis, Feb. 13.—Governor Samuel M. Ralston decided late yesterday to honor a requisition for the return of Elmer E. Vessey, a hotel keeper of Elwood, Ind., to Cleveland, O., to answer to a charge of obtaining $7,550 under false pretenses.

Vessey through attorneys made a fight to prevent being turned over to the Ohio authorities. It was urged that the requisition papers did not state an offense and that they were otherwise illegal. Vessey is alleged to have swindled a Cleveland woman by selling her mining stock through misrepresentation.

RAILMEN'S DEMAND MEANS MORE SAFETY

That's the View Taken by

W. J. Lauck of Plea of Employees.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—"It can't be too strongly emphasized that the movement for an eight-hour day has not the object of securing more wages; they want a reasonable working day."

Thus W. J. Lauck, railway expert, summed up the position of the four railroad brotherhoods in their demand for an eight-hour day.

Lauck, statistician of the Firemen's brotherhood in the eastern wage arbitration case of 1913, and represented the engineers and firemen in the western arbitration case of 1914-15. An expert in railway economics, Lauck prepared the case for the men in these arbitrations.

Although not authorized to speak for the brotherhoods in the present demand, which may result in the greatest strike in history, he is familiar with the position of the brotherhoods, and shows the case for arbitration, as now seen, unlikely, he probably would be called as an expert.

"The demand for time and a half for overtime is not for more pay—it is a penalty the men believe will prevent overtime work," he continued. "All this was made clear in the statement recently issued by the executives of the four railway brotherhoods. The railroads cannot attempt to misrepresent the object of the eight-hour movement by saying it is an indirect demand for higher pay."

"The men's demand is also in the interest of the public; it means greater safety in travel."

"The railroads have grossly exaggerated the cost to them of adopting an eight-hour day. More than 57 per cent. of the total railroad mileage of the southeastern states operates now under an eight-hour day in through freight service, and 3 per cent. of the western railroads have now an eight-hour day. The passenger service already has a working day of less than eight hours."

"The yard, local, work train, and irregular freight services are the only branches in which a change would occur."

"And as through freight service constitutes about 42 per cent. of the total freight service, and only 24 per cent. of this is in the west, for example, would be involved, the proportion of the total payroll affected (assuming the most rigid and extreme application of the employees' requests) would be only about 11 per cent."

"Railway labor has constantly grown in productiveness and has cost the railroads less, even when higher rates of pay have been secured for each ton of freight handled. The increased productivity of labor, as well as the immense resources of the railroads which have arisen from the growth of our industries and population, have been dissipated by improper financial management, or capitalized and absorbed by the issue of fictitious securities."

TELLS JUDGE WIFE HOPPED IN CHURCH

Indianapolis Man Came to Conclusion She is Insane.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—His reasons for filing an insanity charge against his wife in Justice Ficus' court was explained at length to Judge Lahr, in juvenile court by Frank Shelton, 317 South Temple avenue, defendant on a child neglect charge.

"I went to the Apostolic Faith church with her on Ohio street, thinking I might join," said Shelton. "After we had been there a little while my wife and the others started hopping up and down and dancing around like I'd never seen in any other church. I was sitting in the corner talking to a beautiful young woman when my wife came up and said to me, 'I'll brain you.' Judge, she ain't right, she needs attention."

"Suppose we give her the whisky you drink," suggested the court.

"But I average 365 days a year and overtime, so you can see I don't drink much," Judge Shelton.

"He came home drunk Christmas and drank another quart of whisky before he went to bed," said Mrs. Shelton. Her husband justified himself on the grounds Christmas comes only once a year. He insisted that his wife needed treatment for her mental condition, saying she was nervous.

"Are you nervous?" Shelton was asked. He had been grinning up at the end of every sentence, bobbing his head out of his collar, like a turtle.

"Sure, I'm married," grinned the defendant.

Mrs. Shelton told the court her husband had been "that way" for eight years.

"Then I think it will take an insanity commission to decide this case," said Judge Lahr. Shelton promised to stop drinking to a "reasonable extent," which he explained meant whisky in the morning, a beer at noon and two beers at night.

"I average 365 days and overtime," "Yes, I know," said the court. "I'm going to continue this case and send you to jail to sober up."

Halibut Fishermen Hard-Working Crew; No Place for a Weakling

Modern Vikings Range the Northwest Banks from Columbia to Kodiak—They Supply 85 Per Cent. of Halibut Used in United States.

By Jack Jungmeyer
Seattle, Wash., Feb. 18.—Men actually glory in hard work there is something fundamentally right about the job.

That's the way the halibut fishermen on the north Pacific perform their task of supplying Uncle Sam's table with sea flesh.

They recognize but one shame and crime—to quit plugging while they have strength to stand.

A harder working crew doesn't live, but—

They are their own boss. They share the profits of the haul.

And they need never be out of work for long.

There lies the secret of their exultation, though their daily stint is often 20 hours in the dory and the icing pens.

These modern Vikings make their own conditions, largely. And they stick with the travels a lifetime, or until the perils of their calling pull them down.

4,000 Are at Work

Over 4,000 of them range the north-west banks, from the Columbia to Kodiak, supply 85 per cent. of the halibut used in the United States.

The commercial side of the industry is told in market reports—65,000,000 pounds taken during 1915, with a return of near $4,000,000 to the men and the vessel owners from the dealers.

But pounds and dollar marks don't tell the story.

The classic of the halibut is written at sea, in dangers and wrecks; in titanic labors; in heroism never chronicled, and in the wonderful team spirit of the 4,000 men who handle the travels.

Power schooners have taken the place of the Yankee sail on the Pacific. And power has set a terrific pace among the halibut catchers.

Each vessel carries from four to ten dories, from which the men, two to every boat, heave the long, many-hooked travel lines and lift them again. Nets, spread in the dories, when filled with fish are hoisted aboard the schooner with a winch.

From 4 o'clock in the morning until past midnight, when on the banks, the dorymen do not rest, save for the call of the cook.

The small boats are dropped over the side while the schooner is under way, and are picked up again at dark in the same way. The day's catch is evicted and packed in ice in the vessel's hold after the men come aboard at night.

Three Hours' Sleep.

For perhaps three hours they sleep like dead men, without even removing their boots. Then the cook's gong again—the cook who is master in the fo'castle.

Until the schooner's fish bunkers are filled—from four to fourteen days—this terrible pace is kept up by the men without being driven.

reach the top of the stairs when flames broke out under him.

"Get out, girls, the place is afire," shouted Heightholm.

This command was the signal for excitement, but young Heightholm maintained his presence of mind and, after blocking the stairway where the young women had attempted to run to safety, told them to follow him to a small wooden fire escape in the rear of the building.

Helps Them Out of the Window.

After prying open the window leading to the escape he assisted each of the eighteen young women over the sill and then ran through the building, where the flames had not yet eaten their way, to see if any persons remained. Satisfied that all of the women had escaped, he then crawled out on the fire escape and reached the ground in safety. All of the women praised the boy for his heroic work. He had gone to the factory in quest of employment.

Stepping directly in front of an automobile bearing the license No. 248, Ed. Edward Baker, 1603 East Wayne street in charge of the poultry department of the Coverdale & Archer store, was knocked down and sustained a dislocation of the left shoulder, abrasions on the face and injuries to both knees. The driver of the car did not report the accident and the police are making an effort to apprehend him. Baker is the father of the boy who was drowned in the Maumee river while skating some weeks ago.

Caused by Explosion.

The fire started from an explosion in the extracting room of the plant. The flames spread so quickly that the factory was a blazing furnace when the fire department arrived. A second alarm was turned in, but the water thrown into the building had little effect.

Eighteen young women were employed on the second floor of the building. They were unaware that the building was on fire until "Bumie" Heightholm, 17 years old, 1415 Milburn street, gave them the alarm. He ran to the stairway leading to the second floor and was just able to

A net filled with grotesque but sweet-fleshed halibut being lifted to a schooner's deck from a dory alongside. Halibut averages 100 pounds weight. Every fish is caught on a hook attached to the long trawl lines.

That, with youth and health and the viking spirit, is momentum enough.

It is no berth for a shirker or a weakling. A drone is a dividend reducer, robbing his dorymates.

The best halibut banks lie up against the Alaskan coast, where storms break furiously; where fog and reef and icy waters spell constant peril.

Sometimes six dories go overside in the morning, and but five are picked up at night. Where or how the ill-fated boat with its two men has disappeared no man will ever know.

The halibut men expect that, accepting it with fatalistic calm. Without these dangers, the men tell me, they would find the life too tame. It's chance and the unknown that lure them.

And the fellow who hesitates or whimpers is a shame to his crew. He's not of the halibut clan. And next trip another sits in his dory.

Business Men's Association to Conduct Campaign in Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—A plan to teach the housewives of this city that they do not get something for nothing when they get premiums with foods they buy, but that they pay full value for the foods and for the premiums, was decided on at the regular meeting of the Indianapolis Business Men's Association at the chamber of commerce.

The educational campaign will be carried on through the newspapers and through the distribution of circulars. Grocers will be urged to take up the matter individually with their customers in an attempt to show that the economical way to buy is to pay for everything that is bought—not buy one article to get possession of something in addition.

The organization is also working for the enactment of a bill before congress which would require a uniform retail price for nationally advertised goods. The business men said that nationally advertised goods which are sold at less than the standard price are merely bait for the unsuspecting housewife who possibly pays more money for other commodities she buys at the same place.

SENT TO INSANE COLONY.

Martinsville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Porter Bond, of Coal City, who killed Melvin Hubble and Hardy Gray here Tuesday, was found guilty of murder and ordered committed to the colony for criminal insane at Michigan City. Bond was found guilty of Hubble's murder yesterday. The charge that he murdered Gray has not been disposed of. When the case came up in the circuit court there was no question except that of the sanity of the slayer involved.

MAIL WILL DROP FROM THE CLOUDS IN UNCLE SAM'S NEW POSTAL SCHEME.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—Conservative Massachusetts has beaten Arizona, California and all the other contestants to it with the first aeroplane mail route!

Neither the Indian agents of the painted desert, nor the placer miners of the southern Sierra will be the first to receive Uncle Sam's well known mail from a regular authorized aviator-mailman.

That honor will fall to the humble fishermen from New Bedford, Mass., two islands off the southern New England coast.

Advertisements have been issued by the government, asking bids for service to the summer islands—which, by the way, are inhabited from June to September by many folk prominent in New York and Boston society.

During the resort season the government intends to deliver mail to the islands twice each week day and once on Sunday. At other times the services will be daily. The mail now goes out by steamboat from New Bedford, Mass., 56 miles from Nantucket.

The government demands a two-hour schedule from New Bedford to Nantucket, including stops at Woods Hole, a peninsular postoffice on the mainland, and Oak Bluffs, on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

Seven airmail routes also are proposed for Alaska, as follows:

Valdez to Fairbanks, 358 miles; Fairbanks to Tanana, 162; Tanana to Kaltag, 361; Kaltag to Nome, 225; Nome to Iditarod, 280; Iditarod to Seward, 380; Seward to Anchorage, 110. A continuous route of 1,896 miles.

It would take 101.2 days to go from Valdez to Anchorage via the government airmail planes under the published schedule.

The present cost of the Nantucket mail service is $23,000 a year; that of the seven Alaska routes, $236,721.

RUMANIA SUPPLYING CEREALS TO BERLIN

Immense Quantities Go to Central Powers Under Contract.

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 25.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Fifty thousand carloads of cereals, or about 10,000,000 hundredweight, go to Germany and Austria from Rumania, as the result of negotiations which have just been terminated. An option for another 50,000 carloads has also been secured by the agents of the central powers. The Rumanian government has sanctioned the transaction, and export begins immediately. A great deal of grain bought by the central powers months ago, but so far unexported for various reasons, will also be moved now. Shipment will be made over every available railroad and on the Danube.

Negotiations were conducted by the Rumanian Grain Sales Commission and the Cereal Council of the German, Austrian and Hungarian governments. The grain consists principally of Indian corn, wheat, barley, beans and lentils. It will be paid for partly in gold, but the greater share of the purchase price will be in German paper currency, marks.

The transaction is remarkable for the fact that for the cost of the cereals the Rumanian government will get a credit on the Deutsche Reichsbank in Berlin, for which the Rumanian National bank will then issue notes, these notes reaching the sellers of the grain.

The foodstuffs so procured will be divided among German and Austria-Hungary as follows: Six cars of each shipment to Germany and five to Austria and Hungary. Cars and means of river transportation will be provided by the central powers.

With another 50,000 cars held on option by the central powers, and with Turkey and Bulgaria also in the market, Rumania disposes of her entire 1915 crop, of which but little had been moved. Available also is still a good share of the 1914 crop which Rumania was not disposed to sell to the central powers last spring and summer, owing to the belief that the Danubian would be forced by the allies. Some of the cereals sold to the allies were moved via Turn-Severin and Kladova, whence they were taken over the Serbian railroads to Saloniki. The conquest of Serbia closed this route.

With no prospect that the 1915 crop could be sold to neutrals or the entire crop, Rumania was obliged to sell to the central powers group, at a price which is said to be very advantageous to the latter. Figures are not available, however. But that the central powers drove a hard bargain is said here to be indicated by the fact that very little gold changes hands, whereas all previous purchases in Rumania by the central powers were made with gold as the only acceptable equivalent.

The transaction was discussed in the Rumanian parliament and was stoutly opposed by the friends of the entente, among them notably Jake Jonescu, Toma Jonescu, Filipescu and Mille. Government members and the grain and landed class interests took the position that Rumania stood in sore need of the revenues to be derived from the sale, these being the only income Rumania has with which to cover imports. Very stormy scenes ensued, but the opposition lost.

Rumania's position is due to her complete isolation from the world's grain consumers. The closing of the Dardanelles left Rumania no other route than that through Serbia, which is now closed also. To the central powers, Rumania would not sell, and what little was bought had to be taken at prohibitive prices to which vast sums in the form of extortion of one sort or another had to be added. It is believed that the present transaction cleans the slate.

Agents of the entente governments were active to prevent the sale, but were defeated by the fact that Russia, the only ally power with whom Rumania now has physical contact and communication, does not have to buy grain in foreign markets.

It costs Great Britain on an average $1,500 a year for each man in regular army at the present time.

HARD FOR PRESIDENT TO GET EXACT TRUTH

What Little Reading He Has Time to Do is Picked Out for Him.

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Wilson asserted in New York that it was by culling the statements of liars he found out the truth about Mexico.

When President Wilson made his assertion he enunciated a general condition which exists at the white house and which has surrounded every president more or less since the beginning of the republic.

A president rarely is able to learn the full truth about conditions at the time the average men learn it. This is true regarding all public matters which do not originate in the white house.

The reason for this condition is: that as soon as a man enters the white house as the chief executive he immediately loses that close contact with his fellow men which he was bound to have in a more or less degree prior to his election.

The instant he assumes his duties he becomes the center of a little world of his own. He has so much to do, so many people to see he has little or no time to read the daily newspapers, and, if he finds time to read a little, his reading is selected and the consequences are he sees only that which is best for him to see from the standpoint of his well wishers.

He rarely ever sees that which is to his political or personal detriment. In other words, he sees only the good things said about him and little of the unfriendly criticism.

What is true of the newspapers is true to a greater degree of his personal interviews with his friends.

No friend of the president will tell him the exact truth regarding any situation unless it is favorable to the president's known viewpoint.

From the day Wilson entered the whitehouse he has had a fight of some kind on his hands. This includes his work with congress, his party's troubles, including Mexico. There have been few days since March 4, 1913, that Wilson has been idle.

Five big daily newspapers are delivered every day at the white house. Twice that number are received each day at the executive offices. It is safe to assert that in the three years Wilson has been president he has not read on any one day two of these five papers, and that not more than 100 times has he been able to read any newspaper.

When he read them he did not do so as he was accustomed to doing prior to entering the white house. Then he read them through, since then he has been able to scan them only.

The biggest untruths are told the president with regard to applicants and candidates for public affairs. Senator A. goes to see the president and he recommends X. He made postmaster somewhere. B. is a candidate too. As soon as the latter learns Senator A. has recommended X. charges immediately are filed against the latter and the friends of B. can not say too many mean things about X. An inspector is sent out to investigate. He makes report favorable to X. More charges are filed and another investigation is made, by another inspector. He probably makes an entirely different report. He probably has seen the same people the first inspector saw and there same people give him an entirely new set of facts. The result is:

The president often has to shut his eyes and take the recommendations of the cabinet officers under whom the particular position belongs. And then Senator A. is displeased. The president has been lied to and he knows it, but has not a ghost of a chance to ascertain the truth.

Very often the president will get two letters at the same time on the same subject and both letters will be radically different in their description of details, which, in actuality, are the same.

In almost every case the cabinet follows and does not advise. This is not any more true of this administration than all others. It was so in Roosevelt's days as president. Root was the only man in the Roosevelt cabinet who had the courage to tell Roosevelt the truth. He did it on several occasions and very forcibly.

President Wilson has begun to find out these facts and this condition. It was this knowledge which led him to accede to the wishes of his friends for a visit to "the folks back home." He will follow this visit with others if he can find the time.

Mrs. Robert Learmonth, of 2922 South Calhoun street, who has been ill for several weeks, has gone to the St. Joseph hospital for a course of treatment, and the family home will be closed for awhile.

Mrs. Edison Fights Too Low Decollete

Friends of the board say the investigation is a Tammany move and is in retaliation for the fight made by Dr. Abraham Flexner, secretary of the board, against the re-election of Thomas W. Churchill as president of the New York board of education. The fight was made on behalf of Mayor Mitchell.

The resolution provides for a committee of two senators and three assemblymen, with an appropriation of $10,000 for its expenses with power "to investigate generally the activities, objects, purposes and accounts of the Rockefeller Foundation, the general education board of such foundation, the public education association connected therewith and all similar bodies."

Senator Boylan said the measure had the support of the state federation of labor.

TEAS ARE MACHINE GUNS OF SOCIAL WAR—HEIRS TO MILLIONS ARE DIVIDED IN BATTLE.

New York, Feb. 13.—Who is to be THE Mrs. Astor?

New York society is trying to decide, while the biggest social battle the New York-Newport-Tuxedo-Palm Beach set has seen in years is being waged with the three Madames Astors central figures.

The opening shot was a ball Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who was Madeline Force, gave last month to let the world know she had laid aside the widow's weeds the sinking of the Titanic brought upon her.

The success of the function opened to her doors closed against "that Force girl" from the day John Jacob Astor finally secured a clergyman to marry them.

HOW U. S. IS MEETING THE MALARIA PROBLEM

Public Health Service is Doing Remarkable Work in War on Malady.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Four per cent of inhabitants of certain sections of the south have malaria. This estimate, based on the reporting of 204,881 cases during 1914, has led the United States Public Health service to give increased attention to the malaria problem, according to the annual report of the surgeon general. Of 13,529 blood specimens examined by government officers during the year, 1,797 showed malarial infection. The infection rate among white persons was above eight per cent, and among colored persons twenty per cent. In two counties in the Yazoo valley, 40 out of every 100 inhabitants presented evidence of the disease.

Striking as the above figures are they are no more remarkable than those relating to the reduction in the incidence of the disease following surveys of the Public Health service at 34 places in nearly every state of the south. In some instances from an incidence of fifteen per cent in 1914, a reduction has been accomplished to less than four or five per cent in 1915.

One of the important scientific discoveries made during the year was in regard to the continuance of the disease from season to season. Over 2,000 Anopheles mosquitoes in malarious districts were dissected, during the early spring months, without finding a single infected insect, and not until May 15, 1915, was the first parasite in the body of a mosquito discovered. The Public Health service, therefore, concludes that mosquitoes in the latitude of the southern states ordinarily do not carry the infection through the winter. This discovery indicates that protection from malaria may be secured by treating human carries with quinine previous to the middle of May, thus preventing any infection from chronic sufferers reaching mosquitoes and being transmitted by them to other persons.

Although quinine remains the best means of treating malaria and is also of marked benefit in preventing infection, the eradication of the disease as a whole rests upon the destruction of the breeding places of Anopheles mosquitoes. The Public Health service, therefore, is urging a definite campaign of draining standing water, the filling of low places, and the regrading and training of streams where malarial mosquitoes breed. The oiling of breeding places, and the stocking of streams with top-feeding minnows, are further recommended. The service also gives advice regarding screening and other preventive measures as a part of the educational campaigns conducted in sections of infected territory.

This study is typical of the scientific investigations which are being carried out by the Public Health service. All of which have a direct bearing on eradicating the disease. The malaria work now includes the collection of morbidity data, malarial surveys, demonstration work, scientific field and laboratory studies, educational campaigns, and special studies of impounded water and drainage projects.

WELL KNOWN BOWSER
MAN HAS RESIGNEDG. A. Townsend Retires
from Management of Advertising.

George A. Townsend, jr., one of the best known men connected with S. F. Bowser & Company, has tendered his resignation as advertising manager of that concern, effective March 3. He does not care to announce his intentions as to future operations now, but it is understood he has under consideration two or three propositions and may select one shortly. For awhile, however, Mr. Townsend will take a much needed rest.

He has been with S. F. Bowser & Company for six years and during his service always had some very important part to take in the advertising and the sales departments. He was the editor of the Bowser Boomer for two or three years in connection with management of the advertising department. Last January he retired from the editorship of the Boomer and was succeeded by Mr. Gallmeyer, formerly the company's manager at the Louisville office. Since that time Mr. Townsend has devoted his entire time to the advertising department, which he has brought to a high state of perfection. He is a member of the Efficiency club and has always taken an active part in its work. In his official capacity as editor of the Boomer and manager of the advertising department, Mr. Townsend came in close touch with the men connected with the business and sales departments and none is more generally popular among these classes and his other associates than he. C. M. Smith, assistant advertising manager, will also retire from the department in March. He has secured a farm in the vicinity of Roanoke on which he will take his family, and hereafter devote his time and energies to farming, a business he was engaged in before he took employment with S. F. Bowser & Company. No successor to Mr. Townsend has been announced, but it is believed the appointment will be made next week.

At the district meeting of the B. L. E. divisions from Huntington, Garrett, Wabash, Van Wert, Lima, Chicago, Toledo, Peru and other places will attend and members of the G. I. A. from the towns named and other railway centers in this part of the country will be at the celebration of Friendship division, No. 18. Division 12, B. L. Instead of meeting on the first, Tuesday and Third Monday of each month, meetings will be held the first and the third Sundays.

AUXILIARY BALL EARLY

Kekionga Division to Give Annual Event Before Easter.

Kekionga division, No. 51, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, will make an innovation in time of giving its annual ball and card party this year. All previous affairs given by the auxiliary, and in fact by most of the other organizations, were staged after Easter. This year, however, Kekionga division will give its fifth annual dance and card party at the Elks Temple Monday evening, March 6, three days before the lent season. The general committee, which is composed of Mrs. W. G. Trout, chairman; Mrs. Charles A. Bowman, Mrs. J. H. Swartz, Mrs. C. T. Matott and Mrs. Olive Current, have taken up the work of arranging for the affair and will soon be able to announce the sub-committees. The program will include a dance, with the best music the city can furnish, and a series of progressive games, with magnificent prizes. The committee on arrangements will prepare for a big attendance—500 or 600 people—and will endeavor to make things pleasant for all their guests.

AN INDOOR PICNIC.

Kekionga Division, No. 51, Plans Novel Entertainment.

Kekionga division, No. 51, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, will give its second indoor picnic at Unity hall tomorrow afternoon and evening. The time has been divided with a view of giving opportunity for all to be present at one part or other of the entertainment. Children will be guests from 2:30 to 4 p. m.; older members from 4 to 5; children again between 5 and 6:30; dinner at 6:30; older members from 7:15 to 8 and children again from 8 to 9. After 9 o'clock cards and dancing will be indulged in. The indoor picnic last year was a most pleasant event and so will be the one tomorrow.

W. C. WIEHE COMING HOME.

A cablegram from Honolulu to the Western Gas Construction company yesterday conveyed the news that W. C. Wiehe had sailed from the island and would arrive in San Francisco February 21 and Fort Wayne about February 25. This message relieved friends and relatives of Mr. Wiehe of a great anxiety, for it was reported that he was one of the passengers on the Italian steamer which struck a mine and went down several weeks ago. Mr. Wiehe is an erector of gas making tanks and machinery for the Western Gas Construction company and last February a year ago, he went to Opon, Macon Island, in the Philippines, to install an immense coconut oil tank and only recently completed the work. The cablegram indicates his safety and brings gladness where sorrow and doubt prevailed for awhile. Fred Wiehe, Pennsylvania boilermaker, is a brother to W. C. Wiehe.

SLIGHT BLAZE AT THE "LIGHTS"

A fire in the annealing department at the General Electric works yesterday caused less than $100 damage, created considerable excitement and resulted in two of the firemen, George Doehla and Philip Weick, being slightly injured by breaking window glass. A short circuit set fire to oily waste, which fell into a car of Japan, used for coating iron. The blaze was fierce for a moment, but was soon extinguished by the company's fire department. Dr. F. J. Schulz attended the injured firemen.

INCREASING FOUNDRY FORCE.

The Bass Foundry and Machine works is taking on molders as rapidly as good men apply for work. He has increased the force of moulder helpers over twenty-five in the past week.

APPRENTICE PAINFULLY HURT.

Leo Schallenberg, an apprentice in the Bass machine shop, sustained a bad cut on one of his knees yesterday, which will disable him for awhile. He was taking measurements inside a tank when he slipped and struck his knee on the sharp edge of the tank steel.

MUCH ARMY GRAFT IS ALLEGED IN RUSSIA

Military Surgeons Accused of Granting Illegal Exemptions.

Feb. 18.—"A Russian newspaper publishes sensational disclosures concerning illegal exemptions from military service," says the Overseas News Service. "The secretary of a recruiting committee at Petrograd and a large number of military surgeons have been charged with having accepted amounts ranging from ten thousand rubles up in each case."

"The Russian press also reports that a Moscow committee for the relief of refugees received 200,000 rubles from the government in December of 1915. The president of the committee, Prince Troubetzkoy, stated later that 200,000 rubles more was sent to the committee in December and 700,000 rubles in January, but that this money never reached its destination. The leakage has not yet been explained."

"This corruption, together with the reactionary policy of the Russian authorities, caused a strong opposition movement among members of the duma. After the downfall of Premier Gorokhin, the new premier, M. Sturmer, attempted to calm the storm by meeting the party leaders individually. Most of these leaders declined to receive him. He then invited the leaders to afternoon teas in order to establish harmonious social relations, but this move was equally unsuccessful, as was demonstrated by the recent convention of the party leaders."

LODGE OUT IN WARNING

Change in Sea Attitude Would Be Unneutral, He Declares.

Senator Cites International Law and Rules as U. S. Guide.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Senator Lodge, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, made a speech in the senate today declaring that abandonment by the United States at this time of the principle that its ports were open to and its citizens free to travel on merchantmen of belligerent nations armed solely for defensive purposes would be an unneutral act and a step toward war. He said it would make the United States the ally of the belligerent whose merchant marine had been swept from the seas.

The senator spoke at length, dwelling upon the history of international law relating to the arming of merchantmen for defense and citing precedents in the record of the United States. He referred to reports that the administration was preparing to change its policy, which have been denied by Secretary Lansing since the issuance of the German and Austrian memorandums announcing their intention to treat armed merchant ships as war vessels, after Feb. 20.

Change Ineffective.

As late as the previous note of May 13, signed by Mr. Bryan, Senator Lodge said, this government recognized that "American citizens were within their undisputed rights in taking their ships and in traveling wherever their legitimate business calls them upon the high seas."

"Such," he added, "has been the practice of all nations in regard to the armed merchantmen. It seems utterly incredible that this position should be in any way altered now and that our government should be ready to surrender the long established rights of American citizens to travel on or ship goods on a belligerent merchantman subject to all the rules which have been established by the courts and by all international authorities for at least two centuries."

Would Be Unneutral.

"The abandonment of these rights by any neutral government on the ground that the invention of submarines with the necessary limitations upon the powers of capture possessed by these boats is inconceivable. Such abandonment could only rest on the grounds that the rights of neutrals, the rules which for centuries have been agreed upon by all nations for the protection of innocent lives upon vessels captured in war, must be thrown aside and discarded in order that a new instrument of maritime destruction must not be impeded in its work of death and murder. Such a doctrine is revolting to every instinct of humanity, to every principle of law and justice."

There is, however, another side to this matter which is of even graver importance. There can be no question that any act by a neutral which alters conditions created by the war is an unneutral act and places the neutral upon the side of one belligerent or the other."

"This is eminently true of any form of embargo, and there is no need that I should repeat the unanswerable argument on this point embodied by Mr. Lansing in his note of last August to the government of Austria-Hungary. The war, and the war alone, has also created conditions under which any change at this time in the attitude which we took officially at the outset of the war in regard to armed merchantmen would be an unneutral act. The merchantmen of one belligerent have been swept from the seas. Therefore if we should abandon all the principles on this subject that we have ever sustained, if we should abandon the rules laid down by Mr. Lansing and declare that our ports were closed to armed merchantmen, or that goods and passengers from the United States could not be placed on uncommissioned merchantmen, armed solely for self defense, our action would affect only one belligerent; it would alter conditions created by the war and would therefore be unneutral. It would make us at once the ally of the belligerent whose merchant marine has been driven from the ocean. It would be a step toward war."

"I cannot believe that the administration thinks for a moment of altering the well defined position which it took at the outset of the European war and I believe that it must stand as firmly on this question as it has on the question of the embargo. Should it act otherwise

New York Police Are Making Effort to Run Down Jean Crones.

Confident Man Who Placed Poison in Banquet Soup is in New York.

New York, Feb. 18.—Believing that Jean Crones, the Chicago chef accused of poisoning the soup at a dinner of Catholic clergymen and laymen in that city in New York city or nearby the police made every effort today to run him down. The authorities think Crones is the author of two letters mailed in this city to the New York Times in which the writer boasts that he has escaped and makes veiled threats.

The identification by John McCort, assistant United States district attorney at Scranton, Pa., of the face-simile of the first Crones letter received here as the handwriting of the man wanted in Chicago stimulated police efforts here. Crones' writing was identified by examination papers he had sent to a correspondence school in Scranton. The second letter apparently signed by Crones received by the New York paper last night contained what purported to be his finger prints. The police are endeavoring to learn by these prints whether Crones had a record in the police bureau of identification.

The Latest Letter.

In this letter the writer attempted to tell in an incoherent manner "why I did it." Many of the words are misspelled as was the case in the previous letter.

The writer asserted that while in Europe millions of Christians are "slaughtering each other in the most bloody massacres, and in these free country thousands of men and women are tramping the streets without food and shelter at the very same time the church holds dinners and pays 15c for each cover which starts with beluga caviar and champagne, the same money which was begard from poor working men and women the same money were the blood of poor workers has run for." "These conditions," the writer continued, "are a scandal. That is the failure of Christianity and an insult to ward honesty and a challenge to humanity. Let the church answer those my charges toward the world and I shall stand for the charges made against me."

"The police makes me laugh. When I was in Buffalo two spies where after me. After a while they went back."

"How foolish is the police; not for two cents brains. Yesterday I was working for an hour around the police headquarters but no one came out and got me. I am glad that the spies from Chicago are coming but I know better at what time to let or go."

CHICAGO EXPECTS ARREST.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Following the publication in New York today of another letter believed to have been written by Jean Crones, former assistant chef at the University club here, police officials looked for Crones' arrest in some eastern city, on a charge of putting poison in the soup served at a banquet given in honor of Archbishop George Mundelein one week ago last night.

The federal operatives here continue their efforts to assist the police in running down reports that the poisoning was the result of an anti-clerical plot of nation-wide proportions. It was learned today that government agents received warning of such a conspiracy more than three months ago. At that time it was reported that anarchistic leaders had been holding secret meetings at Salida, Colo., and had discussed plans for a reign of terror to be created throughout the United States by the destruction of churches and public buildings. It was reported that the $2,500,000 federal building at Denver, Col., was among those marked for destruction.

LOCAL BUSINESS MAN DIES AT CINCINNATI

William C. Klitzke Expires Suddenly at the Age of Forty-eight Years.

William C. Klitzke, a prominent business man of Fort Wayne and president of the Fort Wayne Central league baseball club of 1915, expired suddenly Thursday night at the Jewish hospital in Cincinnati. He had been in failing health for some time but only two weeks ago left the city for treatment and although his many friends and acquaintances were aware of his serious condition, the news of his death came as a great shock. Mr. Klitzke was forty-eight years of age.

Towards the close of the baseball season last summer, Mr. Klitzke was taken ill and his condition seemed to grow worse from time to time. He consulted some of the leading physicians of the country but none seemed to relieve him. Death was due to Bright's disease.

The deceased came to Fort Wayne nine years ago from Hammond and since his residence here became widely known. He was president of the Fort Wayne Dairy company, Fairfield avenue and Baker street, and was also a stockholder in the Fort Wayne Transfer company. The family home is at 449 Brackenridge street.

When the Fort Wayne baseball club was organized last spring, Mr. Klitzke became the principle stockholder and was made president of the company. Only on account of his failing health did he retire from this venture. C. H. Varnell, also a former president of the baseball club, passed away but a few weeks ago from the same disease.

Mr. Klitzke was a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Shrine. He was also a member of the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks. Surviving here leaves the widow, the parents, who live at Hammond, and several brothers.

W. H. W. Pettier left for Cincinnati Friday morning and, with the widow, who has constantly been at his bedside, will accompany the remains to this city.

LABOR COUNCIL WILL MEET ON MARCH 12.

Plans Are Now Under Way for a Mass Meeting to Be Held in Near Future.

A meeting of the newly organized Labor Council, of which Clayton Johnson is president, will be held on Sunday, March 12, according to arrangements completed Wednesday evening at a meeting of the executive committee in Mr. Johnson's office, in Harmony hall, on West Berry street.

Much interest is being taken in the new labor organization, which promises to be of great aid to the Federation of Labor and to the cause of labor in Fort Wayne. Arrangements are now under way for a big labor meeting to be held in the near future at which time a prominent and well known labor leader from a distance will be the principal speaker. It is hoped to hold these meetings at regular intervals, to which the public in general will be invited.

Members of the street car men's union continue to meet every morning in the Buffaloes hall, although there is little business to be transacted. Each member unless employed or ill is expected to report every day. The car men received their weekly pay Friday from the fund provided by the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees and the various local unions of the city. Each man is paid according to whether he is married and, if married, the number dependent upon him. Several of the carmen have secured jobs. Those who are working do not share in the weekly benefits. So far as is known there have been no new efforts to settle the strike since the officials of the company and the federation of labor failed to agree.

ATTEMPTS TO ENTER HER BURNING HOUSE

Mrs. Anna Dornte Wanted to Save Fox Terrier Dog and Diamonds.

In an effort to save her little fox terrier and diamonds, Mrs. Anna Dornte made three attempts to rush into her burning home at Beechwood avenue and Sheridan street, early Friday morning, and was prevented each time by firemen and policemen. The house was a mass of flames and she would have doubtless perished had she succeeded in her attempts. The last time she was caught within a foot of the door by Stationmaster Fred Fry and though she resisted she was carried to safety.

The fire gained rapid headway, the firemen being helpless as the house was out of water reach. A greater part of the household goods were saved. The fire was discovered about 12 o'clock. Mrs. Dornte and Hays Linvill, of Columbia City, were in the living room listening to a victrola when they heard a noise at the rear of the house. Stopping the music Mr. Linvill went to the back door to investigate and found the summer kitchen on fire. An alarm had already been turned in by neighbors who had seen the blaze before the occupants of the house knew of it.

Mrs. Dornte believes that the fire was of incendiary origin. To her certain knowledge there had been no fire in the summer kitchen for months. Shortly before 12 o'clock she says she went to the back yard and when she started back to the house she thought she heard some one following her. She told her suspicions to Mr. Linvill, who looked all around but could see or hear nothing.

Mrs. Dornte believes she has had more than her share of misfortunes. Her children have all died and last summer her husband passed away. For months she has been in extremely poor health and has undergone several operations. Her house was fully insured.

PLEA FOR HOSPITAL FOR RUSSIAN ARMY

New York, Feb. 18.—An appeal was issued here today by the American hospital and ambulance in Russia, for $225,000 for the equipment of a hospital for the Russian army.

Among the signers to the appeal are Robert L. Bacon, Nicholas Murray Butler, Robert McCormick, Alton B. Parker and Theodore Roosevelt, jr. The signers declare that an unfortunate impression exists in Russia that the people of the United States are unfriendly toward the Russians. It is asserted that this impression is largely due to the substantial aid given to the wounded of all other belligerent countries while "next to nothing has been given to Russia, the historical friend of the United States."

A CERTAIN parable deals with a man who gave to each of his three servants a certain number of talents. Upon his return from a long voyage he summoned the three to account for their stewardship of his money. The first, who received five talents from his master, had improved his time and was able to return ten when called to account, and likewise the second, who had been given two talents, had doubled his sum. And the master was pleased with their progress and put them in charge of much greater affairs. But the third returned the one talent he had received without any addition to it, giving as his excuse that he feared to lose the talent and so had hidden it beneath a tree for safe keeping till his master's return.

The master was much vexed with him and bade his retainers take away the one talent from the slothful servant, who knew not how to increase it, and give it to the one with the ten talents, "for," quoth he, "unto every one that hath shall be given, but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath."

There is a lesson for each and every one of us hidden away in this parable, for we all have talents of one kind or another, and how many of us improve them?

How many of us can count ourselves in the ranks of the faithful servants who returned their talents doubled in value to the master who had bestowed them? Not many, it is to be feared. No, most of us come rather under the head of the slothful servant, from whom was taken even that which he had. Most of us neglect and abuse our talents instead of training them to the utmost.

We cannot all be musicians, artists, writers or dramatists. But if we look well into our natures we will find the talent which the great Master allotted to us when the distribution of talents was made among His servants. It is our duty to train it to the utmost, so that when the day comes when accounts are called we may be able to point with pride to what we have achieved with that talent given us.

Are you striving to make the most of your talent or are you letting it lie useless and neglected? Or perhaps you have not yet discovered just what talent is yours. Do not think just because you are not a musician, not an artist, not a linguist and not a writer, that you have been forgotten when the talents were given out.

You may have a talent for cooking, for sewing or for nursing. Or your talent may consist of making a home comfortable. Or you may have a particular gift for cheering others or for peace making. "Seek and you will find" your talent, and when you have found it make the most of it. Every talent should be trained.

CARE OF THE HAIR

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

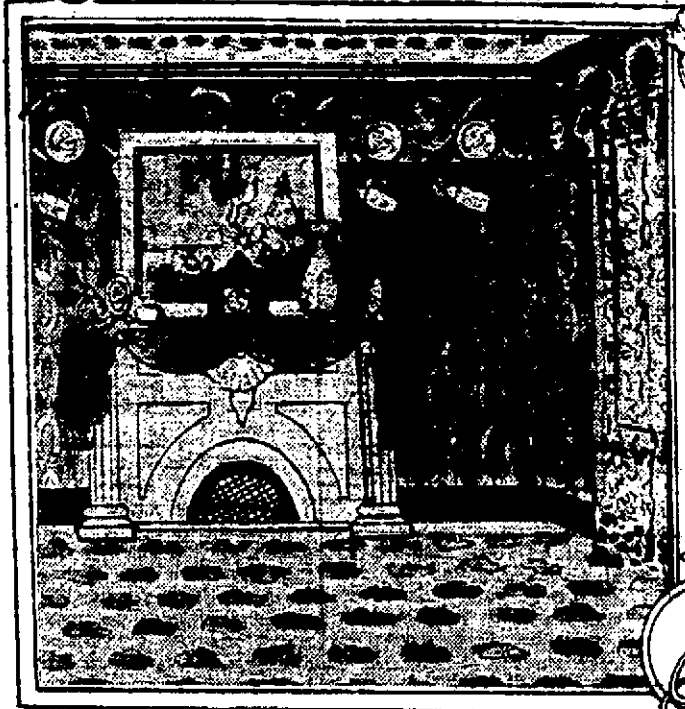

ALTHOUGH it may not be possible or indeed desirable for every woman to have tresses of Godiva-like abundance, it is within the power of almost everybody to have a fine head of hair, or to possess what looks like one, whether her locks are long or short, thick or thin, dry or oily, dark, fair or just mid-brown. The whole secret lies in the state of the health and the daily care of the hair.

If the hair is in an impoverished condition, abnormally greasy or abnormally dry, showing a tendency to become brittle and break off short; if it loses its color and bulk then it is no good in beginning any hair treatment without first attending to the general state of the hair.

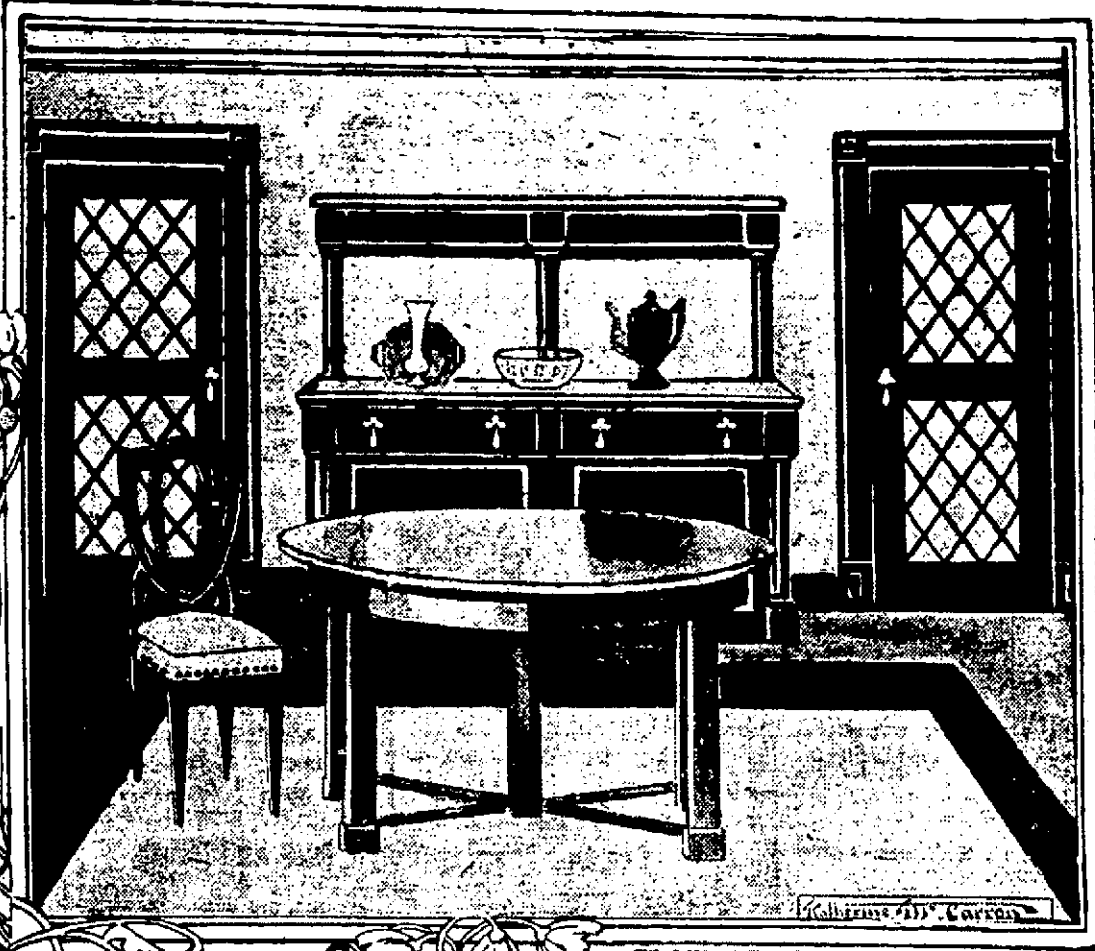

One should take sufficient exercise and rest and correct any indiscretions in diet. Where an anemic condition exists a tonic often does wonders, so will a course of cod liver oil, while raw eggs and unboiled milk are articles of diet which directly beautify the hair. As to the general care of the hair it should be washed as often as it requires cleaning. Once a week is not too often for a very oily type of hair, and about once in three weeks is a good average for ordinary hair.

If it is washed at home liquid soap is the best thing to use. The hair should be thoroughly wetted with warm water, then a handful of the liquid rubbed in. If it does not lather at once use a little more water and a little more liquid till the whole head is in a perfect foam; rinse out the lather very thoroughly, take the worst of the moisture off with hot towels, and dry by brushing and fanning. Do not on any account seek to dry it by the fire.

The daily care of the hair is most important. It should be well brushed every night, the scalp being first of all treated with a rather hard brush to stimulate the circulation, and the long hair afterward brushed with long, sweeping strokes, two brushes with rather long, stiff bristles being used. This is to keep the hair clean and give it a natural gloss.

A CORNER IN THE DINING-ROOM IN ITS ORIGINAL STATE

THE CORNER AFTER THE RENOVATION WAS DELIGHTFUL

WHY DO WE CONCEAL AGE? Sooner or Later Time is Certain to Bring Out the Telltale Marks.

OF course women lie about their ages," said my friend.

"'Twas ever a failing of the weaker sex," I commented. "So do men," she supplemented. "I could name more than one man who dyes his hair and confesses to ten years less than his birth certificate would show."

"True—some men are vain," I sighed.

"Some, did you say?" she queried. "They're all vain. For Simon pure vanity, a woman can't compare with a man. Every man is proud of his shape, if nothing else. He believes what his tailor tells him. A man's vanity is of the hard-shell variety—you can't crack it. His fellowmen don't try, either. Men don't comment upon each other's personal points, as women do among themselves. Women have a way of pointing out other women's deficiencies to their faces, which takes off some of the shine of their vanity."

"What men dub vanity in women is in most cases plain good business. A woman knows that a lot of her success, in whatever her walk of life, depends upon her appearance. Therefore she cultivates as pleasing an appearance as possible. She takes the same pains with her personality, if she is wise. And she lies about her age for the same reason."

"I know several school teachers this minute who are down on the records as several years younger than they really are. One would expect gray hairs and middle age to be assets in the schoolroom, if anywhere. Yet the solemn fact is that there is a constant effort to push out the teachers who are pretty well along in years. The general idea is that it is time for them to retire and give the younger ones a chance."

"I know a woman doctor who became prematurely gray and who was losing out in her practice because she was considered superannuated and a younger, more up-to-date physician was desired. She dyed her hair, and is one of the most popular women doctors in town today."

"I know a lot of women in business who are still considered young women and whose ages would startle you if you ever found them out. They are valuable in their business connections, but if they didn't lie about their years they would not receive the same consideration or the same salary. 'Old ones' aren't wanted. There is an inherent disrespect somewhere in the masculine get-up for a woman over forty, especially when she works for a living. The idea is, I suppose, that she ought to be a grandmother and ready for the shelf by that time."

"But even the married woman isn't always allowed to grow old in comfort. Very often, when a woman is married, she is as old or older than the man who marries her. She never dares to admit it when he is court-shiping her, for fear of nipping the romance in the bud. So she keeps up the lie the rest of her life—and it's no easy job."

"There are men, too, who insist upon their wives keeping young looking. I know one man near the sixty mark who wears the most marvelous toupee you ever saw—you'd swear the hair grew on his head. He admits to forty-nine years of his age. His wife is about fifty, but he wants her to stay young looking because folks might think he is old if she looks old. So he commanded her to dye her hair when it began to turn gray, and go through other stunts for the preservation of an appearance of youth. The other day she told me she was tired to death and had a notion to quit the struggle and be comfortably old in spite of her husband's vanity."

A UNIQUELY ARRANGED BEDROOM

HOW TO ENTERTAIN IN AN INEXPENSIVE WAY

BY ANNETTE ANGERT.

ENTERTAINING to the woman of moderate means is rather a problem. To entertain elaborately and in large numbers means the expenditure of much money. To entertain even simply requires more expense than the average housewife likes to meet. Yet if she accepts the hospitality of others, she must do something in return. But for the woman with a small apartment and only one maid it is rather hard to find a way to entertain her friends nicely.

A popular form which entertainment has taken in the last season is the informal dance. The music of a phonograph takes the place of an orchestra, rugs are rolled up, furniture pushed back into the corners, and light refreshments are served in the place of the regular dance-supper. But even this is impossible for the hostess whose apartment is too small for dancing.

What, then, can the woman of limited purse and small home offer her friends, in return for their hospitality to her? Perhaps one of the most satisfactory ways of entertaining them is at afternoon tea, not a formal "at home" with a receiving line, etc., but an informal, jolly affair which every one will enjoy but which will not cost much.

For such a tea the hostess should send out little notes to her friends worded informally—"Won't you come in and have tea with me Friday?" or "I'm having a few friends to tea Friday and would love to have you with us," or something of this sort. If the apartment is arranged so that the dining room opens out of the parlor, the hostess can use the dining table for her tea things.

A few flowers will make the rooms look fresh and sweet and are the only addition needed. The dining table should be bare, with a doily and a bowl of flowers in the center. Small plate doilies around the table should hold the plates of sandwiches, cake, etc. At one end of the table the tea and chocolate sets should be grouped, on the right hand of the hostess, the whipped cream, sugar, lemon, etc., and the cups on the left, so that the pouring will be made easy. Two or three kinds of sandwiches, a layer cake and assorted little cakes, simple candies and a few shelled nuts make up a delicious and not too expensive menu to go with the chocolate and tea. For the sandwiches, cream cheese and minced pecans are a luscious filling; a good jelly or jam will do for the second variety and perhaps lettuce or cucumber for the third.

MUSTARD BATHS

THE growing use of mustard in the bath tub is a modern adaptation of one principle that mustard is one of the most valuable external stimulants. To those who have not tried it the result is really surprising. Take a tablespoonful of best mustard and add to the bath when filled. The water will be found to be of a slightly yellow-green color and absolutely free from any stinging or smarting sensation. In fact, it has a soft, velvety feeling almost like milk, but with a glowing warmth that is appreciated by the most delicate skin. Under its influence sore and stiff joints become limber and elastic and the whole body experiences a sense of exhilaration that is scarcely credible. The mustard bath is already a favorite with those engaged in arduous sports and equally so with society women, who find in it a refreshing antidote to the fatigue of functions, and a charming way of keeping in that healthy condition so conducive to beauty.

THE KITCHEN

Molasses Candy.

Perhaps you may like this way of making molasses candy: Two cups molasses, one cup sugar, one tablespoon glycerine, half teaspoon soda and three tablespoons butter. Boil to the hard ball degree when tested in water, stir in the soda, and when cooled pull until white as desired. Draw out into sticks and cut into inch lengths.

Caramel Ice Cream.

One pint milk, one cup sugar, one-quarter cup flour, two eggs, beat all together; one cup sugar browned by placing over the fire, when it is melted and browned (be careful not to burn) pour the mixture over it (it will harden, but place over the fire and stir until smooth), when cold add one pint of cream and two teaspoons vanilla.

Lemon Ice.

One quart of water, one tablespoon cornstarch. Boil till all taste of starch is gone. Add the lemon, two large lemons to a quart. Sweeten to taste when the mixture is cold and leave the rind in for a while. Strain through a sieve and freeze.

Dutch Dumplings for Chicken Soup. Three large potatoes mashed, one tablespoon of butter, three eggs beaten light, one cup of sweet milk, half teaspoon of salt and flour to make a batter stiff enough to drop from the spoon into the boiling broth. Cover slowly and let cook for 20 minutes without raising the lid.

Sour-Milk Biscuit.

One quart flour, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, half a teaspoon salt, scant teaspoon soda, two spoonfuls of melted lard, sour milk to make a soft dough.

Cracker Tarts.

Split common crackers in halves and soak them in cold water, about five minutes. Drain water off and put one-third of a teaspoon of butter on center of each half. Bake in hot oven until nicely browned; then put a teaspoon of raspberry jam (or any kind of jelly) in the center of each.

Prepare a dressing of eggs, salt, red and black pepper. Use two eggs to 25 oysters. Thoroughly mix the seasoning. Dry the oysters in a napkin and place them in the mixture. Take out one at a time and dip in cracker crumbs. Have crumbs very fine. They can be fried or broiled. Rub the broiling iron while hot with vinegar to keep oysters from sticking.

Lemon Sponge Pie. One cup sugar, one-quarter cup of butter, creamed, two heaping teaspoons of flour, pinch of salt, juice and grated rind of one lemon, two well beaten egg yolks, one cup of sweet milk, and lastly the well beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in one crust. This is a firm lemon jelly on the bottom and a sponge cake on top. Bake day before needed and cover top with whipped cream.

Walnut Raisin Cake. Two eggs, one cup of sugar, half cup of butter, half cup of milk, two cups of flour, one teaspoon of cream of tartar, half teaspoon of soda, pinch of salt, cup of chopped raisins, one cup of chopped walnuts. Soften the butter, then cream it with the sugar; beat the eggs, then add them to butter and sugar, then add rest in order named. Flour the raisins and nuts lightly. Beat hard until it looks foamy, then turn into mold. Serve with whipped cream or with cold custard.

Fruit Cake. Three cups sugar, four eggs, one and a half cups melted butter, 1 cup sweet milk, one and a half cups molasses, one pound each of raisins, currants, figs and citron, running these through a food grinder, one teaspoon cloves, four teaspoons cinnamon, one nutmeg grated, seven cups flour sifted four times, one teaspoon soda, half teaspoon salt. Bake three hours and a half, leaving oven door open first five and last 20 minutes. Make two medium-sized loaves.

Boston Cream Pudding. Dissolve half box of gelatine (not phosphated) in a quart of milk by letting it soak from 10 minutes to an hour—according to the kind of gelatine. Then put on stove in double-boiler and when hot stir in the well-beaten yolks of three eggs, mixed with a cup of sugar and a little milk. Cook until a little thick—about five minutes—let cook just a little then stir in the three egg-whites beaten to a stiff froth with a tablespoon of confectioner's sugar and one tablespoon of vanilla. Beat hard until it looks foamy, then turn into mold. Serve with whipped cream or with cold custard.

ODDS ENDS

TO remove stains from a tiled hearth, squeeze a little lemon juice over the stain, leave for twenty minutes, then with a cloth dampened with a little warm water, wipe off the lemon juice. This will generally remove the stain; if not, repeat the process. Polish afterward with a soft cloth.

ABSOLUTE cleanliness should maintain throughout the sick room. If possible, there should be no carpeting upon the floor other than a rug or two, so that it may be wiped every day with a damp cloth. Sweeping is obviously impossible. No dust or litter of any kind should be allowed to collect anywhere. Every furnishing that is not necessary for use and comfort should be removed from the room. No array of medicine bottles and sick-room paraphernalia should be in view.

EVERY substantial and attractive bureau scarf can be made out of a hemstitched linen towel which has a good border design. The figures of the border can be outlined with mercerized embroidery wash silk, using French knots in some of the figures and darning stitches, and long and short stitches in others. The towels which have a design of large flowers on the border will look especially well when they are embroidered in this way.

DR. HUTCHINSON preaches the doctrine of rest and believes that "pleasure is nature's stamp of approval." If one feels like running, jumping, shouting or otherwise exercising, that is the thing to do; but if there is no spirit in one, the thing to do is to sit down in the fresh air and rest until the tired muscles have recovered themselves. Learn to be idle when the body is tired, and while you think you are doing nothing thousands of cells are busily at work repairing the wastes of office or shop. Sit still and "invite your soul" and you will be the better for it, rather than forcing yourself to exercise that you do not need.

THERE is a clever little wardrobe which is home-made, though the "man of the house" was responsible for the idea and manufacture of something decidedly handy in which to keep the children's clothes. In the first place the box is a large wooden one purchased at a store, and stood on end with an open front finished with a curtain. The box is lined with pink muslin and covered with cream and pink cretonne. In the center of the box is a revolving rod, such as is seen at bookcases, and the little garments are hung on this by means of dress hooks which are fastened to the rods. If a garment is in the back of the box, merely turn the wheel and it is in front. Of the many household contrivances nothing is more practical than this handy box in a very tiny little house.

WHEN buying table linen, cut off a small strip of it and keep, so that the unraveled thread may be used for darning the tablecloths or napkins when worn. In this way a mend can be made almost indiscernible. Curtains can be darned finely with the same.

SO many bits of needlework are finished with scalloped edges that it is well to be able to mark the outline for this edge without going to the trouble and expense of sending the material to be stamped. This may be done easily with a thimble. Place the thimble on the material and with a sharp pencil draw around the edge half way. This will make the scallop; slip the thimble along and repeat.

A USEFUL wet weather hat which would always look well with trim tailor-made coats and skirts is carried out in series straw, arranged in a mixture of pedal and ligero and designed on lines that will be found very generally becoming. The crown is almost entirely hidden under a full ruche composed of a number of loops of dark navy blue ribbon, set closely together. This hat would look well if it were made in two colors to match the gowns with which it will be worn. In black straw, with white moire ribbon, it would make a delightful little hat for half-mourning, while in black or navy Tagel it would be very generally useful. If it were trimmed with loops of satin ribbon to match the straw.

PASTE that will keep: Dissolve a teaspoonful of alum in a quart of water. When cold, stir in flour to give it the consistency of thick cream, being particular to beat up all the lumps. Stir in as much powdered resin as will lie on a dime and throw in half a dozen cloves to give it a pleasant odor. Have on the fire a teacupful of boiling water; pour the flour mixture into it, stirring well all the time. In a few minutes it will be of the consistency of molasses. Pour it into an earthen or china vessel, let it cool and stir in a small teaspoonful each of oil of cloves and of sassafras; lay a cover on and put in a cool place. When needed for use take out a portion and soften it with warm water. This is a fine paste to use to stiffen embroidery.

DEATH FOLLOWS AN EXTENDED ILLNESS

Simon A. Davidson Answers Final Call at the Age of 62 Years.

Following an illness which extended over a prolonged period, Simon Andrew Davidson, well known butcher of Fort Wayne, passed away at the family home, 2210 Smith street, at 11:20 o'clock Thursday night. Death came at the age of 62 years, and was not unexpected as his condition had been critical for several weeks. In an effort to save his life a surgical operation was performed seven weeks ago but only gave temporary relief. Death was due to stomach trouble.

Born in Hanover county, Ohio, he came to Fort Wayne when a very young man. A short time after his marriage he moved to Pittsburg, Kansas, where he remained until fifteen years ago, when he moved back to this city. The deceased was the son of Andrew A. and Barbara Davidson, pioneer settlers of Hancock county, Ohio. As a member of Calvary U. B. congregation he was very active in church affairs. Besides the widow he is survived by four children—Clifford C., of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Henry Brandt and Misses Emma and Hazel Davidson, all of this city; one grand-daughter, Lucile Davidson; three sisters, Mrs. John W. Snyder, Mrs. Lawrence Springer, of this city, and Mrs. A. O. Halley, of Poe. Two sisters preceded him in death.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence and at 2:30 at Calvary U. B. church, Rev. J. W. Borkert officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

The following pall-bearers were selected: Charles Kiraofe, Henry J. Neasel, George Ertle, D. Brandt, Herd and C. M. Menefee.

SCHUSTER.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schuster, aged 81 years, died at 12:10 o'clock Friday afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Henry, 639 Hendricks street, following an illness of several weeks. She had been a resident of this city for three years coming here from Canton, Ohio, where she had resided for 60 years.

The deceased was born in Germany but came to this country when she was eighteen years of age. While residing in Canton she was a member of the St. John's Catholic church and of the Rosary society and the Sacred Heart league of the same congregation. Since leaving here she was a member of the Cathedral congregation.

She is survived by three daughters Mrs. Charles Henry of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Alice Baker and Mrs. Frank Balloun, of Canton; one son, Charles Schuster, of Canton; twenty-five grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

The body will be shipped to Canton, Ohio, for services and burial Saturday night by Getz and Cahill.

FLAUGH.

Clarence H. Flaugh, aged nine months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Flaugh, of Washington township, residing five miles west of the city died at the family home at 11:45 o'clock Thursday evening. The parents, three brothers and two sisters survive.

BRIDGE SPAN OUT OF QUESTION NOW

Track Elevation at Coombs Street Will Blockade River Way.

While the board of works is quite ready and willing to take up with the county commissioners the question of building an additional span on the south end of the Coombs street bridge, as provided in the bond prevention plans prepared by Special Engineer A. W. Grosvenor, it is recognized that there is a great occasion for haste in urging the matter. When, within a few weeks, the Nickel Plate railroad begins to make a five-foot raise of its tracks to make a clearance for the subway at Coombs street, where the grades are to be separated, the Coombs street bridge will be entirely shut off from traffic for a time. There is no other way by which to approach the bridge. Track elevation work will require several months for completion and after that the additional span to the bridge and the approach, which the commissioners have asked the board to provide, may be constructed. Councilman A. H. Keller, of the Eighth ward, appeared before the board of works Thursday night to request that the board urge upon the county commissioners early attention to the construction of the proposed span. The board promised to write to the commissioners at once.

PETITIONS FOR SIDEWALKS.

The board of works Thursday evening received petitions from resident property owners for the following sidewalks: On John street, Clighton avenue to Pontiac; on the east side of South Wayne avenue, Branning to Corgan; on Pope avenue, St. Mary's river to the bridge. Property owners petitioned for the paving of Colerick street, Oliver to Hanna. A street lamp was ordered erected at Spring and Andrews streets and petitions for lights at Fourth and Andrews and Eckart and Plaza drive were referred to Lighting Superintendent Frank Dix.

WAITING FOR WEATHER.

The board of works is playing a waiting game against the weather man for an opportunity to begin the work of constructing the approaches to the new Harrison street bridge. The work will be pushed with all speed when it is once under way. The bridge itself is completed and will be opened to traffic whenever the approaches are finished.

DEPUTY CLERK HAS HEIR.

Deputy City Clerk and Mrs. Leroy J. Swartz, 2428 Smith street, are the parents of a little daughter who arrived Thursday night. Deputy Swartz has indicated generous intentions toward his conferees in the city hall.

SEWER RESOLUTION NOT UP.

Because the city engineering department was not yet quite ready to submit the resolution for the construction of a main sewer in the Spy run district, that matter did not come before the board of works Thursday evening, as was expected. The resolution will be submitted within a short time and adopted.

CONFER ON JITNEY DAMAGE.

City Attorney Guy Colerick and Attorney E. M. Hulise had a conference Thursday respecting the damage wrought to the jitney automobile of E. B. Snell that went into Spy Run when the approach to the bridge collapsed under the machine the night of Jan. 12 and threw it into the flood, where it remained until a few days ago. It was agreed by City Attorney Colerick and Attorney Hulise, who represents Snell, that the machine should be thoroughly gone over by experts at the No. 1 fire engine house to ascertain the extent of damage to the automobile's machinery. The agreement is made without admissions or prejudice as respects either side and the question of damages will be considered later.

COAL BIDS SUBMITTED.

Twelve companies, a number of them in Fort Wayne, submitted twenty-four proposals to the board of works and the city lighting department, Thursday afternoon for furnishing 12,000 or more tons of coal for the power plant. The bids

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Sympathy with higher prices at Liverpool brought about an advance today in the wheat market here, it being reported that offerings in Great Britain were exceedingly small and reserves dangerously low. Complaints regarding the condition of the domestic winter crop tended further to give an advantage to the bulls. After opening a shade off to 4¢ up the market receded a little, but then rose all around to well above yesterday's finish. Initial prices for May were 125 to 129¢, and for July 112 1/2 to 113 1/2¢.
Prices closed firm, 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ net higher, with May 112 1/2¢ and July 112 1/2¢.
The close was unsettled at 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ net advance.
Oats had the same action as corn. Trade was mainly of a local character. Some strength developed in provisions despite lower prices on hogs. There seemed to be an absence of any pressure on the selling side.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.
New York, Feb. 13.—More steadiness was shown at the outset of today's trading than at any recent session, gains predominating in most parts of the active list. U. S. Steel, Crucible Steel, Pressed Steel Car, Industrial Alcohol and Mexican Petroleum rose appreciably over yesterday's final quotations but rails were irregular. Much of this advantage was forfeited before the end of the half hour.

The reversal of the first hour was precipitated by the heaviness of motor shares, Studebaker, Baldwin Locomotive, New York Airbrake and Petroleum, in which recessions extended from 1½ to 5 points. General Motors being the chief sufferer. Meanwhile copper made further upward progress and rails, under lead of Reading, manifested a better tendency. Marine preferred, United Fruit, Sugars and American Tobacco also rose one ½ points. Following its usual course, the market became dull with the approach of midday and prices were again shaded on further offerings of war issues and specialties. Bonds were steady.

Northern Indiana Fails to Figure in Meeting of Moose Committee.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18.—At a meeting of the progressive state committee held in the state headquarters in the Lemcke building yesterday district chairmen and other party leaders brought reports of existing conditions in their localities that indicate much interest is being manifested in the party's candidates.

Considerable routine business was transacted, including the fixing of dates for the reorganization of the state and district committees and the election of county chairmen. A resolution praising Albert J. Beveridge and declaring that the principles for which he fought while a United States senator from Indiana are now being enacted into laws was adopted unanimously.

Under the provisions of the primary law the precinct committeemen who are chosen at the primaries on March 7 will meet on the following Saturday, March 11, and elect county chairmen. The state committee will instruct the county chairmen to meet on March 18 for the selection of district chairmen, and on March 30 the district chairmen, comprising the state central committee, will meet in Indianapolis for the election of a state chairman. These dates were fixed by the committee yesterday.

Beveridge is Praised.
The resolution praising Mr. Beveridge was introduced by Lewis McNutt, of Brazil, chairman of the Fifth district. It reads as follows:

"The state committee of the progressive party assembled points with pride to Indiana's favorite son, and one of the nation's greatest statesmen, Albert J. Beveridge.
"When time writes its unbiased history, Indiana will point with pride to this big-hearted, unselfish statesman, who has given so much of his life for the benefit and welfare of others. It is with great pleasure we note that the things he made such great sacrifices for and fought so valiantly for bid fair to be included in the national statutes, namely, a law for the prevention of child labor and the tariff commission. So popular has become the demand that these are practically no longer political issues as far as substance goes, and we will all point with pride to Morton, Harrison and Beveridge.
"We ask the nation at this crisis to consider well the qualifications of Indiana's favorite son, a student and a man of conservative yet decisive judgment that commands the confidence of those of other political faith. It is the consensus of this committee assembled that they desire to voice their confidence and show their loyalty to one of the nation's greatest characters, Albert J. Beveridge."

Only Two Chairmen Absent.
All of the districts were represented except the Twelfth and Thirteenth and the chairmen in those districts sent word that on account of personal business they could not attend. Those who were at the meeting were: W. E. McElerry, Princeton; John N. Dyer, Vincennes; William Wallace Wiley, Brookly; William A. Pierson, New Albany; Dr. J. B. Stalker, Borden; Will H. Newsom, Elizabethtown; Lewis McNutt, Brazil; H. T. Roberts, Greenfield; Earl Crawford, Milton; George R. Carter, Connersville; Frank J. Doudican, W. D. Headrick, Elias D. Salisbury, Thomas A. Daily and Clarence R. Martin, Indianapolis; Carl Thompson, Winchester; William Holton Dye, Noblesville; J. W. Wheeler, Attica; Dr. G. R. Coffin, Monticello; John W. Harvey, Lafayette; Lyman H. Jackson, Huntington, and Cornelius McGreevey, Logansport.

The committee modified its rules concerning proxies in the provisions of the primary election law. Under the primary law no alternate delegates are elected to the convention and the rules of the committee in the future will provide for the transfer of credentials by delegates who are unable to attend the convention, the transfer to be approved by the county chairmen.

ETHEL BARRYMORE PAYS THE SKIPPER

His Vigorous Expletives Relieve Feelings of Noted Actress.

Boston, Feb. 18.—Twenty dollars for a rousing American cuss word! That's the price Ethel Barrymore paid as bounty for a Yankee ballplayer's tongue-lashing of the steamer Deutschland's captain.

The reward was spontaneous, and came when the liner ran down the schooner Harry G. French in a fog off the Nantuxet shore.

Ethel Barrymore

The impact and roused the actress, on her way back from London, and she came on deck just in time to hear the outraged skipper firing a verbal broadside at the Deutschland's master.

"You blankety-blank blank of a blank, what do you mean by running us down!" came the aggrieved roar, as the liner stood by picking up the schooner's crew.

"Hurrah! Fine!" applauded Ethel Barrymore, congratulating the skipper for his discerning use of American expletives.

"Here's $20, and over yonder is the bar—go and warm yourself up a bit." And the skipper, mollified, obeyed the command instantly.

Si Henderson, a Maine statesman, who got in on the $20 as a member of the wrecked crew, has rescued the story from oblivion.

SHE IS LONDON'S PROUDEST WOMAN

How Mrs. Crooks Takes Care of Her Noted Husband.

By Mary Boyle O'Reilly
London, Eng., Feb. 18.—The proudest woman in London, Mrs. Will Crooks, lives in a little house on Gough street, Poplar, East End, not far from White-chapel district. The king has called Will Crooks, champion of labor and member of parliament, to his privy council, an unparalleled distinction.

Mrs. Crooks bade me welcome and led the way into the new privy councillor's workroom. On a big desk littered with documents and letters lay the photographs of two women, "Mother," and another, much older.

"It's strange, how the goodness fortune guides a man," said Will Crooks, P. C.

"Yesterday, when mother here was opening my letters (you see how she has me trained), she asks, 'Will, what is it to be a P. C.?'"

"Why a member of the king's privy council," I told her, "why do you want to know? Then, woman-like, she fell to crying. And that was how I first knew."

"Man alive!" admonished Mrs. Crooks, "will you look at the clock and be off. First, settle your tie. Show me, have you brushed your hat?"

"The good," warned Mrs. Crooks and smiled as she watched him away. Then her glance met mine.

"The man who imagines himself his own master has a deal to learn," observed the boss of the "Boss of Poplar."

"Will was secretary of his union when we married. One week taught me what lay before us. My man had a good brain and a good trade, but he was no saver."

"And the want of ready money is the root of most worry in this world."

"Well, I took his money in hand. I studied what he wished to be, and saw that he looked the part. There's more 'luck' in a well-brushed suit than a slack woman is likely to think."

"Nothing proceeds like prosperity," say I.

"Soon Will was president of a federation, next mayor of the borough, then a member of parliament. And now—"

"the proudest woman in London looked hard out of the window. Two blocks away a crowd of rejoicing dockers were shouting 'Crooks! M. P. P. C.'"

"It will be a three-day wonder," apologized Mrs. Crooks airily, "but, perhaps, one good thing will grow from it."

"Young wives hereabouts may learn what can come from having brains and snug savings laid by. I'm thankful to think that my husband never had to stand back when a few shillings could help him forward."
